BULLETIN.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 12.—Monday.—(AP)—The financial committee of the conference on reparations adjustment again averted temporarily today the crisis which confronts it as a result of British proposals for revision of the Young plan. The committee met, but adjourned soon afterward until Wednesday without taking any action. Before the meeting there were reports that the French would seek adjournment to Geneva in September.

BULLETIN.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 12.—Monday.—(AP)—Chancellor of the Exchequer Snowden today made public a cablegram received from Ramsay MacDonald, British prime minister, indorsing his stand at the reparations conference. The message said in part: "The financial committee of the reparations conference will make a most serious mistake and may wreck immediate prospects of settlement unless they understand quite finally that the Young plan requires adjustment to meet the just claims of this country. Irrespective of party or section, the country supports the case you have made."

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Aug. 11.—Everybody kissed and made up this morning at a pious Sabath session of the international conference to liquidate the war problems. The British chancellor of the exchequer, Philip Snowden, assured Henri Cheron, French minister of finance, that he was not "grotesque" and "ridiculous." M. Cheron forgave his esteemed colleague for that, and Arthur Henderson, British Laborite secretary, said unctuously "that the entente cordiale continues."

Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, smiled at the allies squabbling among themselves and Premier Briand of France sardonically remarked now that everything is fixed up, the conference can get down to business tomorrow.

But Mr. Snowden's final closing address blew everybody's hat off again when he remarked, dryly, "I do not want this to be taken as any change in the attitude of the British delegation. We maintain our demands integrally."

No Settlement on Horizon.

Then everybody realized that the crippled chancellor of the exchequer had his fingers crossed when he offered to bury the hatchet, and the French, Italians, and Belgians ruefully came to the conclusion that they must give up part of their share of the indemnity if they want England to sign on the dotted line.

Since the incident was smoothed over it is generally believed that the wily politicians will avert an open rupture of the conference, but no one believe that the reparations can be settled here now.

Since Mr. Snowdon stated that Great Britain is satisfied with the amount and number of annuities Germany pays under the Young plan, and is satisfied that it is up to Germany's capacity, it is considered likely that part of the Young plan will be formally accepted here and plans completed for evacuation of the Rhineland on Sept. 1.

Serious Problems Involved.

Thus Germany will begin paying reduced amounts when the present fiscal year of the Dawes plan ends—$426,950,000 instead of $625,000,000. If the allies are not agreed on how to cut up the sum, will Germany pay, and to whom, is what the French are worried about. Even the Germans admit they would rather escape paying the reparations for a while than obtain liberation of the Rhineland.

Foreign Minister Dr. Gustav Stresemann also knows that the MacDonald government will insist on the withdrawing of the troops, even though the French and Belgians are reluctant to clear out.

Tomorrow the French, Belgian and British military officers from the respective armies of occupation will begin to make technical plans for retiring from German soil. It is estimated that the whole movement can be made in about ten days.

HOLD 3 IN FLAT, TAKE MANAGER TO OPEN SAFE

Bandits Cut Wires, Flee with $4,000.

In a smoothly executed midnight robbery, six amiable but determined bandits kidnaped the manager of the State-Congress theater from his wife and friends last night, compelled him to unlock the theater safe, containing between $4,000 and $5,000, and escaped with their loot to a rendezvous arranged by telephone in the presence of their prisoner.

The theater manager, Charles D. Peet, his wife, and their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Rath, had driven from the loop to the apartment building at 501 West 60th place, where both couples reside. As they alighted from Peet's automobile six armed and unmasked men stepped from two cars parked across the street and surrounded the two couples.

March Captives Into Flat.

"We're robbers, folks, but you needn't raise your hands," announced the bandit spokesman. He directed them to walk quietly into the Peet apartment on the main floor.

As Peet fumbled for his house key the same robber asked him if he were the theater manager. Peet admitted he was and when the party arrived inside Peet was detained in the dining room while his wife and the Raths were marched into the kitchen and told to sit down on the floor. One bandit drew the curtains and lights were switched on.

"Now, Mr. Manager, we'd like the combination of the theater safe," stated the bandit leader, who, with one of his confederates, remained in the dining room while the other four sauntered about the kitchen. Peet protested he didn't have the combination.

Twist Manager's Wrist.

"A little pressure for the gentleman, Jack," said the leader. His accomplice seized Peet's right wrist and began to twist it. Peet groaned and his wife uttered a scream in the kitchen.

"Enough of that, Jack. Now do you know the combination?" the robber chief inquired. Peet said he didn't, but admitted he might open the safe if he had the dial at his fingers.

The bandit leader called two henchmen from the kitchen. Leaving two to guard the women and Rath, the other four marched Peet to a new sedan across the street and sped to the theater, a burlesque house at 531 South State street.

Tie Up Two; Take Money.

The manager unlocked the door and led his captors to his office on the second floor. He was bound to a chair alongside Ellsworth Adams, 908 Montrose avenue, the night building superintendent, who was discovered in the balcony and subdued by a pistol display.

Peet's chair was pushed up close to the safe and his right hand freed to manipulate the dial. The tumblers yielded on the second trial. The four robbers loaded the currency and silver into a canvas sack.

Coolly the leader leafed the telephone directory for Peet's number and called it. An accomplice answered at Peet's home and the man in the theater office asked if everything was all right.

Cut Telephone Wires.

"All right, Jack, we'll meet and split the stuff at my house," said the leader. "You cut the wires at that end and I'll do the same here. We've got our men tied to chairs, but you needn't bother doing that at your end."

The bandit tore the telephone cord from the box, motioned his men to follow, and walked out with the money sack. Meanwhile at Peet's home a robber had stripped Mrs. Peet's two diamond rings from her fingers, examined them closely, and tossed them in her lap, saying he "couldn't use that stuff." The robber pair quit Peet's apartment after cutting the telephone wire, climbed into a green roadster, and were seen driving east in 60th street.

Save 2 Workers Overcome in 109 Foot Loop Caisson

Two men, working in a caisson 109 feet deep, being sunk for a 40 story office building to be erected at La Salle street and Wacker drive, were overcome by gas or lack of fresh air shortly after midnight this morning. The men, John O'Malley, a foreman, and Charles Murphy, a pump repairman, were brought to the surface unconscious and taken to St. Luke's hospital by firemen. Both will recover.

U. S. TOREADOR IS CRITICALLY HURT BY SPANISH BULL

LISBON, Aug. 11.—Sydney Franklin, New York bullfighter widely known throughout Spain, especially in Madrid and Seville, for his courage, was gored by a bull in the Campo Pequeno bull ring here this afternoon. His condition is serious.

Pleased Spanish Ring Fans.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 11.—Sydney Franklin, whose family lives in Brooklyn, made his debut as a bullfighter in Spain at Seville on June 10, when he killed two bulls. In doing so, he pleased a highly critical audience of 10,000 and won the approval of Seville's bull fight critics. He displayed "magnificent valor," one expert wrote, attributing his success not to chance or luck but to an ingrained understanding and feeling for what Latins regard a great art.

Late in June he fought again at Seville and tickets for his appearance were at a premium. On June 30, fighting his second bull in the day's corrida, his cape became entangled in the bull's horns, and the animal tossed him. After having his injuries dressed, Mr. Franklin dispatched the bull.

J. HARRY SELZ, HEAD OF SHOE COMPANY, DIES

J. Harry Selz, president of Selz, Schwab & Co., shoe manufacturers, died last night at his summer home, 740 Sheridan road, Glencoe. He was 65 years old and had been confined to his bed since January with a heart ailment.

Mr. Selz had been identified all his life with the business founded by his father, Morris Selz, in 1871, and was active in the affairs of several other corporations. He was a director of the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company and a member of the Union League, the Midday, the Standard, and the Lake Shore Country clubs. His winter home was at the Drake hotel.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Bertha Austrian Selz; two sons, Austin and Frank E., and two brothers, Emanuel F. and A. K. Selz.

Tosses Cigaret in Bunch of Balloons; Burns Boy

A practical joker flipped a lighted cigaret butt into the bunch of balloons carried by Tony Nortorella, 14 years old, 912 North Richmond street, as the boy was vending his wares in North St. Louis avenue yesterday. The resulting flash of flame burned the boy severely about the face and hands. The humorist escaped.

Rapist Gang Seizes 2 Girls; Nab 7 in Trap

Last Monday evening, a middle aged widow living in a quiet neighborhood of the southwest side, sent her two orphan nieces, 15 years old, to post a letter at the nearest mail box, three blocks away at 68th street and Western avenue.

About the same hour on Friday night, the girls, who are cousins and attend the same school, returned home to their aunt with a story of having been held prisoner for four days and nights in a barn in the forest preserve. In the interval twelve men had assaulted them, including a father and son. The names of the girls, because of their youth, were suppressed.

Police Trap Seven Men.

On Wednesday, the girls tried to escape but were brought back. On Friday afternoon, they were allowed to go on their promise to keep a rendezvous with four of their attackers last night. The girls kept their pledge but a police squad lay in wait and, as a result, five youths and two middle aged men were under arrest.

The girls told the police last night that when they reached the mail box Monday night, a sedan drove up and the two men in it seized them and pulled them into the car. They were driven away to a cottage in the forest preserve at Archer and Kean avenues.

Held by Father and Son.

The kidnapers, who identified themselves to the girls as Patrick Breen and Tony La Torro, took them to a barn behind the cottage and assaulted them, the girls said. The young men departed and the occupants of the cottage, Edward J. Murphy Sr., 53 years old, and his son and namesake, 20 years old, repeated the assault. The girls begged for liberty, pleading they were starved, but the father and son remained with them all night.

The next night the girls said the Murphys brought ten young men to the barn. On Wednesday the girls stole outside, crawled through an orchard, and were running down the road when the elder Murphy overtook them.

That night he and his son took them to a roadhouse at 85th street and Kean avenue operated by Joseph Borshis, who has been arrested. According to the complaint, Murphy and Borshis proposed that they become inmates of the resort for a share of the vice profits. The girls refused.

On Friday they complained of illness and promised to tell nothing of what had occurred if allowed to go home. They were to meet friends of the Murphys Sunday night at 79th and Halsted streets.

As they waited there four youths sauntered up. Sergt. Joseph Kelly and his squad pounced upon them from concealment and arrested them. The girls identified two of them, Claude Montgomery, 20 years old, 7627 South Sangamon street, and John Dempsey, 21 years old, 7842 Emerald avenue.

The other two suspects, Edward Conway, 21 years old, 7824 South Morgan street, and Joseph Walsh, 23 years old, 640 West 79th street, protested they had never seen the girls before and were not identified. They were detained, however, with the Murphys and Borshis, who were seized by highway police on instructions from the Chicago Lawn station.

Ford Helps Rescue 3 from Wreckage After Car Crash

Boston, Mass., Aug. 12.—[Special.]—Henry Ford in his shirt sleeves last night assisted in the rescue of two men and a boy from a blazing automobile, after a crash of four machines within 100 yards of the Wayside inn in Sudbury had brought death to one person and probably fatal burns to three others. Mr. Ford was sitting on the front porch of the inn when the accident happened. A second after a large sedan had crashed into the rear of a Boston-to-Worcester bus there was an explosion and a burst of flames. Mr. Ford, accompanied by the manager of the inn, E. J. Boyer, ran to where the three machines had piled into a heap after the first one had collided with the bus.

Young Bandits Admit Killing Two Druggists

Two youths, 18 and 20 years old, who early yesterday admitted they were the "collegiate" bandits who killed a druggist in a holdup on June 27, last night confessed the slaying of a second druggist and the shooting of a watchman who confronted them in flight from another robbery. According to their story, both youths are high school graduates. They said they had been robbers for six months.

The young gunmen were captured in their automobile at Madison and Market streets early Saturday morning by Lieut. John Carten and Sergt. John Quinn. They were planning the robbery of an all night drug store, the police said. At yesterday afternoon's showup 25 robbery victims identified them.

Confesses Killing Druggist.

Robert Camy, 18 years old, 507 South Homan avenue, who claims graduation from the New Harmony, Ind., High school, was the first to break under the questioning of Lieut. Walter Storms. His confession early yesterday cleared up the murder of George Schreiner, who was killed in his pharmacy at 5635 Division street by two bareheaded youths in decorated raincoats who leaped over the druggist's body and escaped without loot.

"Yes, that was one of our jobs," Camy admitted. "I entered first with my pal behind me. I called for a bottle of brilliantine, but when the druggist stepped towards the wall shelf I got a notion he was after a gun. So I fired.

Tells of Other Slaying.

Last night, after hours of questioning by Assistant State's Attorney Walker Butler and Lieut. Phil Carroll, Earl Nicholson, 20 years old, Camy's companion in the Schreiner slaying, confessed the murder of Leon Raymond, a druggist at 151 West North avenue, Oak Park, which the police had previously attributed to Willie Doody. Nicholson, who lives at 533 South Cuyler avenue, Oak Park, said he is a graduate of the Austin High school.

Raymond was killed during a holdup in his store on June 18, nine days before Schreiner was shot to death.

"The reason Raymond got it was because he looked dangerous," Nicholson explained. "When Camy and I walked in and ordered hands up, he gave us a sharp glance, lifted his hands half way, and started to walk to the rear.

"It was no time for fooling, so I gave it to him. We learned in the papers next day that he had been robbed once before and kept a gun."

Admit Shooting Watchman.

After both youths had signed their confessions they were seated side by side. While Camy nodded assent, Nicholson then made a clean breast of it for both by relating how they happened to shoot Joseph Jerry, a night watchman of 7631 Rhodes avenue, on the night of May 30.

They had held up Godfrey's drug store at 2200 East 71st stret. Ducking out the front door with $165, they encountered Jerry, who reached for his hip pocket. The youths each fired twice and the watchman fell with two bullets in his chest and two in his right arm. He is recovering.

The status of two young married women, who admitted living off the proceeds of the robberies and were seized with the youths, was not determined last night. The women are Mrs. Bertha McKee, 28 years old, and Mrs. Dorothy Allen, 20 years old, both of 8 South St. Louis avenue. Deputy Commissioner Stege, persuaded they had no part in their companions' crimes, had ordered their release, but the pair remained at the detective bureau early this morning. Mrs. Allen has a daughter 2 years old.

FORMER POLICE CAPTAIN STOREN, HIT BY AUTO, DIES

James O. Storen, 71 years old, former police captain, died early this morning in St. Anthony's hospital of injuries suffered when he was struck by an automobile at Ashland avenue and Monroe street on July 23. The driver of the car was Edward Deacy, 9436 South Bishop street. At Storen's request Deacy was not held.

PLANS TO HUNT FOR BRITAIN'S HAND IN POLICIES

Money Rate Up After Norman's Visit.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—Developments of the last few days in the credit situation have increased the certainty that congress will turn its attention this winter to an investigation of federal reserve board policies.

The part played by European financiers in controlling the actions of the board will figure prominently in whatever inquiries are undertaken.

Those who have observed the various shifts of position taken by the federal reserve board in the last three years find significance in the fact that Thursday's unexpected approval of an increase in the re-discount rate of the New York Federal Reserve bank followed closely upon a visit to this country of Sir Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England.

Norman's Mysterious Visit.

As has been the case at the time of previous visits of the British financier to the United States his movements were surrounded with considerable mystery and there has been no official admission that he transacted any business with reserve board officials.

Heretofore, Mr. Norman usually had come to Washington for a conference with Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and members of the federal reserve board. So much criticism followed his former visits that this time he remained away from Washington. It is known, however, that he was in the United States for four weeks, sailing for Europe only about ten days before the federal reserve board reversed the policy which it had pursued ever since last spring when it flatly refused to grant the requests of the New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia banks for permission to increase rediscount rates.

While members of the federal reserve board have denied seeing the Bank of England official while he was in the United States, it is taken for granted that he was in touch with some one connected with the federal reserve system.

Held Annual Conferences.

Formerly during the life of the late Benjamin Strong, governor of the New York Federal Reserve bank, it was customary for Mr. Norman and Mr. Strong to hold annual conferences, either in this country or in Europe. Usually they were joined by officials of the governmental banking institutions of France and Germany.

Since the death of Mr. Strong a year or more ago, George L. Harrison, his successor as head of the New York Federal Reserve bank, is credited with having maintained contact with Mr. Norman and other European financial powers. It is believed that Mr. Harrison was in touch with Mr. Norman during his recent visit.

Reports emanating from London since Mr. Norman's return have indicated that he arranged while in this country, for a credit of 500 million dollars for use if needed in maintaining British gold reserves which have been diminishing at a rate causing some degree of concern. A similar credit was arranged by Mr. Norman through the Federal Reserve bank of New York with the approval of the federal reserve board when the Bank of England reëstablished the gold standard a few years ago. Thus far there has been neither an admission nor denial from federal reserve officials to the correctness of the London report.

Feared Effect on England.

Just what part Mr. Norman may have played in the federal reserve board's decision to permit an increase in re-discount rates, if any, has not been made entirely clear. While resisting an increase in re-discount rates throughout the spring and summer, members of the board offered as one objection that it would force similar advances abroad, particularly in England, where industries could not with ease support higher interest rates. Unless the Bank of England increased its rate also it was asserted that it could not protect its gold supply.

The news of the increase of the New York rate was received somewhat unfavorably in England on the theory that it might force higher rates there. Mr. Norman, however, announced that the Bank of England would, for the present, maintain its rate at 5½ per cent. The advance in the New York rate was from five to six per cent.

Whether members of the federal reserve board came to the conclusion that other factors made it imperative for them to permit the New York bank to increase its rate regardless of the effect upon European finance or whether the reported arrangements of the Bank of England for a half billion dollar credit in this country had something to do with it are matters of speculation. Ever since the federal reserve board forced the Chicago federal reserve bank to lower its rediscount rate in the fall of 1927 as a means of helping the European gold situation members of the board have admitted that their policies are interwoven with considerations affecting international finance.

Upheaval in Memberships.

An upheaval in the membership of the board followed the controversy over the Chicago rate, Roy A. Young succeeding D. R. Crissinger as governor. Mr. Young after a year on the board made it known last fall that he had become convinced that it was desirable to take cognizance of European financial problems in the determination of policies.

Just prior to the board's action on the Chicago rediscount rate in 1927 as has been the case on two or three other occasions when important policies were decided upon, Mr. Norman and other European financiers were in this country and held conferences with officials of the federal reserve system.

Both the senate and the house banking and currency committees are expected to undertake inquiries into federal reserve board policies during the coming winter. Several resolutions looking toward such action were offered during the special session, but were sidetracked with a view to consideration during the regular session. The senate, in a resolution adopted last spring, sought information from the federal reserve board as to the desirability of legislation giving it power to deal more effectively with the credit situation. The board replied that it had no recommendations for legislation along this line.

Hoover Keeps Hands Off.

Representative L. T. McFadden [Rep., Pa.], chairman of the house banking and currency committee, has taken the position that the federal reserve board should not have interfered with the speculative situation when it issued warnings last February. Others have believed that it should have permitted rediscount rates to be increased in the spring. The increase at this late date, in the opinion of some, will have more injurious effects than if it had been made in the spring. For numerous reasons, members of congress seem to believe that the time is propitious for a reconsideration of basic laws governing the operations of the board.

So far as known, President Hoover has kept his hands off the federal reserve board. The President's principal contact with the board comes with the connection of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, as chairman and member of the board ex-officio.

There are no vacancies in prospect on the board which would give the President an opportunity to effect a reorganization.

The nine other occupants of the car, all taken to the Hinsdale sanitarium, several with possible skull fractures, were: Mr. and Mrs. John Fett Sr., Mr. and Mrs. John Fett Jr., and John Fett III., Miss Eleanor Hall, 18 years old, 3431 Kenilworth avenue, Berwyn; Mrs. Elvira Fluke, 58 years old; Miss E. Kinney, 20 years old, and Miss Elsie Collins.

Speeds Past Sign; Eight Hurt.

Eight women and children, two of whom are not expected to live, were injured when an automobile sped through a stop sign and crashed into another car at 68th street and Jeffery avenue. J. F. Brown, 3009 West 19th street, who failed to stop for the sign, was held on charges of reckless driving.

The injured, all of whom were taken to the Jackson Park hospital, were: Mrs. Nora McDonnell, 56 years old, 6920 Cregier avenue, and her daughter, Marcella, 21 years old, who are not expected to live; Mrs. Molly Nimiroff, 25 years old, 1407 South Trumbull avenue, and her infant daughter, Mary Phyllis, who received probable skull fractures; Mrs. Sophia Brown, 28 years old; Ruth Brown, 3 years old, and John Brown, 6 years old; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Creekbau, 6146 South Kimbark avenue.

Brown's car carried the other automobile twenty feet before stopping, witnesses said. Brown was unhurt, although his car was demolished.

Toll Raised to 522.

The Fett girl's death and four others raised the Cook county motor toll for 1929 to 522. The other victims were:

Joseph Pager, 24 years old, 15239 Third avenue, Phoenix, died in a Harvey hospital of injuries suffered when the motorcycle he was riding was crowded off the road by an automobile which failed to stop. The accident occurred on 159th street near Halsted street.

Donald Clark, 25 years old, 2450 Highland avenue, Cincinnati, died in the West Lake hospital, Melrose Park, of injuries suffered when his automobile collided with another at Thatcher road and Irving Park boulevard Saturday night. The other automobile was driven by Mrs. Anna Hudymowicz, 5033 Berenice avenue.

J. D. Reichblum, 90 Fourteenth street, Wheeling, W. Va. Willow Springs police investigated after Reichblum's automobile was wrecked in a They believed that Reichblum, a jewelry salesman, may have been fleeing from bandits when the accident occurred. Witnesses said Reichblum's car was being followed at high speed by another automobile when the crash came. The second automobile escaped when motorists hurried to the wrecked car. Cards in Reichblum's pockets indicated he was a salesman for a Pittsburgh precious stone dealer, but the jewels found in his sample case were imitations of little value.

F. D. Poindexter, 55 years old, colored, 5617 South Michigan avenue, was found dead in the street at Michigan avenue and 53d street after he had been run over by an automobile driven by Herbert Arthur, colored, 5224 Michigan avenue. Witnesses said Poindexter had been hit by a bus before Arthur's car struck him, but Arthur was held.

Three youths escaped with bruises and cuts in a collision at Le Moyne parkway and Humphrey avenue, Oak Park. Their automobile, after colliding with another car, rolled over twice and righted itself on a lawn forty feet away. The youths were Paul Husar, 19 years old, 1709 South Peoria street; Anthony Skycak, 21 years old, 1722 String street, and Elmer Petulik, 21 years old, 2143 South California avenue.

Walter Royles, colored, 33 years old, 3922 Magoun avenue, East Chicago, was killed yesterday when a car in which he was riding was struck by a train at a railroad crossing in Gary.

An automobile thief was captured by Bellwood police after a three mile chase. The fugitive, J. W. Hiett, 30 years old, after being caught, broke away again and raced three miles more before wrecking his car and surrendering.

13 Killed When Crack Train Hits Truck of Picnic Party

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Thirteen persons were killed tonight when the Sunshine Special, crack train of the Texas and Pacific railroad, struck a truck bearing home a picnic party at a grade crossing leading to the Forney-Terrell highway, twenty miles east of here. The accident nearly wiped out two families.

Eleven persons were killed outright, one died in a Mesquite hospital, and one in a hospital at Forney. The fourteenth member of the party, a little girl, was rushed to Dallas and placed upon an operating table.

Father Sees Family Die.

The accident occurred within one hundred and fifty yards of the home of eight of the persons killed, Mrs. Iva Badgett and her seven children. Badgett was drawing water from a well and turned just in time to see his family die.

Three other victims were members of the Henry family, whose first names were not learned. Claud Chapman of Mesquite, only other known eye witness, said the truck was stopped at the rail crossing as if to await passage of the fast passenger train and then suddenly sped onto the tracks.

The Sunshine Special, en route east, was halted within a short distance, and then went on.

The pilot, Kaeser, said he proposed to rest here several days while he and his companions tuned up the plane.

FIREWORKS BLAST AT CELEBRATION INJURES TWELVE

The Italian society of St. Rocco di Modugno had held a carnival there yesterday in honor of their patron saint. The climax was to be a fireworks display, provided by Michael Mangiarde, president of the society.

Just as the signal came for lighting the fireworks something went amiss and the powder carefully arranged to blaze the saint's image in color exploded in a mass. Windows in the adjacent Washington school and in shops and dwellings for a block around were shattered. Twelve persons, cut by flying glass or bruised in the panicky rush, were taken to nearby hospitals. None was seriously hurt.

Schooner, Icebound for Year, Crushed by Floes

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 11.—(AP)—The schooner Elise, icebound off North cape in the Bering sea more than a year, was crushed to bits by ice floes early yesterday, private advices received today said. The Stovotoll was proceeding to the rescue of the survivors.

AMERICA ADRIFT ON HIGH LIQUOR TIDE, WETS FIND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—The era of Volsteadism has been accompanied by a rise in the number of arrests for drunkenness, a constantly increasing death rate from alcoholism, and annual increases in the amount of illicit liquor seized, comparative statistics made public today by the Association Against the Prohibition Law revealed.

The association's report, entitled "Measuring the Liquor Tide," asserts that the number of stills seized in 1928 was more than seventeen times as great as in 1920, when the prohibition law went into effect. Liquor seizures, the report stated, had jumped to an even greater degree.

Seize 32 Million Gallons.

The figures quoted disclosed increases from 15,416 pieces of distilling apparatus seized in 1920 to 261,611 seized in 1928.

The liquor seizures, the report stated, jumped from 153,735 gallons seized in 1920 to 32,474,234 gallons in 1928.

"Seizures of contraband liquor and distilling apparatus steadily have increased during the entire prohibition period," the statement points out. "The rise in liquid seizures has been accompanied by a similar rise in all other indexes, arrests for drunkenness, deaths from alcoholism, alcoholic insanity, and drunken drivers.

Southern States Lead List.

"The southern states lead the list both with respect to seizures of liquor and distilling apparatus. Some of the northern and eastern states rank fairly high with respect to liquor seized but low with respect to illicit stills. In other words, the states on the Atlantic coast and the state of Michigan, which imports large quantities of liquor from Ontario, appear to be fairly well supplied with illicit liquor.

"The southern states and some western states appeared to be the favored spots for the illicit manufacture of liquor."

The association's figures on drunkenness were based on the annual number of arrests for 518 communities. These statistics state that the number of arrests had jumped from 279,939 for the 518 cities in 1920 to 668,324 for the same communities in 1927.

Survey 500 Communities.

"There is no official tabulation of arrests for drunkenness for the entire country, the association reveals in explaining its figures on drunkenness since prohibition went into effect.

"The Moderation league has compiled the annual arrests for drunkenness for more than 500 communities. With the exception of the figures for Chicago these figures generally are considered to be accurate and reliable.

"The inclusion of arrest figures for Chicago have been objected to because police reports from that city include persons arrested for disorderly conduct with arrests for drunkenness."

Additional statistics based on arrests for drunkenness in thirty-eight large cities, Chicago not included, disclosed that the arrest rate per 10,000 inhabitants jumped from 71 in 1920 to 125 in 1922 and 154 in 1927.

Deaths Pass Pre-War Level.

As proof of its contention that the rate of deaths from alcoholism now has risen to its pre-war level and still is rising, the association quoted statistics for the registration areas which were described as including approximately 50 per cent of the population.

The death rate from alcoholism per 100,000 industrial policy holders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company also was included as evidence that alcoholic drinking is just as prevalent among the laboring classes as among richer classes.

The death rate from alcoholism rose from 1 per 100,000 population in 1920, according to the statistics for the registration areas, to 4 in 1927.

In 1920 27.8 persons per 100,000 lost their licenses for driving while intoxicated. This was compared to a rate of 56.8 per 100,000 for 1928.

Attacks Treaty

Former Gov. Frank O. Lowden, introduced as the "father of the 33d Division,," declared that "the idea of perpetual peace is largely a dream" in an appeal for preparedness before 8,000 national guardsmen at Camp Grant yesterday. He warned that danger lurks in America's acceptance of the Kellogg treaty as a basis for international disarmament. More than 25,000 visitors inspected the camp during the day. The annual field day was observed with athletic contests from 9 to 11 a. m. At their close, former Gov. Lowden and Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn reviewed the troops. The address was made in the Bell bowl in the afternoon.

Safe Balks Burglar; He Promises to Try Again

A burglar last night entered the offices of Schultz & Co., cleaners, 820 East 63d street, through a skylight and made a vain attempt to open a safe. He left a note saying: "Will have to use nitro on this safe. Please leave the bar off the back door. I hate to climb. The kiddies will have no candy tonight."

WIFE ENDS LIFE WITH GAS; TWO HURT BY BLAST

Husband, Boy Burned as Explosion Wrecks Home.

An explosion of gas, which a woman turned on to kill herself, critically injured her husband and a 7 year old boy yesterday afternoon. The blast shattered the home and broke windows in the surrounding houses.

Mrs. Emily Strahamer, 29 years old, 5638 South Honore street, was the woman who killed herself. Her husband, Joseph, 31 years old, a cabinetmaker, and her nephew, Otto Jaretz, 7, are in the Southwestern General hospital, seriously burned.

Leaves Wife Alone in House.

The Strahamer home, a one story frame cottage, is at the rear of the lot at the Honore street address. In the front is the house occupied by Mrs. Mary Jaretz, a sister of Mrs. Strahamer. Early yesterday afternoon the husband went to the Jaretz house, leaving his wife asleep.

The husband went home at 4 o'clock and found the doors and windows locked. The odor of gas was escaping from the windows and he broke one of them with a piece of wood. He and the little boy were climbing into the house when the explosion blew them back into the yard, their hair and clothes ablaze.

Children at Sister's Home.

Strahamer beat out the flames on the boy and himself and tried to climb back through the window. Neighbors restrained him and Battalion Chief Charles McClaughry, who had arrived with two fire companies, carried the body of Mrs. Strahamer from the wrecked cottage.

Two children of Mrs. Strahamer, a 5 year old boy and a 3 year old girl, were at the sister's home. In a note found near her body she asked that Mrs. Jaretz care for them.

Firemen found all the gas burners on the kitchen stove open. They said they believed a pilot light had ignited the accumulated gas.

$250,000 COTTAGE ROBBERY LEADS TO SECOND TRY AT COLONY

Beverly, Mass., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—Revelation of a second attempt at robbery made only an hour after thieves had stolen $250,000 in gems from the Beverly home of Sidney E. Hutchinson threw the north shore colony into a panic today.

News that an effort had been made to enter Roseledge cottage on the estate of Francis I. Amory, Boston investment broker, was made public as the police were trying to find a clew to the Hutchinson robbery.

At 4:30 a. m. Alice Gevin, maid in the Amory household, was awakened when two or more men attempted to raise the screen in her room. She leaped from bed, snapped on the light, heard a muffled chatter of conversation and the intruders fled.

Fearing a gang of jewel thieves are operating, wealthy residents in the colony sent in calls for private detectives to guard their cottages.

Earth Whirls Into Path of Meteor Shower Tonight

Cambridge, Mass., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Between midnight and dawn tomorrow the earth will whirl into the midst of a shower of "the tears of St. Lawrence," the brightest meteoric display of the year, Dr. Willard J. Fisher of the Harvard university observatory said today. This shower, consisting presumably of the debris of comets and radiating from the constellation Perseus, will be visible in the northeast sky about two months. It has been an annual visitant since ancient times.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Aug. 11.—Decision as to the day the Graf Zeppelin will take off for Tokio on the second leg of the great dirigible's around the world journey has been delayed by the failure of Russia thus far to approve the commander's request for permission to fly over Siberia.

Dr. Hugo Eckener outlined a northern and a southern Siberian route, the choice to be dependent on weather conditions. He hopes to start on the night of Tuesday-Wednesday or, at the latest, Wednesday-Thursday.

Uncharted Air Route Ahead.

Dr. Eckener thought the trip to Tokio would prove a more difficult undertaking than any the Graf or any other airship so far had ventured. The territory which had to be traversed, he observed, is absolutely new land to air navigation, with only very inadequate maps of it in existence. He was certain that all would go well, however.

In Tokio everything was prepared for the reception of the Graf, he said, and he hoped to reach the Japanese capital within 120 hours, although the distance is about 6,600 miles and would tax motors and crew severely, and despite the fact that the dirigible's nominal radius is only 6,000 miles.

An engineer from the Maybach company, makers of the motors, said tonight that it was his firm conviction that the Graf Zeppelin's motors could be relied upon to work without cessation for 1,000 hours.

It was reported tonight that Dr. Geronimo Megias of Madrid might be a passenger, his services as a medical man being desirable.

Crew Keep Busy.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Sunday proved no day of rest for the Zeppelin workers. They were busy preparing the Graf Zeppelin for the second and most difficult stage in its round the world passenger flight, its four day flight to Tokio.

However much in need of repose the officers and crew may have seemed on Saturday after the completion of the airship's second round trip Atlantic crossing within a year, they all declared their long sleep yesterday afternoon and evening had put them in shape again.

The officers of the giant dirigible fully realize the gravity of the task ahead of them. They are therefore eliminating everything superfluous to diminish the weight. The comfort of the messes of officers and crew has been reduced to Spartan simplicity.

They have also eliminated everything likely to cause friction and thus retard the progress of the ariship. This care for detail has gone to the extent of revarnishing all propellers that their surfaces may be perfectly smooth to afford a minimum of resistance to the air.

For fuel the Graf Zeppelin will take a maximum supply of blau gas and a minimum of benzine, for three reasons, viz.: The engines respond more readily to it, it weighs less, and the ratio of its effectiveness compared with benzine is 140 to 100.

Chicago Chops Reach Berlin.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 11.—The work of unpacking the freight brought from America aboard the Graf Zeppelin was completed today. A silk pillow case, an American present for President von Hindenburg, was one of the last packages to be forwarded this noon.

Lamb chops sent by Swift & Co. of Chicago for the banquet of the world's advertising congress arrived in Berlin this morning. The bulldog who crossed in the Zeppelin spent the whole night here but today his owner, Frau Doktor Wertheim, came to retrieve him and took the animal by motor to her home at Frankfurt.

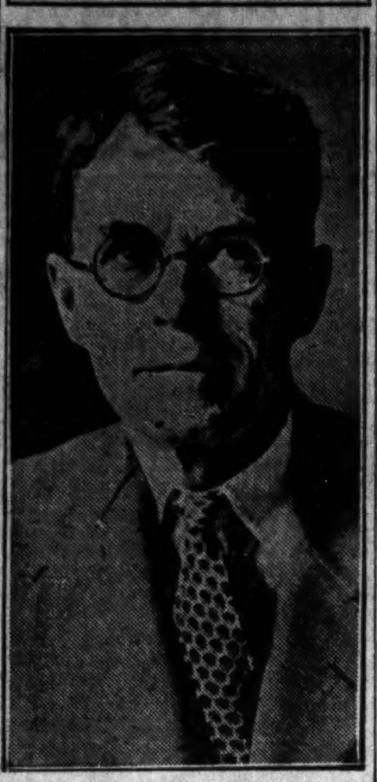
Will Use Only Four Motors.

Dr. Eckener thanked his men for their collaboration and explained to the crew that on the flight to Tokio he intends to use only four motors at all times, keeping one in reserve for an emergency. "We will try to keep up to the four day flying schedule set yesterday," the commander said, "but it will not make any difference if we are in the air a day or two longer than expected. We shall act only according to the principles of safety, not necessarily to establish a record."

Hunt His Scaffold



Horace Alderman, convicted slayer of three revenue agents in Florida, who is under sentence to hang Aug. 17. However, the U. S. has no scaffold, having been denied the use of the roof or yard of the Broward county jail.

YOUTH BATTLING POLAR BEAR SHOT IN RESCUE EFFORT

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 11.—From King's bay there is now available a detailed report of a tragedy that has befallen the party which the engineer Giannini Albertini is leading on a search for possible survivors of Col. Umberto Nobile's Italia expedition.

It appears that the young scientist, Guidoz, whose job was to undertake radio experiments on short wave lengths, left the expedition during a sledge excursion. He was observed being attacked by a polar bear. Sig. Albertini hastened to try to rescue him with a rifle, but fell at the same time as he intended to fire while running over an ice floe. The shot hit Guidoz, who died a few minutes later.

Guidoz was only twenty-five and had recently passed his examination. He was a personal friend of the commander, who esteemed him extremely both as a man and a scientist.

FRUIT MEN UNITE IN $50,000,000 MARKETING CO-OP

Julius Barnes and Jardine Head Association.

New York, Aug. 11.—[Special.]—Formation of a $50,000,000 coöperative marketing association as a national agency to unite national and local growers' organizations dealing in fruit and vegetables was announced today.

The association was incorporated in Delaware on Saturday under the name of the United Growers of America. The chairman of the board is Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the United States chamber of commerce and at one time president of the United States food administration grain corporation. Another member is William M. Jardine, secretary of agriculture in the Coolidge administration.

60 Subsidiaries to Be Served.

In its initial work the association will serve sixty subsidiary coöperatives in 25 states.

The organization of the co-öperative marks the second major step in the combination of agricultural coöperatives since the new federal farm board began to function. On July 26 the Farmers National Grain corporation was organized to unite grain selling coöperatives on a national scale.

The announcement of the United Growers came without preliminary intimation from the farm board. The organizers, however, have been in communication with Secretary of Agriculture Hyde and Chairman Legge of the farm board, and their program has the general approval of both.

Already assured of substantial support in their project by local coöperative and private marketing concerns, the initiators of the enterprise are negotiating with additional groups throughout the country with a view to forming a still more comprehensive union among the growers of fruit and vegetables.

Prominent Men on Board.

From executive offices in New York a national and international sales service for the joint use of the member associations will be directed.

Besides Mr. Barnes and Mr. Jardine the board will include Robert W. Bingham of Louisville, Ky., publisher of the Louisville Times and Courier-Journal; Arthur R. Rule, executive vice president of the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers; Henry W. Jeffers, president of the Walker-Gordon company, milk producers; John Burgess, Minneapolis banker, and Gray Silver of Martinsburg, W. Va., organizer of the farm bloc in congress.

Other directors to a total of fifteen will be named. The counsel for the organization will be Aaron Sapiro, New York attorney, who has been connected with many coöperative programs.

3 DIE, $1,000,000 LOSS IN STORM ON CHILEAN COAST

ANTOFAGASTA, Chile, Aug. 11.—[U. P.]—A fierce storm which swept the coast Friday and Saturday nights caused more than $1,000,000 damage and cost the lives of three persons. More than 1,800 feet of the new breakwater at this port was destroyed by high waves. Small craft anchored in the harbor were sunk or driven ashore and broken to pieces. Officials estimated that completion of the harbor improvement project has been set back almost three years.

Snow Holds Up Train.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 11—[U. P.]—The minister of marine was instructed by President Carlos Ibanez today to go to Antofagasta on the fast destroyer Hyatt to determine the extent of damage done by the storm.

A heavy snowstorm in the Andes mountains has forced suspension of railroad service between Argentina and Chile for the last thirty hours and stalled a train in the mountains. A rotary snowplow left here this morning to clear the track.

Gasoline Blast Wrecks Roadhouse; Owner Hurt

A gasoline explosion, followed by fire, early yesterday wrecked the Westchester Inn, Mannheim road and 22d street. The blast occurred when Frank Banecik, proprietor, lighted a match near a gasoline storage tank in the basement while searching for a short circuit in the electric wiring. The place was in darkness when the tank exploded, and more than 100 guests were thrown into a panic. Banecik was badly burned.

HOOVER READY FOR WORK AFTER WEEK-END OUTING

President's Party Breaks Camp Early Today.

Madison, Va., Aug. 11.—(AP)—The quiet of his usual week-end outing broken by the observance of his fifty-fifth birthday, President Hoover is to return to the White House early tomorrow morning from his fishing camp in the mountains near here.

Although heads of two government departments, Secretary Hyde of agriculture, and Surgeon General Cumming of the public health service, were members of the presidential party, relaxation and not governmental business has been the keynote of the week-end.

Hike and Ride in Mountains.

To the President, his weekly holidays are means of breaking the strain of White House duties, and he avoids business as much as possible.

Hiking and horseback riding along the paths surrounding the mountain retreat are customarily the chief diversions for Mr. and Mrs. Hoover and their guests. The usual routine was upset this week, however, by the birthday dinner, in which the first lady and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were leaders, and a bit of engineering work in which the President took the lead.

Pools for Fish Formed.

Only the men participated in the labor, which consisted of blocking the headwaters of the Rapidan river to provide pools in which trout may gather. Several of the men donned high rubber boots and waded into the stream after large stones and carried them to the dams, where they were set in place by the others.

Secretary and Mrs. Hyde, with William Allen White, Kansas newspaper publisher, returned to Washington late today.

World's Boy Scouts March in Liverpool; End Jamboree

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Boy Scouts of all nations, who have just concluded a world jamboree at Arrowe park, attended a special service in the cathedral today. It was estimated that 100,000 persons lined the streets from the pier to the cathedral to watch the procession of contingents of scouts in their national uniforms.

U. S. FLAG LEADS BERLIN PARADE OF REPUBLICANS

Capital Celebrates Tenth Birthday of Constitution.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—With a waving of the black, red and yellow flags of the Republic, bands playing martial tunes, and airplanes whirring overhead, the population of Berlin today celebrated the tenth anniversary of the Weimar constitution. The American flag loomed bright and colorful in the vanguard of the parade of Germany's republicans. It was carried by a group of New Yorkers and Chicagoans stepping gayly to the tunes of the brass bands of the republican organization "Reichsbanner."

Today's festivities were far the most elaborate and impressive republican demonstration Germany has ever seen. There was only a little of that spontaneous gayiety and enthusiasm marking the American July 4 or the French July 14, but the serried masses of spectators and demonstrators testified to the wonderful strengthening of republican feeling.

Parades Honor Fallen.

The main spectacle was the march past the former palace and Unter den Linden to the temporary monument to the unknown soldier, decorated in black, red and gold, which was erected at the foot of Brandenburg gate, where the Reichsbanner men dipped their flags and saluted the memory of the men who fell in the war and days of revolution.

In their gray khaki, linen jackets and flat caps decorated with Germany's national colors, and carrying huge flags, it took the 150,000 members of the Reichsbanner more than four hours to pass the monument to the dead.

Their procession was livened up by bright groups of Boy Scouts, sporting groups of provincial contingents, such as Rhinelanders, Hamburgers, and especially Austrians, who were smart in dapper uniforms.

Austrians Are Cheered.

Spontaneous ovations greeted the Austrians. This was partly a political response to a speech by Herr Hoersing, Reichsbanner commander, who insisted that the republicans of Austria and Germany form one family.

The monument to the war dead in front of Brandenburg gate carried a huge inscription, "To all dead of the war," meant also as a tribute to the heroes of other nations.. It also carries an inscription for victims of the war of the revolution, but the latter is unhappily phrased, pointing to "victims of the republic," which fills with glee the opponents of the republic, both communists and Nationalists.

Despite the efforts of the communists to turn today's republican celebration into an all around free-for-all fight, big clashes were avoided, thanks to the good discipline of the demonstrating republicans and the careful preparations of the police.

Arrest 63 Communists.

At early dawn the police surrounded communistic headquarters and threw back communistic bands trying to concentrate there. Sixty-three communists were arrested in the course of the day.

American members of the advertising congress who attended the services at the cathedral of the former kaiser were flabbergasted when Priest Richter used the "Render unto the kaiser what is the kaiser's, unto God what is God's" text for his sermon.

President Paul von Hindenburg attended services at Dreifaltigkeitskirche, presided at a formal celebration of Constitution day in the reichstag, and took a salute from the guard of honor. The veteran chief of state is leaving tonight for a holiday in Bavaria.

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

THE HAGUE, Aug. 11.—In today's skirmish at "the battle of The Hague" Louis Loucheur of France, in making an impassioned plea to Philip Snowden of Great Britain to be more conciliatory, said that other countries had been rudely surprised to find England refusing to accept the Young plan after her experts, working in consultation with the British treasury, had signed it.

Mr. Snowden arose and replied: "Once there was a Scotsman who was playing football on Sunday. He was killed. He went to hell. It made him angry and he demanded of the devil: 'Why am I here? I did not know it was wrong to play football on Sunday.'

"'Well,' replied the devil, 'you know it now.'

"And you did not know Great Britain would refuse the Young plan? Well, you know it now."

Gotham Streets Deadlier Than Bull Run Battlefield

New York, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The combined Union and Confederate losses at the first battle of Bull Run were less than one-ninth as large as the number killed or injured in 1928 in New York City in highway accidents. The annual report of the police department disclosed that more than 1,000 persons were killed and 45,000 injured in New York last year. The losses at Bull Run were 2,896 for the federals, and 1,982 for the confederates.

SNOWDEN BOWS TO FRANCE, BUT NOT ON DEBT

impudence" of the British Chancellor of Exchequer Snowden's outbreak yesterday than the grave international consequences, which are inevitable unless a miracle is performed tomorrow.

The front page of every newspaper in Paris—and there are not fewer than thirty—today splashed indignant headlines decrying the unparalleled "insolence" of the little lame Yorkshire man. A few of the journals go deeper into the question of politeness and make no attempt to refute the chancellor's figures. They content themselves with arguments based on pure sentimentality—the same tactics as were engaged in opposing ratification of the American debt accords.

In the meantime "Uncle Shylock" has been entirely forgotten and "John Bull" has suddenly assumed the rôle of usurer, who is coldbloodedly demanding his pound of flesh.

J. P. Morgan at Hague, Rumor.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—[U. P.]—It was rumored here tonight that J. Pierpont Morgan, one of the American framers of the Young reparations plan, had gone to The Hague to help the international reparations conference out of its difficulties. Members of the Morgan household at his country place near Watford said tonight that he was absent, and that nothing was known of his whereabouts.

German Delegates Celebrate.

THE HAGUE, Aug. 11.—[U.P.]—The political issues before The Hague conference and Germany's fondest hopes for evacuation of the Rhine were brought to the front tonight by Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, in a speech before the German legation on Constitution day.

Dr. Stresemann made an eloquent plea for France to withdraw her troops from the Rhineland before the new year.

TIP BY WOMAN LED TO RAID ON MASSEE YACHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—It was revealed today that an unidentified woman and not a former member of the crew furnished the anonymous tip which led to the government raid on the luxurious yacht Margo at Detroit and the subsequent seizure of the vessel and forty cases of contraband liquor hidden below deck.

The woman's tip, treasury officials disclosed, netted the government just $30,000, the amount of the penalties imposed on Burt A. Massee of Chicago, owner of the yacht.

Cruising in South Seas.

Representatives of Mr. Massee, who now is cruising in the South seas, paid the fine to prevent confiscation of the vessel, but it was assumed by government officials that he would be reimbursed by Louis Mendelssohn of Detroit, who had chartered the yacht from its Chicago owner.

Officials would not reveal the name of the woman who informed the government of the liquor cargo carried by the Margo. It was disclosed, however, that the woman called the Detroit customs office by long distance telephone from New York and gave specific directions as to where the liquor was hidden.

Intimate Knowledge of Yacht.

The government's tipster, it was said, disclosed an intimate knowledge of the interior of the yacht. She not only supplied the customs agents with the exact number of cases, but added to this information the name of the port where the liquor had been taken on board and the exact compartments where it was stored.

The government men, acting on this evidence, boarded the vessel, marched directly to the compartment mentioned by the New York woman and found the liquor.

According to government agents here, the woman gave no hint of the motive which prompted her to tip off the fact that the yacht was well supplied with whisky.

DENIES MASSEE PAID.

According to a statement issued here Saturday by Kirkland, Fleming, Green & Martin, attorneys for Mr. Massee, the latter's sole interest in the case is "that he happened to be the owner."

"If any sum has been paid to the government for the yacht's release it has been done by Mr. Mendelssohn," the statement added.

COLORED LEADERS ASK EQUAL RIGHTS AT CITY BEACHES

Seek Police Protection for Negro Bathers.

A group of influential Negroes met yesterday in the Appomatox club at 3632 South Park way to discuss attacks on persons of their race at the Jackson park beach. A committee was appointed to call on Police Commissioner Russell and the members of the south park board for official assurances that all colored bathers will be granted equal rights at Chicago's beaches and will be protected there by the police.

Among those at the meeting were F. L. Barnett, former assistant state's attorney; Dr. George Cleveland Hall, physician, who has lived in Chicago for sixty years; Robert T. Terry, Republican leader in the Sixth ward; Nathan S. Taylor, assistant United States district attorney; Mary C. Clarke, colored women's leader; Augustus L. Williams, D. J. Maddox, and W. M. Farmer.

Barnett Asks Coöperation.

Mr. Barnett, who presided, said that both whites and Negroes must take steps to prevent any outbreak on the south side.

"The situation is a menace to the welfare and peace of the community," he said. "I know that all good colored people want to be law abiding, and I believe the whites do, also. But I don't believe it is just that the colored bathers should be attacked because they go bathing at the only places provided for citizens to bathe."

Mr. Taylor said he thought a committee should be appointed to outline a proper course of action for the colored bathers. He declared he believed the race problem in Chicago a large one and that the best minds of both races should cope with it.

Urges Beaches for Negroes.

Mr. Terry said that no adequate beach has been provided between Roosevelt road and 63d street, and that if proper bathing facilities were provided adjacent to the colored district the present difficulty might be solved.

Dr. Hall declared he did not believe there is anything to be excited about.

"Yesterday," he said, "there were thirty policemen and a patrol wagon at the beach to keep the peace and almost no Negroes appeared to bathe. We can't ask much more than that kind of protection."

"Yes," said Mr. Barnett, "but because there were thirty there yesterday, does that assure us we will have protection all the time?"

Mrs. Clarke then introduced the resolution asking the authorities for public assurance of protection and it was unanimously adopted.

JULIUS ROSENWALD 67 TODAY; FAMILY PARTY ON PROGRAM

Julius Rosenwald will spend his 67th birthday at his home in Highland Park today, surrounded by members of his family.

"They include three in-laws and five out-laws," he said last night, explaining that the latter are his own children. The party will consist of Mrs. David M. Levy of New York, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Stern of New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. Lessing T. Rosenwald and William Rosenwald of Philadelphia, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred K. Stern of Ravinia.

Five of his eleven grandchildren also will be present, Mr. Rosenwald said. He plans to take them to Fort Sheridan to watch visitors' day drills at the citizens' military training camp this morning.

U. S. INCONSISTENT TOWARD SOLDIER, LEGION IS TOLD

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—Federal inconsistency in providing $54,000,000 for what Herbert Hoover calls a "noble experiment," and then refusing $11,000,000 for the care of thousands of soldiers disabled in the world war, was alleged before an audience of 8,000 delegates to the American Legion convention here last night by Scott W. Lucas, national judge advocate.

"These men went out in 1917 and 1918 on another noble experiment," the speaker said, "and today, they are 3,000 neuro psychiatrics."

Lucas declared that the American Legion would never sanction naval disarmament on a large scale until it should be instituted by all European nations.

Mr. Lucas' address was before the opening meeting of a four day session of the Wisconsin department.

SULTRY SUNDAY DRAWS RECORD BEACH CROWDS

Beach attendance records tumbled yesterday as the temperature hovered in the sultry eighties. An estimated 450,000 flocked to the four principal municipal beaches and overtaxed bath houses. Another 25,000 dotted the sands along the north shore suburbs.

Between 40 and 50 bathers incurred minor injuries in the crush and 25 were rescued from drowning. One swimmer met death at an unsupervised section of the lake shore on the south side and another Chicagoan was drowned in Indiana.

Drowns on Fishing Trip.

Ernest Miller, 17 years old, 2308 South Hoyne avenue, was the swimmer drowned here. With two companions, he went fishing at 13th street about dawn. Miller stripped, plunged in, and had paddled about 200 feet out when he called for help.

Adolph Chapman, 2117 West 23d place, dived in, but became exhausted and returned to shore. Another fisherman recovered the body. Resuscitation was attempted without result.

Joseph Kozel, 45 years old, 3114 West 43d street, was drowned while swimming with a party of friends at Cedar Lake, Ind. The body was recovered.

The life guards at Jackson park beach performed 15 rescues. Approximately 75,000 bathers swarmed the sands or stood in line, in some cases more than two hours, to purchase tickets for lockers.

Two Rescued at 75th Street.

Fifty thousand was the estimated attendance at the 75th street beach. With inadequate locker facilities, the bathers strolled to the beach in their swimming suits or arrived in cars, which lined the curbs four blocks in all directions. Two children were rescued from drowning and fifteen applied for treatment for scratched limbs or head bumps.

As usual, Clarendon beach led the others in attendance figures, with 150,000 packing the sands and standing shoulder to shoulder in the water out to the life lines. No rescues were necessary and only a handful applied for treatment to trivial injuries.

Figures for other city beaches were as follows: Rogers Park, 10,000; Diversey, 35,000; 79th street, 10,000, and Calumet, 1,000. Maple street beach, Winnetka, attracted 4,000, the greatest number of any north shore beach. A water carnival arranged by the Winnetka park board was the attraction.

DIES IN HOTEL ROOM.

Joseph E. Levy, 76 years old, retired merchant, died yesterday morning in his room at the Seneca hotel, 200 East Chestnut street. He had ben suffering from heart disease. His wife died seven months ago.

START SURVEYS TODAY FOR SAFE ROAD CROSSINGS

County Seeks Rights of Way for Projects.

BY HAL FOUST.

County Highway Superintendent Quinlan will begin work today on the surveys preliminary to the construction of thirty highway grade separations, eight combined railway and highway grade separations and three traffic circles.

These improvements were recommended in a report by a citizens' advisory committee headed by Elmer T. Stevens, which will be submitted to the county board at this week's meeting. Parliamentary procedure—reference to the roads and bridges committee and so forth—will consume at least two weeks in the official adoption of the report, but Maj. Quinlan will not let formalities delay the field work.

Seek Rights of Way.

The first step preliminary to construction is the acquisition of rights of way. The county has met trouble in obtaining rights of way in recent years and this experience is one of the reasons that the highway superintendent is taking a jump ahead of routine procedure.

A couple of years ago the county announced a site for a grade separation and, according to the officials, a property owner moved his building onto land that would be required for the improvement, possibly so that the old structure might be condemned.

A prompt survey of the terrain at the forty-one intersections announced last week as sites of projects will prevent any new private developments from getting in the way of the public improvements, Maj. Quinlan pointed out.

Plan to Get Plenty of Room.

Commissioner Francis L. Boutell, chairman of the county board's subcommittee on grade separations, will introduce two resolutions at this week's meeting designed to protect the rights of way. These legislative acts were part of the advisory body's recommendations.

The first resolution would amend the county's subdivision rules so that plats to be approved must provide 120 feet of right of way for 660 feet in each direction from intersections of section line roads, state bond issue roads, county and state aid roads and also at the intersections of these highways with railroads.

The second resolution is intended to be used in acquiring sites for grade separations where the land has already been subdivided. This would be done by exercising the county's police power in protecting public safety. The same area at the important intersections would be obtained by enforcing new building lines.

Jams at Highway Crossings.

Sunday motorists on the congested highways of the metropolitan area again found yesterday that much of the delay and jamming is due to cars being held for traffic at road crossings, delays that are expected to be removed by the construction of grade separations.

Incidentally, many motorists found for the first time that North Ashland avenue, with its eight or ten traffic lanes, has been newly opened as far south as Irving Park boulevard. On various east and west streets Ashland was taking traffic from Sheridan road bound for McCormick road by way of Devon avenue.

ANTI-AIRCRAFT WEAPONS OF NEW TYPE TO BE TRIED

Extensive Tests Planned for This Fall.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—Extensive tests of the war department's latest developed anti-aircraft weapons will be conducted at the Aberdeen proving grounds in Maryland this fall, it was disclosed today. Included among the weapons to be tested are a new battery of four 3 inch anti-aircraft mobile guns and a multiple machine truck mount carrying four .50 caliber machine guns.

The authorized expenditure of ammunition for the exercises is 4,000 rounds of 3 inch anti-aircraft shrapnel, 50,000 rounds of .50 caliber ball ammunition, and 5,000 rounds of caliber .50 tracer ammunition. All weapons will be equipped with the ordnance department's latest developed fire control instruments. In order to test out the actual fighting value of the new fire control instruments, pilots will be permitted to maneuver the aerial targets at will in altitude, speed and direction.

Uses Its Own "Sighting."

The new ordnance department fire control director for mobile weapons is purely a post-war development. Through its use the height, range and speed of targets are computed automatically and furnished to the guns electrically, so that little is left for the gun crew to do except to fire them.

"In the latest developed system," Capt. G. M. Wells, ordnance department specialist, said today:

"An anti-aircraft directors computes automatically and continuously the future position of the target in space and corrects for all abnormal conditions which affect the flight of the projectile. The firing data in the form of elevation, range, etc., are transferred automatically to the guns and are there displayed on dials. The gunners by matching pointers moving over the dials keep the guns continuously aimed at the future computed position of the moving target. No sighting apparatus is used on the gun carriage and it is not necessary that the gunners see the target."

Extensively Steel Welded.

Steel welding has been employed more extensively than ever before in the manufacture of the new mobile carriages for the 3 inch guns. Ordnance officials believe that wider application of this process to the manufacture of artillery weapons will make them less costly.

The new multiple machine gun truck mounted with four .50 caliber anti-aircraft machine guns is a new development designed to fill the need for a highly mobile weapon for the protection of marching columns, motor convoys and other road troops against low flying attack planes.

VARE TO REOPEN SENATE FIGHT IF HEALTH PERMITS

Towanda, Pa., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—Senator elect William S. Vare who came here yesterday from his summer home at Atlantic City to remain for several weeks, declared today that he would resume his fight for a seat in the United States senate this fall if his physician and counsel consented.

"Reports that I came up here because I have not been regaining my strength rapidly are not true," he asserted. "These reports were circulated for political reasons to make it appear that I am failing in health and will be unable to continue in politics and resume my fight for my seat in the senate."

CHINESE QUIT PARLEY, DEPORT SOVIET RAIL MEN

Allege Red Propaganda Still Continues.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HARBIN, Manchuria, Aug. 11.—While it is impossible to verify the report that the two Chinese delegates, Tsai Yung-hsien and Li Shou-king, representing local Manchurian interests, have departed from Manchouli for Harbin, Chinese officials here admitted the futility of the recent conversations with the soviet Russian delegate, M. Melnikoff.

They said that Chu Shao-yang, delegate representing Nanking, was merely observing the situation and that Moscow had refused to send a delegate to meet him. Whether he is returning to Harbin has not been stated.

Expel More Russians.

It was learned tonight that the Chinese are deporting about 30 more soviet railroad officials tomorrow, together with their families, making a party of about 100. They have been provided with railroad passes as far as the Siberian frontier at Manchouli. It was stated that evidence had been found implicating them in subversive activities, particularly in connection with the recent incidents along the Chinese Eastern railroad, including the wrecking of a freight train of thirty cars near Harbin on Aug. 9.

Panicky conditions continue at Harbin, where the Russians are under close surveillance by Chinese police authorities. The city has recently been subjected to a succession of serious fires alleged to be of incendiary origin. One at 2 a. m. yesterday destroyed a large Chinese flour mill, causing a loss of $400,000.

Chinese authorities allege that a definite campaign is being conducted by a secret source to force the resignation of all red Russian employés of the Chinese Eastern railroad through distribution of circulars threatening loss of soviet citizenship in the event they continue their employment on the railroad.

Believe Reds Will Give In.

Chang Chi, former chairman of the Peking political council and an influential member of the Kuomintang, here today from Nanking, declared it his belief that the Russians will soon be forced to comply with the Chinese demands regarding joint operation of the Chinese Eastern railway in accordance with their agreement of 1924. He also said that domestic conditions in Russia will not permit her to take military action against China.

Directors of the soviet bank here met yesterday and voted to liquidate, saying it was an impossibility to continue under present conditions.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—Complaint that an unidentified man and woman had threatened over the telephone to take his daughter "for a ride" if he did not remove her from the city, was made today to police by Dr. Lewis A. Pringle, father of Eunice Pringle, accuser of Alexander Pantages, millionaire theatrical man.

Dr. Pringle said he received three threatening calls at his office last night and that when he hastened to his home he saw two men lurking about the residence. Today a direct wire was run from the residence to Hollywood police station.

Pantages, who is at liberty on $25,000 bail, will appear in Municipal court next Wednesday afternoon to enter his plea to the district attorney's complaint charging him with a statutory offense. Miss Pringle alleges that Pantages attacked her in his private office last Friday while she was seeking a booking over his vaudeville circuit for a dancing act.

REPUBLICANS TO FINISH TARIFF LEVIES THIS WEEK

Then Democrats Will Start Their Work.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Republicans of the senate finance committee tomorrow will begin their last week's work of revising the house tariff bill with the controversial sugar, hides, leather, and shoe items the only important rates to be determined upon before the measure is turned over to the Democrats for their consideration.

A week from tomorrow the bill, which already has taken seven months and four days of congressional labor, will be ready for presentation to the senate, as far as rates are concerned.

On that day the special session of the senate will reconvene, but under an agreement reached by party leaders three day recesses will be taken until Sept. 4 to permit the tariff framers to complete the rewriting of the bill's adminisrative features.

Democrats May Go Further.

While many cuts in house rates have been approved by the finance majority, the Democrats and western Republicans feel certain that the bill to emerge from that group will go far beyond the bounds they believe the President had in mind in recommending a "limited revision" with particular attention to farm duties and those industrial products that have suffered intensely from foreign competition.

Senator William E. Borah of Idaho, a leader of the independent group, who lost by one vote in an attempt to confine the revision to agricultural and related products, may press his resolution again if the bill is not to his liking. Strong Democratic support is certain if he does.

Feels Farmer Betrayed.

Borah believes the house measure betrays the farmer and violates the party platform and campaign pledges to limit revision to the farmers' interest. Unless the bill is kept within these limits he sees a possibility of the 1929 tariff splitting the Republican party as the Payne-Aldrich measure helped to do in 1909.

Furs

THE ANNUAL SALE

That the presentation of furs in August is not merely a style hint nor an indication of a fashion trend is no longer a matter of conjecture. That it is actually a complete showing of established fashions for fall is an accepted fact, appreciated by the chic who have come to recognize it as the most satisfactory time of year to purchase their furs—from the standpoint of style, as well as of economy.

This year more radical and ingenious changes in fur fashions are apparent than for some seasons past. The coat, in the large sketch at the left, a masterpiece of design, is indicative of the individuality of new modes. Of black caracul, it is $585. Other tailored coats in this fur, $225 to $1000; more formal garments, $475 to $1400.

Youth is served as smartly as its elders in this season of distinguished coat fashions—though, of course, with greater simplicity. Both fur and cloth coats for girls are included in the Annual Sale.

A coat of pieced krimmer, has a small collar and suede belt. Sizes 8 to 14 years. Sale price, according to size, $135 to $187.50. Tweed mixture in a fine check makes a tailored coat, collared in raccoon. Blue, green or tan. Sizes 13 to 17. In the Annual Sale, $47.50.

73 Avenue CHAMPS ELYSEES

From this famous atelier of Marie Alphonsine comes this new Autumn "chapeau" of brown felt. It tells of a fashion which favors the close-fitting hat, and long points. A doubled brim, caught with a feather, a front line that exposes the forehead — Autumn sophistication. Original $45, copies in all colors, moulded on the head, $25. French Room.

Cloth Coats

THE ANNUAL SALE

With fabrics in such favor that furs imitate their supple grace, cloth coats take on new interest. And designers create modes where line and proportion have due supremacy with the grace and elegance which justify their rule.

From Jenny came the youthful coat from which the one, sketched, for Misses was copied. And from Rodier came the fabric in which we present it — in brown and orange or in black and white, collared smartly in blending Caracul. The Annual sale price, $100.

Another Rodier fabric (these weaves rank high among new imported fall woolens) fashions the coat in women's sizes which has a large collar of beaver and bell-shaped sleeves. Brown pattern on beige. Sale price, $165.

FOR FALL, 1929

It's to be a season of dull-surfaced, soft-draping crepes that lend themselves to the fitted, graceful lines of Fall silhouettes. Canton crepe again takes the lead in afternoon and street fashions—so of particular interest is this new weave now presented at a very special price.

Faille Canton Crepe

Autumn inspired colors include ivory, monkey skin, blue steel, panatela, Prince of Wales blue, silver wing, Monet blue, tan, grey, Carrara green, light and dark navy blue, claret, marron glace, mother goose, sand, sawdust and copper. 40 inch wide, at $2.50 yard.

ARBITRATE LAKE ROW, APPEAL TO U. S. AND CANADA

Montreal Man Asks Pact to Cover All Disputes.

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—A perfectly simple, frank treaty between the United States and Canada, providing for the arbitration of disputes of every sort, would eliminate anxiety on both sides of the border over troublesome incidents in our relations, according to Dean P. E. Corbett of McGill university, who, in an interview today, proposed that such a treaty be arranged. Dean Corbett is conducting a round table on "Canadian-American Relations" at the Institute of Politics.

Under present conditions there are many gaps in the Canadian-American treaties and certain types of disputes are not covered by any treaty, said Dean Corbett. He would close these gaps and minimize the possibility of Canadian-American friction by having an arbitration treaty whose provisions would be so clear that the average man would not be disturbed when disputes arose between the two nations.

Calls Treaties Complicated.

Dean Corbett said the provisions of treaties now in effect are so complicated that the average citizen could never feel sure they provided means for peaceful settlement of any dispute that might arise.

"For example, there is a great deal of bitterness in Canada over the Chicago water diversion," Dr. Corbett declared. "Many people thought that this dispute was covered by the powers of the international joint commission, but it is exceedingly doubtful whether that is so, because Lake Michigan is excluded from the definition of boundary waters by the treaty of 1909.

"With regard to the possibility of the arbitration of the Chicago water diversion dispute, it is quite conceivable that the United States would take the stand that Lake Michigan, being entirely American water, does not fall within the scope of arbitration and that the question of diversion is a matter of domestic jurisdiction. This question, which has soured Canadian-American relations, would not have done so if there had existed a perfectly simple agreement binding both parties to submit all disputes to arbitration.

Seeks Impartial Tribunal.

"The question whether a given matter falls within domestic jurisdiction may itself have to be settled by an impartial tribunal. It may be argued that there is an advantage in settling disputes by friendly negotiations between the parties. My answer is that you settle disputes out of court only when you know that the court exists and when either party, finding negotiations impossible, may refer the dispute to the court.

"Such a simple arbitration treaty as I have suggested would not increase the amount of litigation between the parties, but would encourage their settlement by private negotiation. There is little danger of frivolous questions being referred to arbitrations under such a treaty, because the government can, with a fair amount of confidence, be counted upon not to bring into the international limelight claims that have no respectable legal basis."

Replying to a question regarding the coöperation of Canada with the United States in minimizing friction due to rum running on the border, Dean Corbett said that the United States had asked Canada to prohibit the clearance of vessels from Canadian ports when carrying liquor across boundary water.

Willing to Coöperate.

"The possibility of preventing clearance has been carefully considered by the Canadian government which has declared its willingness to coöperate to the full extent of its powers with the United States," he said. "But the prohibition of clearance is a very doubtful remedy for the situation. It would mean a great expense to Canada for the maintenance of police forces sufficient to prevent violation.

"There is a natural unwillingness on the part of the dominion to go to this great expense when it still is under heavy expense arising out of the war. Sentiment favors Canadian coöperation in every way possible but the financial situation prevents direct practical assistance."

The St. Lawrence waterway project will be discussed tomorrow at a general conference arranged by Dean Corbett. Prof. Jacob Viner of the University of Chicago, will have charge of a general conference on "Inter-allied Debts and Reparations" on Tuesday, and the other round table discussions will cotinue during the week.

WILLIAMS TESTS U. S. NAVY SEAPLANE TODAY FOR SCHNEIDER RACE

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 11.—(AP)—With the bent propeller of his little Mercury seaplane racer repaired, Lieut. Al Williams, navy flyer, hopes to determine tomorrow whether he has created the fastest craft ever built.

Test flights planned for Saturday on the Severn river near here by which Williams expected to decide whether he will take the ship abroad to compete for the Schneider international seaplane trophy Sept. 6 and 7 were postponed after it was found that the propeller had been bent slightly in taxiing tests.

Williams said the first flight probably would be only of two or three minutes' duration, after which he would analyze the plane's performance before going up for speed trials. The speed tests will be over a measured course, and the little monoplane must exceed the world's record of 318 miles an hour if it is to be taken abroad.

Electrical Storm Hits Jersey Coast; Guard Dies

New York, Aug. 11.—[Special.]—A violent electrical storm, accompanied by a deluge of rain, played up and down the New Jersey coast today, causing one death and spreading confusion among beach crowds. One bolt at Brigantine, near Atlantic City, killed Robert Cella, 21, life guard, and injured another. Another bolt struck a steel flag pole in front of the "Little White House," summer home of Gov. Morgan F. Larson, at Sea Girt. It sent a ball of fire crackling to the ground a few feet from where the governor stood in the midst of memorial services of the 113th Infantry Veterans' association.

DIES OF HEART DISEASE.

Mrs. Anna Hardey, 24 years old, 3416 Prairie avenue, died suddenly in her home late Saturday night, presumably of heart disease.

DAVIS TO AVOID POLITICAL JAMS IN PHILIPPINES

Comes Out Squarely on Issue; Stand Praised.

BY FORD WILKINS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, Aug. 11.—In his first significant public pronouncement since taking over the governor generalship of the Philippine islands, Dwight F. Davis, former secretary of war, has come out squarely against participation in Philippine politics.

He announced to the press in Manila that he is not interested in purely political matters and is not going to enter into them. He has come to the Philippines in an executive capacity, and he is going to carry out this part of his job, neglecting the folderol of political participation.

Regard Stand Wise.

This stand is regarded among Filipinos and Americans both as one of the wisest ever adopted by a new governor general. Local comment, editorial and otherwise, gives high praise for the new governor's stand.

Gov. Gen. Davis bids fair to become one of the most popular governors general ever to come here. Filipino admiration for athletic prowess is stimulated by Mr. Davis' renown as a tennis player, and his name is, of course, internationally known as the donor of the Davis cup.

In his first round of tennis on the beautiful courts at Malacanan palace, Gov. Davis played three sets with the famous Aragon brothers, of Davis cup team reputation, and another local player of some ability. The three who played with the governor general are regarded as the best the islands have to offer. Mr. Davis, although handicapped with a wrenched knee which he got playing deck tennis on board ship, was credited as having played the best game of the four of them. He and his partner won by a generous score.

Miss Davis Is "First Lady."

His daughter, Alice Davis, occupies a unique position as the first lady of the islands and is the second daughter of a governor general ever to be mistress of Malacanan. She is a charming girl, and immediately "fell in love" with Malacanan.

HINDS for sunburned NOSES

Is a nose like a red beacon to be desired—even in this sun-worshipping year? It is not. And besides it hurts. If your nose is sunburned, smo-o-o-th on Hinds Honey & Almond Cream. It will tame the redness. Cool, relieve, soothe.

And if you want a golden, healthy tan, try this: Smooth Hinds Cream on your face before going into the blazing sun. Smooth it on your shoulders and arms and legs, too. You'll tan then without going through the red—and unbecoming—sunburned stage. (And if you want to avoid sunburn and tan altogether, dust powder over the Hinds Cream.) 6 NEW MEMBERS OF UTILITY BOARD TO CONFER TODAY

Expect Governor to Outline His Policies.

Six new members of the Illinois commerce commission, appointed by Gov. Emmerson Saturday, were summoned by the governor yesterday for a conference in Springfield this morning. The commissioners will meet at 10 a. m. in Mr. Emmerson's office.

Charles W. Hadley, Wheaton attorney, who successfully prosecuted the Len Small interest case as special assistant attorney general, will be chairman of the new commission. The other five appointed are G. Gale Gilbert, Mount Vernon; J. Paul Kuhn, Batavia, and three Chicagoans, Walter H. Wilson, Philip W. Collins, and William N. Brinkman. The seventh new member has not yet been selected.

Expected to Outline Policy.

The retiring Small commissioners who turned in their resignations at Mr. Emmerson's request, were Chairman Patrick H. Moynihan, Hal W. Trovillion, W. J. Smith, Alex. J. Johnson, James R. Clark, and Kuhn, the latter being reappointed.

At today's conference the governor is expected to outline his policies to the incoming group, especially with regard to the Chicago transit problem. Probably the biggest task confronting the commission will be supervision of the transit companies' merger preliminary to a franchise grant by the city to the consolidated company. Part of the conference may also be devoted to reorganization of the commission's staff.

"I am not prepared to announce any definite plans yet," Mr. Hadley said yesterday, "except that we will get on the job immediately and hold hearings on all pending matters as speedily as possible. I am confident the personnel selected by Gov. Emmerson will work together harmoniously and effectively."

Six Assistants to Be Named.

The most important staff offices to be filled are those of six assistant commerce commissioners and that of secretary. Among the Small incumbents as assistants are Milton Weil, song writer and protégé of Mayor Thompson, and Will Colvin of Springfield, former superintendent of pardons and paroles. Julius Johnson of Springfield holds the post of secretary.

Following the Springfield conference, Mr. Hadley said, the new commissioners probably will return to Chicago and start work on the cases pending in the office here the last part of the week.

Cashes In on Lindbergh's Name; Held for Swindle

PARIS, Aug. 11.—[U. P.]—Andre Pottier, promoter of various enterprises, ran afoul of the law here when he used the name of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to exploit a real estate scheme. Pottier named a bathing beach development in the department of Orne, Lindbergh beach. Thousands of persons sent the original capital of 20,000 francs (about $780) soaring to 10,000,000 francs (about $390,000). When the florid promises of the prospectus failed to materialize complaints poured into the police. Pottier was held on charges of swindling.

3 CHICAGOANS TO BEGIN ENDURANCE FLIGHT TODAY

A new endurance flight, the first one with Chicago for its base, is scheduled to start today. Three young Chicago flyers spent yesterday tuning up the motor of the cabin monoplane in which they plan to take off this morning from the municipal airport in an effort to beat the endurance record of 17½ days, recently set by the St. Louis flyers, Jackson and O'Brine. The flyers are C. Earl Steele, Russell Mossman and Wilson Herren. They have christened their plane "Chicago—We Will."

THE ADVANCE IN THE REDISCOUNT RATE.

The New York Federal Reserve bank on Thursday increased its rediscount rate from 5 to 6 per cent. The immediate and dramatic consequence was a sharp drop in security values, with resultant losses to thousands of investors and speculators all over the country.

As has frequently been the practice in reserve matters, no explanation was offered. Bankers and investors here and abroad have been left to guess why the rate was increased. The silence in Washington and New York is disturbing. The country, which for the most part has been disposed to think well of the reserve system, is becoming restive and an undertone of resentment is perceptible. The feeling is growing that the reserve board does not explain its actions because it does not wish to open discussion of its purposes and the means chosen of attaining them.

Needless to say, these tactics are distinguished for shortness of vision. By veiling their objectives, the reserve officials do disarm much immediate criticism; without a knowledge of where a traveler wishes to go it is difficult to criticize his choice of roads. The reserve system, by its policy of silence, has been spared some criticism, but it has not escaped the much more serious danger of widespread public distrust. Friends of the federal reserve system cannot afford to forget that every previous attempt to establish in this country a centralized bank of issue has been wrecked by the failure of the bank's officials to retain the confidence of the public.

We should be doing no service to the federal reserve system to withhold the fact that even now it is being said that the rediscount rate is adjusted from time to time for the benefit of insiders. There is, so far as we know, no shadow of evidence to support the charge, but it is being made and will continue to be made unless there is reform in the methods of reserve officials in their relations with the public. The mere fact that rediscount rates might be rigged for the advantage of those with knowledge of what is going to happen ought to inspire the utmost candor on the part of those who have control of the rates. Human nature being what it is, the worst motives for conduct will be assumed in the absence of any others.

Lacking any official explanation to justify the advance in the rate, students of the credit situation have proposed three plausible objectives. One school of opinion holds that the change was dictated by a desire to curb speculation in securities. Perhaps this is desirable, but there remains the large question whether it is the business of reserve officials to dictate to the people of the United States what uses they are to make of their money. There are many evils attendant on speculation, as every one above the mental age of 10 knows, but the federal reserve system was not created as a moral guide to the American people. Further, the reserve board would have some difficulty in showing that the increasing activity in the security markets of recent years has had a deterrent effect upon the orderly growth or activity of commerce and industry, for which the reserve system was set up. Another and closely related explanation is the presumed desire of the board to supply adequate credit for financing crop movements. If this is the true explanation it is astonishing that the board has not stated its case. There is still a large residuum of resentment against the board among farmers who are convinced, rightly or wrongly, that they were the chosen victims of the deflation of 1920. If the board is now acting in the interest of the farmers it might quiet many among its most active opponents by saying so.

The third explanation links the increase in the rate with the opposition of the British to the Young plan of collection and dividing the reparations. High money rates in New York have led to a flow of gold from London to this country. English bankers and the British government are worried. It has been intimated abroad that the increase in the New York rediscount rate, which normally would hasten the movement of gold toward New York, might be a means of coercing the British into acceptance of the Young plan, and that once Britain has ratified the agreement, the old rate will be restored. The explanation sounds preposterous and would probably not have claimed a moment's attention from any one but for the fact that previous alterations in the rediscount rate have been dictated by foreign and international considerations. In all probability the wave of speculation received its greatest impetus from the lowering of money rates in this country for the sake of stabilizing European currencies two years ago. In the face of that precedent the notion that our investors have been forced to suffer heavily for the further stabilization of the financial structure of Europe by means of the Young agreement cannot be dismissed altogether.

Time no doubt will show whether any of these explanations of the course pursued is the correct one. Meanwhile the reserve board will be blamed for any untoward consequences of the rate increase and will receive little credit for any beneficial ones. That is part of the price paid for failure to take the public into its confidence.

THE NEW ASSESSMENT IN THE SUBURBS.

Inevitably there will be a good deal of complaint in the suburbs against the new assessment of property in Cook county, for, as a result of it, more money will be taken from the suburban towns for state and county purposes than heretofore. It is possible to sympathize with any complaint against tax increases, but in this instance sympathy will be somewhat tempered by the fact that the suburbs, generally speaking, have hitherto evaded paying their fair share of the cost of running the state of Illinois, Cook county, the sanitary district, and the forest preserve.

To understand how this could happen requires some knowledge of the quaint taxation laws of Illinois, which might be characterized as the product of legislative ingenuity, deceit, and laziness. It was possible for the suburban community to assess property absurdly below the current market for real estate and yet to provide adequate revenues for village government by increasing its rate of taxation for local purposes. As the rate for state and county purposes applies equally throughout the county, the community which fixed its valuation lowest paid least to the county and state.

The new assessment is intended to equalize the basis of valuations throughout the county. Valuations in the suburbs consequently have been increased and the rate of increase in some instances is astonishing. Resentment no doubt will be keenest among those who moved to the suburbs on a showing by a real estate salesman of how much lower taxes in the suburbs were and would be. Taxes in thinly settled districts will be low only as long as the region is thinly settled. As soon as population begins to grow taxes are almost certain to increase. In many of the Cook county suburbs the increase was delayed by the practice of juggling with valuations, but it is difficult to believe that intelligent property owners could have expected to be favored in perpetuity at the expense of other property owners in the county.

The result of the equalization of valuations throughout the county may be an increased interest in the affairs of the state and county by suburbanites. That result would be welcome. Another consequence may be a greater willingness to abolish some of the governing bodies in the county. As long as taxes in the suburbs were markedly lower than in the city the advantages of separation were overwhelming. Now the advantages of consolidation with a consequent saving of overhead will be of increasing importance in the eyes of many suburban taxpayers. No doubt many of the suburbs would be more willing to join forces with Chicago if they could retain local control of their schools, zoning, and perhaps a few other governmental services in which the influence of urban politics is feared.

"THE CANADIAN VIEW."

A spokesman for Canada at the institute of politics at Williamstown discussed the diversion of water from Lake Michigan through the drainage canal. The speaker was Dean P. E. Corbett of McGill university in Montreal. He said that in what he called "the Canadian view" the diversion was in violation of treaties between the United States and Canada. He said that in consequence Canada would feel justified in refusing to let American ships navigate the lower reaches of the St. Lawrence river which are wholly within Canada, for the right of American ships to navigate the lower St. Lawrence is conferred only by treaty. If one nation violates the treaty, the other is free to do likewise.

This is interesting. Dean Corbett does not mention the fact that Canada was permitted by treaty to divert an additional 10,000 feet at Niagara Falls to compensate for the diversion at Chicago. That point apparently was beneath his notice.

His references to "the Canadian view" are no less interesting. The phrase is worthy of examination. It is a well known fact in the United States, if not in Canada, that "the Canadian view" in matters of water diversion, as in countless other political questions, is the view of Canadian water power interests. The Canadian water power companies in large part are owned or dominated by financial groups within the United States. "The Canadian view" of water diversion, no doubt by mere coincidence, corresponds exactly to the views of certain influential gentlemen, most of whom live in New York City and its immediate environs. It was to the interest of these same gentlemen to organize the opposition to the diversion in our federal courts. Perhaps the fact that the suits were brought was only another coincidence.

What interest Dean Corbett's Montreal may have in the diversion we cannot imagine. Surely the citizens of Montreal have not been taken in by a propaganda organized on behalf of certain gentlemen in the United States, but couched in terms which would appeal to Canadian nationalistic pride.

Editorial of the Day

CHICAGO NEVER GOES SHORT.

Never has the lack of a large speculative short interest been so keenly felt on the Chicago Stock Exchange as during the last couple of days, when the house of cards built on the Insull utility stocks and stock of Chicago investment companies tumbled down precipitately.

The reason for the recent aerial gymnastics of the Insull stocks, Chicago Corporation stocks and others, is simply that the Chicago public ran away with the market. The magic of the Insull name stirred patient investors and willing speculators alike into feverish enthusiasm. Inside interests tried to check the rise of Insull Utilities Investments as low as 65 and 70, with as much effect as a bucket of water on a blazing oil tank.

Suddenly, with apparently as little reason for selling as there was for buying at the greatly inflated prices, the Chicago public decided to sell Insull and Chicago Corporation stocks. The result was as complete as if there had been concerted action. Pool interests were swamped and took out their buying orders.

It would be expected of the speculative fraternity in New York to go short stock when a particular issue would be considered high enough. Not so the Chicago speculators; they sell and stay out until they are ready to buy again. The effect is a one sided market and the recent debacle will be repeated on the Chicago Stock Exchange until the Chicago public is more thoroughly educated in stock market operations and learns that profit can be made on both sides of a market.

WAR GASES AND T. B.

Poisoning with war gas does not cause tuberculosis nor even contribute to that end. This is the conclusion of a study of world war casualties from gas, made by Col. H. L. Gilchrist, U. S. army. The conclusion is based on several investigations.

A committee of experts in tuberculosis have been working in laboratories for a number of years, studying the effect of war gases on laboratory animals as regards their susceptibility to tuberculosis. They tried various kinds of gas and various kinds of animals. The animals poisoned by gas showed no tendency to tuberculosis; animals with tuberculosis were not made worse, so far as the infection was concerned, by being poisoned with war gases. These experiments were continued for several years. They were duplicated by different experimenters in different laboratories.

Another line of inquiry related to ex-soldiers and statistical in character was made by another set of investigators. Soldiers gassed during the world war have developed some tuberculosis during the intervening years, it is true; but the tuberculosis rate among this group of men is no higher than that among men of the same age who were not gassed; in fact, it is a trifle lower.

This conclusion, based on a study of consumption among world war veterans in the United States, is confirmed by similar studies made on veterans in Great Britain, France, Germany, and other countries. That being gassed did not cause tuberculosis in the first place, and in the second place did not make that disease, once contracted, more deadly or more rapid in its progress, seems to be the universal opinion among army surgeons in all parts of the world.

Studies of the different gases made on laboratory animals showed that the lungs were injured permanently in a small proportion of the cases. The injury consisted in the formation of patches of inflammation which eventually caused patches of scar tissue. No permanent harmful effects on any organ other than the lungs were found.

A study of 2,854 cases gassed in the American Expeditionary Forces showed that 85, or 2.9 per cent, died in service; 1,273, or 44.6 per cent, made no claim for compensation; 585 made claims which were not substantiated; 315 received compensation for a while, which was discontinued when they were finally fully cured; 583 were still drawing compensation for gas injury six years after the war ended.

TRAIN SELF TO DISREGARD.

W. C. K. writes: I am troubled with a constant ringing in my ears which is very pronounced on arising. Can you tell me what causes this? I am 49 years old and have never had ear or head aches.

REPLY.

Many people have head noises. Some old trouble in the deep ear is usually the cause. As a rule a person can train himself to disregard head noises.

FOODS WHICH CONTAIN LIME.

H. W. writes: Kindly advise what foods are rich in lime.

REPLY.

Milk heads the list. Cheese and other milk foods are in this group. So are brans, cereals and the ordinary run of garden vegetables and fruits. Likewise nuts.

MUCH DEPENDS ON ADVICE.

J. S. writes: I am 22 years of age and have tuberculosis. Can you tell me if I could cure myself in my home in New York City by eating plenty of milk and eggs and getting plenty of sunlight?

REPLY.

It has been done and it can be done again. Whether you can do it depends on the advice you have and how well you heed it.

NEED NOT BURN ANYTHING.

Constant Reader writes: What should be done with the bed clothing and mattress of a tuberculous patient after he has left for another climate? Must they be burned?

REPLY.

Sun and air them well. Boil the sheets and pillow cases. Nothing else is necessary.

COMMON LAW MARRIAGES.

Chicago, July 31.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—How long must a woman live with a man to be recognized as his wife?
W. K. M.

In the absence of a ceremonial marriage the legality of the relationship would depend upon whether there was ever an agreement for a legal, as distinguished from an illicit relationship, and upon whether that agreement was entered into in a state recognizing common law marriages. Since 1905 Illinois law has not permitted the contracting of common law marriages in this state, but if the relation was valid when and where it was entered into it would be valid everywhere.

POOR HAIR CUT.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My hair was cut so badly in a beauty shop that I can't go out. I found out afterward that the cutter had no license for that work. Can anything be done?
M. J.

Technically you are entitled to recover damages, but we doubt if you would recover enough to make proceedings worth while. We suggest that you report the facts to the Department of Education and Registration, Springfield.

MARRIAGES LEGAL.

Chicago, Aug. 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—About two years prior to marriage A. changed her name. She signed her assumed name on the marriage license. Is the marriage legal? R. C.

Yes.

THE NEXT WEEK.

Late that night we still sat there
On the wall, and the wind curled through our hair.
Deciding sensibly the roads we'd take.

"You with no money and me with less,
Marrying would be foolish, I guess."

We swung our feet and sat and sat.
I stuck a gull's feather in your old gray hat.

"Each our career and our separate life.
Dear, I would make a dreadful wife."

"Part while it's lovely and no regret . . ."

"If . . ."

It was shivery early fall.
The lake crept up and licked the wall
While with love we bravely parried.
And the next week, the next week
We were married!

INSTALLMENT XXXVIII.

Porters Siding was happy. He was sitting peaceably alone in the pub at Wells. He had a Scotch and polly in front of him, and he could order as many more as he liked. On the bar in easy range of his vision were many more bottles of Scotch, likewise Haig and Haig, White Horse, Dewar's, and countless other brands. Porters Siding looked at them with contentment and a soft, sweet happiness he had not known for years. Also adorning the bar or back of it were bottles of stout, ale, and many kinds of wine. Porters Siding reflected that to an American who had lived under the drastic restrictions of the Eighteenth amendment and the Jones 5 & 10 Act, besides being married to a lady who was a most intense and aggressive reformer, he was in a sort of heaven and he listened to hear the flutter of angels' wings and the soft melody produced by some one strumming on a golden harp.

"A loaf o' bread," murmured Porters Siding, half closing his eyes, "a jug of wine, an' thou shingin' beshide me in wilderness, Oh, shat wash paradish anyhow." Mr. Siding sat long in the pub and tried various drinks. Then he decided to explore Wells. Strangely enough, if his wife and her Porters Siding Art and Culture Club had descended on him and attempted to drag him through the great cathedral church of St. Andrew, the huge gray building that dominated the little city of Wells and was the magnet of thousands of tourists and trippers, he would have fought with might and main against budging one foot towards the historic fane. But humanity is a queer thing. With no one urging him to go near the cathedral, Porters Siding decided he would like to inspect it thoroughly.

He arose with some difficulty and walked unsteadily through the Market Place. Automobiles and charabancs (referred to by the English trippers as "cherry-bangs") were jammed in everywhere, and there was great bustle and confusion as the crowds disembarked and moved like an army with banners in the direction of Pennilless Porch, which led to the cathedral. Mr. Siding followed a party of American tourists led by a very stout lady who hustled her flock along with great energy. "This is one of th' swellest cathedrals in England," shouted the stout lady, "and we got just fifteen minutes to do it in. So snap into it, everybody. This here old buildin' has got the highest spire of any church in England, 404 feet, and the book says it seems to touch the clouds and invite the soul to heaven. But 404 feet hain't nothing! The Washington monument over in the U. S. A. is over 600 feet high, and I guess it makes this here tower look like a telegraph pole."

"You're all wet, Mrs. Bloops," spoke up another member of the party. "I guess you got the wrong page in your guide book. That's Salisbury cathedral you're talking about. This is Wells." "By golly, that's so," said the stout lady. "Oh, shoot! What's the difference? All these here old cathedrals are pretty much alike. You see one, you've seen 'em all." "You said a mouthful," declared another member of the party. "But let's beat it inside and give it the once-over."

The Americans bustled into the church and were taken in hand by a stern-faced verger who turned a cold eye on Porters Siding. "You had best wait for your friends outside," said the verger. "You are in no condition to appreciate the beauties of the cathedral." "Say," said the stout lady irritably, "don't wish that guy onto us. We never saw him before!"

"Whazzamatter?" demanded Porters Siding with great dignity. "I'm jush ash good ash anybody elsh. I'm an American, an' I wansh to vishish great 'thedral. Hain't thish a free country or hain't it? My money is jush as good as anybody elshes money. I wanna buy ticket down in front on aisle."

"This is not a theater," replied the verger with awful dignity. "Visitors are admitted without charge—however," he added somewhat hastily, "there is no objection to free-will offerings. But"—and he turned again to Mr. Siding—"visitors in your condition are not admitted."

"Shay!" murmured Mr. Siding as the Americans trooped noisily into the church and left him standing outside, "now whash you know about that!"

Mr. Siding moved reluctantly across the close until he was halted by a moat, the one that runs around the walls which guard the bishop's palace. Another group of American tourists were standing on the edge of the moat looking eagerly at the swans swimming in the water. "You see that bell on the pole to the left of the drawbridge?" asked a tourist with a red guide book of the others. "Well, when the swans are hungry they pull that cord that dangles from the bell down into the water, and then the bishop comes out and feeds them."

There was a loud splash and the tourists shrieked. "Oh, there's a man in the water!" cried one. "He'll be drowned!" "Oh, it's just a shallow pool," said another. "It isn't deep enough to drown anybody."

By swimming and wading Porters Siding had reached the bell cord and pulled on it lustily.

"What in the world are you doing?" shrieked one of the startled Americans.

"I'm a shwan!" declared Porters Siding (for, as the story books say, it was indeed our hero), "an' I'm hungry. Tell the bish I want a ham on rye and a whishkey and shody."

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 12, 1864.

WASHINGTON.—No further intelligence has been received from Mobile, except from deserters, who report the capture of the city by the Union forces.

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Sherman reports all well and that he is knocking Atlanta to pieces with 4½ inch shells.

ST. LOUIS.—The rebels have taken to burning courthouses in order to destroy indictments and papers to be used in criminal proceedings against them. They burned the courthouse of Saline county, at Marshall, and the clerk's office of Dallas county.

CHICAGO.—Members of the Board of Trade, which now has six regiments of infantry and a battery of artillery in the field—all recruited through the liberality of the members—are now individually supplying substitutes for the army. Charles Hinckley, C. A. Rogers and W. T. Baker are among those who have paid the bounties for substitutes for three years. The bounty paid in each case was $625.

LA PORTE, Ind.—The first joint discussion between Gov. Oliver P. Morton, Republican candidate to succeed himself, and Judge Joseph E. Macdonald, the Copperhead candidate, was held at the fair grounds here. Gov. Morton was master of the field and utterly demolished his opponent.

AUGUST 12, 1899.

WASHINGTON.—By order of President McKinley, Secretary of War Root has appealed to the American people for aid for the destitute Porto Ricans, who lost everything, including their homes, in the hurricane that recently swept the island. The known dead on the island number 353.

PARIS.—The second day of the public court martial of Capt. Dreyfus is on. The same stringent police regulations were in effect as at the opening, but there was no disorder. Gen. Mercier, who is expected to be heard on the stand today, came early with Gen. Billot. Mercier probably will be preceded on the stand by ex-President Casimir Perier and Col. de la Roche Vernet, who was military attaché at the French embassy at Berlin at the time of Dreyfus' arrest.

LONDON.—There were disquieting rumors concerning the Boer situation about all day. Cables suggest that the Boer answer to Chamberlain's proposal will be a practical refusal.

CHICAGO.—Dr. Maria M. Cross died at her residence, 531 La Salle avenue, at the age of 66. For many years she was the oldest woman physician in the city in point of practice. She became the wife of Dr. James E. Cross in 1853 and soon afterward began the study of medicine.

AUGUST 12, 1919.

LENOX, Mass.—Andrew Carnegie died this morning at his summer home, Shadow Brook, near here. His illness was brief. On Aug. 7 he suffered a slight cold. Two days later his physician ordered him to remain indoors, but it was not till yesterday that bronchial pneumonia developed. Mrs. Carnegie was at her husband's bedside in the last hours. Their daughter, Margaret, who last April married Ensign Roswell Miller of New York, formerly of Chicago, arrived a few minutes after her father had died. Although the great ironmaster in 18 years had given away or granted funds in excess of $350,000,000, he did not see fulfilled his often expressed wish "that he might die a poor man." His wealth at the time of his death was estimated at $500,000,000. Mr. Carnegie was born on Nov. 25, 1835, at Dunfermline, Scotland.

WASHINGTON.—Complete collapse of the Kolchak movement in Siberia was forecast in dispatches. Kolchak forces have retreated 800 miles in the last few months.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson declined to furnish the senate any of the documents shedding light on the negotiation of the peace treaty or the drafting of the league of nations covenant.

A NEW FORM OF ROAD GRAFT.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—A statement made in your editorial, "A New Form of Road Graft," that "roadside lights are not an aid to safe driving through the country at night" is just a bit ridiculous. On the same false theory a moonlight night is more dangerous in which to drive a motor car than an inky black night. Also, it is more dangerous to drive on a lighted city street than on a black side street. I would be perfectly willing to bet you a hat that you drive an automobile with more trepidation on a dark street than on a light street. The same holds for the country. You have confused the irritation of headlight glare with illumination, which is quite a different thing; lights at an elevation do not produce glare. Illumination is computed in lumens, not in "I, like this better."

The lighting of country roads has a number of advantages other than comfort for the city motorists: the average speed of traffic is increased, the danger of crime reduced, pedestrians may use the road with greater ease, and, as you state in your editorial, the farmers can tap the line for power and light.

If the rate for power to the state does not take in consideration the power sold to farmers, then it seems to me that we need a state highway department that knows how to buy. As a matter of fact, I feel sure that the rate to the state does consider the added power sold.
C. R. THOMAS.

AFFLICTED WITH TRAIN WHISTLES.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—In this morning's paper was a complaint, made by a resident of Brainerd, of the unnecessary whistling of Rock Island suburban trains passing through Brainerd. But not only is Brainerd cursed with this noise—it has to be endured all through the Beverly Hills district.

Is there no way to abolish some of this unnecessary noise?
RESIDENT OF BEVERLY.

WHY THEY BLOW.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—The Rock Island engineers blow their whistles at Brainerd because there are so many insane automobile drivers and jaywalkers who care nothing for their lives and the lives of others. And the federal laws require that whistles must be sounded at all grade crossings or where lives are in danger.
AN ENGINEER.

THE ENGINEER'S TRUST.

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Yellow police cars and red fire engines attract eyes; bells and sirens on these machines attract ears. Public demand requires that these vehicles travel with speed and that they give warnings of their approaches.

In travel, speed and safety are called for, too. Yet, some individuals bellow for less noise from trains.

If a train schedule is slow, there is an editorial or a cartoon contrasting the speed of airplanes and automobiles with the snail's pace of the iron horses. Again, if a fast train strikes an automobile and several persons are killed, there is an editorial or a cartoon.

If the person who recommends that the locomotive whistle be relegated to reticence would make some recommendation to curb the automobilists it would be more in order. Deaf, dumb, blind, insane, infant and intoxicated drivers infest our streets.

Who is in the engine cab? A seasoned man runs the locomotive. He has persons on the train in his charge, and he has persons in automobiles to care for. An engineer whom I knew committed suicide after he struck and killed a mother, a father and a young child.
A RAILROADNEIGHBOR.

MOTORISTS' DEMOCRACY.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—The levity and brevity of your editorial on auto killings is in strong contrast to the length and gravity of your articles on other accidents. Take the shooting of a few motorists by dry snipers for instance. Or the occasional speed crazy idiot who runs past danger signals to his death. Why so much space to retail and so little to wholesale slaughter?

To its eternal disgrace the press sees human life so cheapened that people are bumped off daily in the streets like so many stray cats or dogs, and all it does is dish up drivel like "The Price of Democracy." In this gem you forgot to mention that the privilege of driving an auto does not carry the privilege of doing murder with it. As for resentment, that felt by millions of pedestrians doesn't count even in a democracy. Not only have they no privileges, they have no rights on the streets that my lord at the wheel is bound to respect. In crowded sections, but nowhere else, may they walk in safety, because the murderous motor moron fears but one law—mob law.
J. M.

COMPARATIVE MORALITY.

Gary, Ind., Aug. 7.—If Bishop Cannon, who appears to be the spokesman for the allied drys, has in his 20,000 word explanation proven the moral right to gamble in stocks and to hoard flour in time of war, would the moral law be violated if one of the common laity should, during these extremely warm days, take a glass of beer?
G. B. McFALL.

CONDUCTORS AND BUS MEN.

Chicago, Aug. 3.—To the street car men and their uniforms, I'd like to say, why tolerate such goofy material that doesn't look neat and doggy at all times?

The bus conductors look ritzy even if the uniform is a bit worn. It's the style, Sam Brown belts and puttees. They don't have to hang their changers on their uniform to pull it all out of shape. And the color is dust proof.

MAIN FLOOR

NEW 'FOOLPROOF' PLANE TAILLESS, MOTOR AT REAR

Won't Stall or Fall Into Spin, Is Claim.

LONDON, Aug. 11.—[U. P.]—Commercial production of the Soldenhoff LF-5, a German version of the tailless type of airplane with an engine at the rear, is said to be a new forward step toward safety in flying.

Designers claim that it is impossible to stall the new machine or fall in a spin, two inherent features of the usual type of airplane and the direct cause of innumerable accidents.

Equipped with a 30 horsepower motor, the top speed of the Soldenhoff LF-5 is 70 miles an hour, but it has an amazingly low landing speed of from 12 to 17 miles an hour. In even a moderate breeze this would make a landing possible with no forward speed.

Sit in Front of Motor.

The pilot and passenger sit tandem fashion in the nose of the machine, and in front of the motor. This eliminates much of the heat of the motor, oil and water spray, and diminished the noise of the exhaust.

The plane has an approximate span of 30 feet, is 14 feet long and 5½ feet high with a wing area of 185 square feet. The weight of the machine alone is about 425 pounds. With pilot, passenger, gasoline and oil, the weight is approximately 850 pounds.

Twenty Yards to Get Aloft.

The machine is said to be stable and in flight maintains an even keel. The machine will take off after a run of not more than 20 yards, it is said, and come to a stop after landing in even less space. The machine is priced in England at $1,500.

Child Slain by Ax Fiend; Hysterical Mother Quizzed

Milford, Conn., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—With a deep cleft in the skull indicating murder by an axe in the hands of a fiend, the nude body of 3 year old Albert Mikenas, youngest son of Mrs. Katherine Mikenas, 38, of Ansonia, Conn., was found in a thicket near here at twilight tonight. An hour later the mother, hysterical and incoherent, was being questioned by detectives. She and her husband, Peter, have been separated for three years.

Aviation Notes

An educational campaign by the National Glider association promoting gliding as a sport and as a field for advanced aeronautical research is announced by Edward A. Stinson, president of the Stinson Aircraft corporation, in an open letter seeking to increase the membership of the motorless aviation association. Edward S. Evans, Detroit sportsman, has been the leader of the organization so far. The Wright corporation has announced prizes of $1,000 a year for three years for motorless competition, while A. H. G. Fokker will offer trophies and prizes.

Preliminary construction on a thousand acre airport in Washington, D. C., is under way. The field will give the national capital adequate commercial airport facilities. It may be reached from the center of Washington in less than ten minutes.

Eastbound air mail flights from Chicago to New York were made in less time than the schedule calls for during July, National Air Transport reports. The average elapsed time of 95 eastbound night flights was seven hours and forty-three minutes, or an average of two minutes ahead of schedule for the month. On the eastbound day run from Chicago to New York, thirty-one flights were completed in an average elapsed time of seven hours and ten minutes, or forty-two minutes less than scheduled time.

The National Air Travelers association has been organized by flying enthusiasts, especially those who use air transport lines for traveling. Chicago will be the central office of the organization, which purposes to serve as a clearing house for aviation information. It will collect data on physical conditions surrounding airports, tariff rates and schedules, as well as meteorological information.

Because he believes Chicago is more "air conscious" than other cities, Warwick Saunders, president of the Saunders Drive-It-Yourself company, has announced Chicago will be one of the first cities served by the new fly-it-yourself service. Four Chicago airports are available for the Chicago service.

Reno, Nev., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Eight bombing planes from Langley field, Va., landed at Reno at 12:30 this afternoon. The ships, comprising the second bombardment group, left Oakland at 9:30 this morning after a cross-country flight to San Diego. Maj. Hugh Knerr, commanding officer, said that the return trip would be made in easy fashion, with stops at all the principal cities en route. The group made the dash from Virginia to the Pacific coast as a tactical maneuver to repel a supposed enemy, in 30 actual flying hours, or 39 elapsed hours.

BRITISH COTTON STRIKE VEILED IN HEAVY SECRECY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 12.—[Monday.]—An atmosphere of heavy secrecy hangs over the Lancashire cotton strike today, but the conferences between employers and Prime Minister MacDonald at Edinburgh Saturday are expected to bear fruit.

Workers are now all lined up in favor up arbitration. The legislative council of the United Textile Workers' association, which is a blanket group covering all the unions with their half million workers, is meeting today. A statement is expected urging arbitration and expressing the willingness of the workers to meet the manufacturers half way.

One of the two great manufacturers' federations, the Operative Spinners' federation, is meeting today, while the other federation of master cotton spinners is meeting Tuesday. A joint meeting of the wage committees is scheduled for Wednesday, when it is hoped the manufacturers will consent to arbitration.

RACING FLYER, 2 OTHERS KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

Ship Sideslips, Plunges Into Dry Lake Bed.

Clovis, N. M., Aug. 11.—(AP)—A side slip ending in a crash from a low altitude took the lives of three persons here today while they were engaged in a hunt for a cockpit vent cover, lost by a United States army racing pilot shortly after he took off from the Clovis airport for Cleveland, O.

The dead were:

Phillip Berry, 29, assistant manager of the field.

Lieut. O. Stephens, attached to Mitchel field, Long Island.

The victims apparently were killed instantly when the plane, a new Lockheed-Vega racing model, slithered sidewise into a dry lake bed and crumpled up.

Headed for Air Races.

The machine appeared to crash from an altitude of about 100 feet as Lieut. Stephens was putting it into a sharp bank to make a turn. His mangled body was found lying on the wrecked motor. Scully and Berry, riding in the passenger compartment of the plane, were pinned in their seats.

Stephens arrived here last night from Los Angeles, flying a new plane which he intended to enter in the Cleveland air races late this month. Shortly after he took off this morning, the vent cover on the cockpit blew off. He turned about and landed at the airport. With port officials he tried to locate the cover afoot, without success.

Falls Like Plummet.

Stephens and two mechanics then went aloft to scan the immediate countryside for the cover, but were unsuccessful. Landing again, the army flyer took Scully and Berry with him as passengers in a third attempt to find the missing cover. They had proceeded only a short way west of the port in a zigzag course when Stephens banked the ship with a turn. At the same moment it went into a sideslip and fell like a plummet into the lake bed. The machine was demolished.

Lieut. Stephens passed through Clovis en route to Los Angeles a few days ago as a flying companion of Amelia Earhart.

Bomb Rocks Apartment Building; Routs Tenants

A bomb was tossed through a window into the basement of a two story flat building at 7920 South Sangamon street early this morning. The explosion tore out bricks in the basement wall, shattered windows in the building and the one adjoining, and aroused the neighborhood. The damage was estimated at $1,500. The first floor apartment is occupied by Anton J. Inhahn, a business agent for the stationary engineers' union, local 399, and his wife and two children. Joseph R. Maur lives on the second floor. Inhahn told police he could furnish no motive for the bombing.

Elmer Hears 2 Radio Debuts and Is Pleased

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

In a day filled with excellent musical broadcasts there was a radio debut recital by Miss Pearl Besuner, Metropolitan Opera soprano, New York, through W-G-N, 8:15 to 8:45, that was different. This difference lay not in her program, but in the unusual penetrating quality of her voice, revealed by the loud speaker. Miss Besuner was at her best in her lighter song group, which included "The Lass with the Delicate Air" (Arne) and "Ho! Mr. Piper" (Curran), rather than in her operatic arias or in the songs, like "Mighty Lak' a Rose" (Nevin). A new voice with the impress of a strong personality back of it is always interesting.

As to the debut recital by Austin Conradi, American pianist, New York, through KYW, 8:45 to 9:15, no conflict of opinions could exist. It may be taken for granted that he came and conquered. He is a musicianly pianist, with vitalized fingers electrically charged. His playing Mendelssohn's "Rondo Capriccioso" with delicate accents and masterly treatment of light and shade and crashing chords revealed Mr. Conradi as an artist of rare attainment. The Liszt-Busoni "La Campanella" was not sufficiently intricate for him, so [taking the announcer's word for it] this was played "with some additional effects of his own."

A completely artistic orchestral concert—an in this instance I mean the music, announcing and "continuity"—was the Arabian Nights entertainment by the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, 4:30 to 5:30. It was announced as a typical Theodore Thomas World's Columbian exposition concert of thirty-six years ago. I wish there were more concerts just like it.

Funeral Services Held Here for Mary MacLane

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon in the funeral parlors at 1818 South Michigan avenue, for Mary MacLane, former writer. The Rev. Robert J. Vaughn, of the Church of the Ascension, officiated. Last evening Miss MacLane's mother, Mrs. Margaret Klenze, of Helena, Mont., and her brother, James W. DAVID B. ROBB, INDIANA MINERS' LEADER, IS DEAD

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 11.—(AP)—David B. Robb, 58, president of the United Mine Workers of district No. 11, died suddenly in his home here today. Death was due to pulmonary hemorrhages.

Robb had been active in one of the most strenuous fights in the history of the local mine workers' union to unionize coal fields in the district that had operated with nonunion men prior to his taking office on April 1 this year.

Only last night he was the main speaker at a mass meeting in Jasonville, Ind., held in an attempt to solidify unionism in the southern coal field. As he was about to be seated at the table for breakfast today he was seized by a coughing attack and fell to the floor unconscious. He never regained consciousness. He was one of the most prominent of union leaders in the United States.

MOLINE AVIATOR WINS AIR DERBY AT AURORA FAIR

Verne Roberts of Moline, flying a Monocoupe plane powered by a Stewart motor, won the air derby held in connection with the Central States' fair at Aurora yesterday. He covered a 40 mile triangular course in 18 minutes, 40.2 seconds. Fourteen planes competed. Stunt flying and a refueling exhibition by John and Abner Livingston preceded the race, John Livingston flying a crude pusher in which the late Lincoln Beachey made the first aerial loop 15 years ago. The day was the greatest in history for the fair itself, 71,323 persons passing through the gates.

NARCOTIC SURVEY FIGURES GIVEN TO HOOVER EXPERTS

New York, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The New York narcotic survey committee, of which United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle is chairman, announced today it had submitted to President Hoover's commission on law observance and enforcement a study of narcotic addiction based on the records of 1,563 patients in a private hospital.

Opium and its derivatives were found to constitute 88.35 per cent of the narcotic forms of addiction. Sickness and pain led 43.44 per cent of the patients to form the habit; mental strain was responsible for 17:52 per cent.

Only 18 of the addicts, or 1.1 per cent, were under 21 years of age, but 849, or 56 per cent were between 36 and 55. Thirty-four per cent of 1,563 were professional men and women.

Mrs. C. T. Northrop Dies Suddenly in Winnetka

Mrs. Annis D. Northrop, 79 years old, died of apoplexy yesterday while preparing breakfast in her home at 1144 Tower road, Winnetka. She is survived by her husband, Police Magistrate Clark T. Northrop of Winnetka. The couple celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary on July 30.

BOY KILLED BY FALL FROM TRUCK.

Curtis Walls, 12 years old, 2756 Lake street, colored, died at the county hospital yesterday from injuries sustained on Aug. 9, when he fell from a truck on which he was hitching a ride.

DAVID N. M'KEE, SCIENCE CHURCH LEADER, KILLED

York, Me., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—David Newton McKee of Brookline, Mass., noted Christian Science healer and former head of the Mother church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, was killed here late last night in an automobile accident on the state highway a mile from this town.

McKee was in an automobile with his wife, Mrs. Clara K. McKee, and a friend, Mrs. Harriet Vincent of Brooklyn, N. Y. A mile from York Corner an automobile cut out of line behind the McKee car, struck it, and caused the operator to lose control of the machine. A moment later the McKee car collided headon with another machine and was demolished.

McKee died a few minutes after the accident. His wife was painfully hurt and Mrs. Vincent probably fatally injured. Both are at the York hospital. Following the accident Mitchell Rosenberg, 15, of St. Augustine, Fla., was arrested for manslaughter.

SHAH IMPRISONS MILLSPAUGH FOE, SEEKS NEW YANK

Report Finances of Persia in Bad Shape.

BY H. BASIL.

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TEHERAN, Persia, Aug. 11.—Persia is in the market again for an American administrator of its finances. The man who was instrumental in ousting Arthur C. Millspaugh of Augusta, Mich., is now in prison. The finances of the kingdom are in bad shape, and Shah Riza Khan Pahlevi is planning to initiate a new reform.

Persian finances have been handled by Prince Nosrat Dowleh as finance minister, assisted by a German financial mission, since the Americans were ousted, but the Germans were mere figureheads under the dominance of the Persian minister, as proved by the present state of the finances.

Want Men of Courage.

It is understood, however, that the cabinet has decided to give the Germans more power by making the head of the German mission administrator general. But some officials say that a few months' experience with these men will prove to the Persians that only an American and an Englishman have the courage to stand pat on an opinion and fight for the rights given him by his contract.

It is a well known fact that the revenues of the country have materially dwindled since the departure of Mr. Millspaugh and his American staff, who were directing the various departments of the finance office. This is sufficient proof of the inefficiency of the Persian minister and his native staff of officers, notwithstanding the fact that they had the benefit of five years of training under the Americans.

It is a lamentable fact that the former finance minister created a situation that would make it impossible for Mr. Millspaugh to renew his contract with the Persian government for a further five years' service.

Defalcations Are Hinted.

It is learned that Prince Nosrat Dowleh was not arrested for being implicated in the uprising of the south Persian nomad tribes, as was believed at first, but for his inefficiency and perhaps defalcations in the finance ministry. He has been transferred from a police cell to his own palace, where a single, guarded room serves as a prison for him.

No one is permitted to visit him, neither can he receive or send mail, which in itself proves that his guilt is not political.

DISCOVER UNLIMITED NONAGRICULTURAL GRAIN ALCOHOL SOURCE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—A new and unlimited nonagricultural source of supply of ethyl alcohol, commonly known as grain alcohol, has been revealed in a letter written by Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of prohibition, to Senator Watson of Indiana.

"The Carbide and Carbon Chemicals corporation of South Charleston, W. Va., which is a subsidiary of the Union Carbide company, was given a temporary permit for the experimental production of synthetic alcohol on a commercial scale," Dr. Doran said.

"The basis of the production is the conversion of ethylene gas to ethyl alcohol and the subsequent purification of the ethyl alcohol. There are a number of sources of ethylene, of which petroleum and gases from coke ovens are the most important.

"Under this temporary permit the company produced approximately 48,000 proof gallons of ethyl alcohol, synthetical, which was denatured and used in the regular chemical processes of the company."

BIG MOTORBUS GUIDE SHOCK TO BRITISH RAILWAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 11.—One answer to the question, "What is the trouble with English railroading?" has been provided by the appearance of time tables of the motor coach services of the country. They fill 900 closely printed pages, more than are occupied by the railway time tables in the standard guide.

Motor coach competiton is much more serious for the railways in England than in the United States. The comparatively small area of England makes it possible for automobile lines to cover the country quite thoroughly, without too great difference in time. One of the longest journeys made by a large number of persons daily, from London to Edinburgh, is covered by motor coach service. A sleeping coach serves the London-Liverpool route.

English roads, though as busy as any in Europe, particularly near London, do not approach the degree of congestion found in America.

There are now 3,312 regular motor coach services operating in England and Wales, connecting more than 18,000 localities. There are, besides, 256 regular express services linking distant points. There are more than 6,000 motor coach companies.

The growth of motor traffic in England has been the development of the last five years. Perhaps this fact explains a part of the speed of its success. Where the railroads have been encumbered with old fashioned methods, the motor coaches have begun along modern lines.

The time table is an example of the difference. The standard English railway guide is a marvel of inconvenience. All stations are arranged alphabetically, and one looks up the station to find how it may be reached from London.

The motor coach time tables, on the contrary, are arranged in the American style. The correct table is located from an index in the front, after which the complete route of the buses with all the stops and times may be consulted. The guide is issued eight times a year.

While the increase in the number of private vehicles in the last five years has been 10 per cent, the increase of commercial vehicles has been 400 per cent.

THOUSAND DOLLAR HOURS SAVED

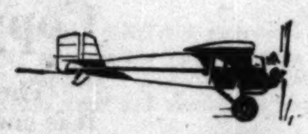
ECONOMICALLY



TO the modern business executive hours are hours no longer. Time is money. And for many, minutes and days are calculated in hundreds, thousands . . . yes, even millions . . . of dollars.

Speed in transportation has become vitally important. Business men are getting up off the ground . . . up into the skyways, where travel is swift, straight and safe.

More and more companies are saving thousand dollar hours by flying their executives in Robin monoplanes . . . sister ships of the endurance record-breaking "St. Louis Robin."

And Robins are the ultimate choice because they are durable, stable, safe and economical in first cost and in operation.

Pilots favor the Robin because it is unusually sturdy in construction. The finest grade of tested materials are used throughout. Chrome molybdenum tubing is used in the fuselage for double rigidity.

The cost of owning and flying a Robin is no more than the cost of owning and operating a fine automobile.

The Curtiss-Robin is sold exclusively by Curtiss Flying Service, a national organization operating flying fields and airplane service stations in all principal cities. It is manufactured by the Curtiss-Robertson Airplane Manufacturing Company, a division of the $70,000,000 Curtiss-Wright Corporation.

But Yanks Lose to Indians, 6 to 5.

Unmatched Record

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—Babe Ruth's home run record in the major leagues, exclusive of world series competition, follows:

Year	Homers	Year	Homers
1915	4	1923	41
1916	3	1924	46
1917	2	1925	25
1918	11	1926	47
1919	29	1927	60
1920	54	1928	54
1921	59	1929	30
1922	35	Total,	500.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Babe Ruth today became the first player in the history of baseball to hit 500 home runs when he slapped one of Willis Hudlin's offerings over the right field screen in the second inning of the Yankee-Indian game. The bases were empty when Ruth hit his history making homer. Cleveland won the game, 6 to 5.

BABE RUTH.

Ruth's drive was his thirtieth of the season, and it increased his margin in the American league leadership, in addition to sending him into a tie with Melvin Ott of the Giants and Hack Wilson of the Cubs for second place in the interleague race.

Keeps Ball As Souvenir.

Gehrig's blow was his twenty-seventh and gave him possession of second place in his own circuit. As Ruth trotted across the plate he said he wanted the ball for a personal souvenir. Jakie Geiser of New Philadelphia, O., who had recovered the ball, was brought to the Yankee dugout.

"I'll give you twenty dollars for that ball, Bud, and autograph a new one for you," growled the big slugger. Geiser accepted and the Babe put the ball away to add to a collection of baseball trophies.

Ruth began his home run career in 1915, his first full season in the American league, when he touched Jack Warhop of the Yankees for a pair of homers and Slim Caldwell of the Yanks and James of St. Louis for one each. Four home runs in a season by a pitcher constituted something of a feat in that day of light hitting, but the Babe attracted his first real attention as a home run slugger in 1918 when, doubling regularly in the outfield, he hit 11 homers in the abbreviated war season to tie Tillie Walker of the Athletics for major league honors.

Sold for $137,500.

The Babe lifted his mark to 29 in 1919, and was sold to New York by the Red Sox in the off season for $137,500. In his first year as a Yankee he hit 54, and lifted the mark to 59 a year later. This remained the record until 1927, when, with a burst of September speed which netted 17 homers in Ruth's greatest month, he reached the unbelievable total of 60.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Two fine pitchers did their stuff at Comiskey park yesterday afternoon, with the usual inspiring effect on their supporting casts. It was a good ball game, in which Tommy Thomas conquered Charley Ruffing, 6 to 3.

There was nothing suggestive of the misfortunes that have placed Boston in eighth place and the White Sox in seventh. Both sides played errorless ball. Thomas allowed five hits and Ruffing seven.

Among the few hits were just enough long ones to add zest to the enterprise. Jack Rothrock knocked a homer with one on, Charley Berry drove in the first run of the game with a triple, Art Shires drove in the first White Sox run with a triple, Reynolds drove in two runs with a triple, and Doug Taitt drove in two with a double.

Thomas Hits and Pitches.

And while we're talking about sluggers it should be made known that what proved to be the winning run was driven home by that great batsman, Tommy Thomas, the same fellow that pitched.

The Red Sox made their first marker with two down in the second. Todt singled to right and scored when Berry's smack got past Reynolds and was scored a triple. Rhyne then flied to Taitt.

The first 11 Sox to face Ruffing never reached first, but with two out in the fourth Charley hit Reynolds with a pitched ball. Shires then tripled to the scoreboard in left center and Reynolds scored the tying run. The ball was not played any too well by Rothrock, who overran the shot; but it was a triple, just the same. Kamm walked and stole second, then Tait doubled, scoring Shires and Kamm. Reeves threw out Kerr.

The Red Sox tied the score in the sixth. Reeves walked with one out, paused while Scarritt flied to Metzler, then scored ahead of Rothrock when Jack lined one into the right field stand.

Hold Footrace Today.

In the seventh the White Sox made three runs, their winning margin. Kerr opened with a single to left, moved to second on Berg's sacrifice bunt and scored on Thomas' single to right. Metzler walked, but Cissell popped to Regan. Reynolds tripled, scoring Thomas and Metzler. Shires was called out on strikes.

The same clubs will play this afternoon with Faber pitching for Chicago and MacFayden for Boston. As an added feature Jack Rothrock and Carl Reynolds, reputed to be the fastest runners in the American league, will stage a footrace for the E. S. Barnard cup. After the sprint the two players will seek to lower the record for circling the bases.

Nineteen years ago—in the glorious days of the old Cubs—the Peeless Leader brought Chicago a National league pennant. And it was Three Fingered Brown who bore the brunt of the pitching. The Athletics won the world's series, four victories to one. Then war time. Fred Mitchell and big Jim Vaughn won the pennant, but lost the series to the Red Sox, four and two. And now, this morning, eight games in front, all signs point to victory. Nineteen years—and again the Cubs meet the Athletics for the world's title?

It Must Be the Heat That Irks McGraw, Not His Team

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 11.—The heat, the drought and the vicissitudes of business have exasperated John McGraw beyond endurance and he has been railing against the newspapers for exaggerating, as he says, the amount of money which he has exacted from his employés in the form of fines. Descriptions of his mode of surveillance and discipline have annoyed him, too, and he states that he has been misrepresented and will prove as much in the courts, demanding damages. It is interesting to learn from Mr. McGraw himself that his old and highly successful mode of command had given way to a policy of kind and fatherly consideration, although the change may be largely responsible for his current failure.

JOHN McGRAW.

Perhaps he will give his policy retroactive effect, too, and remit the money detained from past employés under the old régime, together with his apologies and those of the firm for any and all personal affronts suffered. Or he might organize a congress of all such veterans of the Giant pay roll or their heirs or assigns to assemble in the grand stands of the Polo Grounds which would just about hold them and assuming a stand at the plate permit them to affront him back.

There would be practical difficulties in the way of this amend, however, not the least of which would be the attitude of the public police who would be certain to object to a congress conducted in that kind of language, so the idea is only an idea and not likely to be realized.

It is said to find that Mr. McGraw is bickering with the press because this petulance is really due to his lack of success in his business this year, and it indicates that he is growing too old for a line of work that entails a certain amount of unfavorable newspaper notice along with the columns and art layouts done strictly in his praise. Hitherto he has always held praise and blame alike to be beneath his notice, probably regarding the encomiums as fulsome and either sycophantic or dictated by the editorial policy of the papers which published them, and the few dissenting articles as the mere yapping of little critics who thought to achieve importance by attacking some one important.

McGraw Hard to Please.

I never heard of his acknowledging a published compliment, and this is the first time to my knowledge that he has dignified the other kind of comment by the slightest recognition. And now he not only takes cognizance but, placing the moose call to his lips, blows the whistle for the bulls to come and place his traducers under bond.

This shows what age, the heat, tee-

N. Y. RING BOARD BANS SCHMELING FOR ALL TIME

Garden Pronounces Same Edict.

New York, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Only a few short weeks ago the path of young Max Schmeling led smooth and straight toward all the glory and wealth of the world's heavyweight championship. Today the colorful Teuton is threatened with fistic oblivion, apparently barred for life along with his American managers from the rings of New York state.

Out of a clear sky the New York state athletic commission, through Chairman James A. Farley, today issued its final sentence in the involved and heated controversy that has raged about Schmeling's head almost since his arrival here a little over a year ago.

"The state athletic commission and boxing fans of the state of New York," the formal statement said in closing, "can get along without Schmeling and those who are handling his interests, not only now but for all time."

An equally stringent ban has been placed upon Schmeling and Jacobs by Carey.

"I was ready to risk suspension, the shutting down on Madison Square Garden, and the loss of $500,000 by staging a Sharkey-Schmeling bout outside of New York in defiance of the commission, but in accordance with my promise to the fighters," Carey said, "now Schmeling has 'run out' because he thinks Jack Dempsey will give him more money for the bout. Both Schmeling and Jacobs are through forever as far as the garden is concerned."

Postmaster Arthur Lueder's mail men aren't letting the letters from boy Cub fans get cold in transit. Despite the fact that the Sabbath isn't much of a day for mail delivery, a big bale of contest letters reached THE TRIBUNE sports department and immediately were sorted for consideration of the judges. Up to last night 423 letters had been received and it is expected that at least 1,000 will be on file before the contest closes.

Yesterday THE TRIBUNE printed ten of the letters telling "Why I Like the Cubs." Pictures of the writers accompanied the publication of the letters and a check for $5 has been mailed to each of the youths.

Each of these communications will be entered in the competition which will determine the six boys, from 10 to 16 years old, who will be box seat guests of THE TRIBUNE at the opening game of the world series, providing the Cubs win the pennant. Yesterday the team increased its lead to eight full games, but if anything should throw them out of the running, suitable prizes will be given instead of the box seats.

A letter does not have to be published, however, to make a boy eligible for the big series thrill. The final judges will consider ALL the letters.

No boy wants to be outdone by a girl, especially in a matter so masculine as baseball. But here's a letter from a girl that will make a lot of the boys step to equal it:

Dear Sir: Fate decreed that I should be born a girl. I wasn't beat-

It May Interest You to Know That—

Boston, Mass., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—An eight game lead at this stage for a team as consistent as the Cubs is almost a pennant certainty. What it means can best be shown by figures. If the Cubs win only 25 of their remaining 52 they'll have 95 victories. To tie that the Pirates must cop 32 out of 50.

Somebody was kidding Hornsby this morning over the fact that he went hitless Saturday. His reply was: "Well, some days you hit 'em and some days you don't." To prove his philosophy he collected three today out of a team total of six.

The spiking of McMillan today raised the injured list to three, but with an eight game lead, why worry? Beck's boiled toe will be normal by Tuesday when the team leaves here, Cuyler's stiff neck is improved enough to let him look as high as the third floor, and McMillan will be able to play about next Friday.

If it hadn't been for an error by Hartnett the Cubs never would have owned Hack Wilson. The error, made in the last battle of the 1925 season, put the Cubs in last place by half a game. Being eighth, they were entitled to first choice in the draft. They took Hack, on whom about every other major league had eyes.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 11.—Seven of the pacemaking Cubs were stopped today by the hurling of Bob Smith. Two others, however, Rogers Hornsby and Zack Taylor, refused to act in anything except a boisterous fashion, and their hitting alone picked up the runs that whipped the Braves in another battle that from start to finish was almost too close for comfort. The score was 3 to 1, and the lead of the Chicagoans in the pennant race now is stretched to an imposing eight games, because of Pittsburgh's downfall at Brooklyn.

NORMAN McMILLAN.

The clouting deeds of Hornsby and Taylor, both ex-Braves, are contained in a total of five hits, which is just one less than the entire group of pennant seekers collected. In the opening round, Hornsby drove a homer over the wall, his twenty-fifth of the season. In the sixth Taylor uncorked a single that eventually became a run because Hornsby singled. And to complete the scoring in the eighth, Taylor peeled off a double that grew into a tally when Hornsby rounded out his day's performance with a two-base hit.

McMillan Is Spiked.

The only other blow recorded by the Chicago delegation was the work of Third Sacker McMillan, but he more than paid for the pleasure. In making a play in the second inning he was spiked and forced out of action, leaving the third sack duties to Blair. McMillan will be out for several days, and in the meantime McCarthy will be forced to operate without an extra infielder. Beck, the other utility performer, is resting in a hospital here after having a boil on his left foot lanced.

All of Chicago's hurling today was handled by Charley Root and, while he was hit in spots, he managed to dodge every time except in the second when the Braves picked up their only run to create a temporary 1 to 1 tie. Outside of the second there was only one other session in which more than a lone hit appeared. Root had one other worrisome period when English committed the only mishap in an otherwise flashy Cub defense.

Tomorrow will bring Pat Malone back to the firing line, and Ben Cantwell is Boston's probable choice. Then for the final day here McCarthy hopes to be able to employ Carlson, thus leaving the peerless Guy Bush for the opener with the Robins on Wednesday. This arrangement also will leave Bush prepared to face the Giants in the opener four days later.

First Brave Hit Leads to Run.

Hornsby's homer in the first round was good to look at for those whose sentiments had a Chicago leaning. He caught the first pitch on the far end of his niblick and the ball arched easily and gracefully toward right, coming down in the corner of the right field pavilion that juts a bit into fair territory. Mr. Wilson, who was next, would liked to have duplicated the blow, but his mighty swing produced only a feeble hopper to Smith for the third out of the inning.

The first blow off Root appeared in the second session and led to a run by which the Braves tied matters at one apiece. It also led to the elimination of McMillan as McCarthy's third sacker. Bell opened the chapter with a double against the left field fence. He moved to third on Harper's long fly to Wilson. With Welsh at bat, Taylor thought he saw a chance to catch Bell napping off third, so he whipped the ball to McMillan. Bell leaped back into the bag standing up and one of his shoes came down on McMillan's right foot. In the collision, the Cub athlete also was kneed in the groin, and it wasn't until after he had recovered from this jolt that he discovered his foot was cut. The spikes entered a bit back of the big toe and left a mark about an inch long. The wound was closed with two stitches.

When play was resumed, Welsh clouted a single into center, Bell scoring. Maguire sacrificed Welsh to second, but Spohrer popped to Grimm. Not another Brave reached base on Root until Harper walked with two gone in the fourth. He was nipped in an attempted steal. The next disturbance for Root was a single by Maguire after Welsh had flied out in the fifth, but this was reduced to nothing when Hornsby started a fast double play on a grounder turned loose by Spohrer.

All that the Cubs could show for their effort from the time Hornsby hit his homer until the sixth round was McMillan's single in the second. Then Taylor blasted open the sixth with a one baser to center. Root tried to sacrifice, but instead forced Taylor at second. Root in turn was forced by English. Heathcote contributed patience, which became a base on balls. Hornsby then whistled a single past Sisler, scoring English. Wilson popped out the inning.

The one run lead taken by the Cubs served to annoy the Braves instead of quieting them. They endeavored to get unruly in the home sixth on a single by Richbourg with one deposed. The next two batters couldn't carry out Richbourg's idea. Another slight shock appeared in the seventh when Harper and Welsh singled with one out. Maguire hit into a force play, leaving men on first and third. The Braves decided this was an ideal situation for a double steal, and they tried it, but Harper was nailed at the plate.

Taylor Starts Third Run.

Taylor started the third and last Cub run in the eighth when he led off with a two base clout into the left field corner. Root bunted and in his haste to pick up the ball Smith fumbled, leaving Taylor on third and Root on first. Both English and Heathcote popped out, leaving the matter of runs to Hornsby. He doubled to the fence in left center. Taylor scored and Root tried to do the same, but refused to take a chance on sliding and was tagged at the plate.

The Braves still were fighting to go somewhere in the eighth, and for a few moments had Root guessing. A bad throw by English on Smith's roller started it. Richbourg flied to Wilson to make the second out, but Maranville pasted a double down the right field line, putting Smith on third. A hit would have meant a tie and possibly some overtime labor, but this horrible thought was banished when Sisler bounced to Root.

Mills Defeat Steamfitters Twice, 5-3, 9-0

Forrest Paddock and Lefty Sullivan again combined to give the Mills a double victory yesterday before 3,800 fans at Mills' stadium, Roger Kilby's Steamfitters being the victims, 5 to 3 and 9 to 0.

Paddock won his own game in the opener. He drove in the deciding run in the eighth inning after a duel with Big Tim Murchison.

In the second game Granville Bush, brother of the Cubs star, was chased by the Mills' in the sixth inning. He pitched creditably but poor support enabled Sullivan to take a 9 to 0 shutout. Lefty struck out eight and yielded only six hits.

McKELVEYS, 19; UNIVERSALS, 1.

The McKelvey Boosters baseball team crushed the Universal nine at Mason field yesterday, 19 to 1. Roseman and Gratch led the onslaught with three hits apiece.

CUB JUNIORS WIN.

The B. R. R. Cubs Juniors won easily over Ald. Mellon's Boosters yesterday at Winnemac park, 9 to 2. Klein and Papio did the hurling for the victors.

GIANTS WIN TWO.

The American Giants shut the Nashville Elites out in both ends of yesterday's double bill, winning the first game 3 to 0 and the second, 9 to 0. Fast fielding by the home club and poor base running by the visitors cost them the first game. A double, a walk and three singles failed to push over a run in the fourth. Foster had things his own way in the second while the Giants batted three pitchers hard.

FLORALS, 11; HAWKS, 2.

The Duffy Florals trounced the Quinlan Hawks, 11 to 2, after the latter had defeated the Hoellens, 9 to 6, at Shewbridge field yesterday. The Hawks got sixteen hits in the second game but could do little against McAllister when hits meant runs.

Skurski hit two home runs for the Florals, but shared starring honors with Buck Weaver, who connected for three singles, stole three bases and fielded sensationally.

Schutte Leads Jockeys' Race at Hawthorne

BY FRENCH LANE.

The jockeys at Hawthorne are staging a merry old race for the golden spurs which President John C. Schank will present to the boy who rides the greatest number of winners during the 19 day summer season.

And the strange part about it is that Paul Neal and Elmo Shropshire, who have been fighting like a couple of angry bulldogs all during the Chicago season for the lead, neither figure prominently in the Hawthorne title chase.

Harry Schutte, an apprentice lad from Kentucky, under contract to the Audley Farm stable, was the leader at the end of the first seven days of the meeting. He had five winners to his credit. Tied for second place with four winners were Fred Halbert, Dave Bryant, and Carl Meyer.

Shropshire Takes Rest.

Shropshire during the early days of the Hawthorne season didn't come home on a winner. He was in such bad form he asked for a vacation and Phil Reuter, who holds his contract, granted the request. He will return at the end of this week, but there is little likelihood he can roll up enough victories to come near winning the championship. Neal packed up his tack and departed for Saratoga and will not be back in time to furnish much of a scrap for the golden spurs.

Jockey.	Winners.	Jockey.	Winners.
H. Schutte	5	C. E. Allen	3
F. Halbert	4	R. Cramer	3
C. Meyer	4	O. Laidley	2
D. Bryant	4	R. Morrison	2
R. Heigle	3	E. Pool	2
L. Morris	3	C. McCrossen	2
V. Smith	3	W. Fronk	2

J. Dell, P. Neal, J. Smith, K. Russell, R. Jones, T. Burns, H. Philpot, one each.

Star Juveniles to Run.

The racing at Hawthorne this week will be featured by the second running of the Chicago Juvenile handicap on Saturday afternoon. The race will carry $10,000 in added money and will attract all the young flyers of the western turf. It is expected that Dedicate, the fleet son of Dodge-On Time, owned by Fred A. Burton of Chicago, will be shipped back from Saratoga to fill his engagement in the stake. Others which will likely go to the post are Try Too, Morsel, Capture, Galaday, Gallant Knight, Sydney, Ma Yerkes, Jimmy Moran, Particular and Thistle Ann. Most of them have been stake winners during the earlier part of the season.

The test handicap at 5½ furlongs which features today's program will be a warmup for the rich gallop. It has attracted Khara and Shan Tung from the Rancocas Stable, Thistle Ann, Take Off, Uptown Lad, Lightning Jones and Plucky Play.

Quiz Allen Today.

The Montrose purse, a gallop at a mile and 70 yards, also holds a prominent place on today's program. The contestants in this event include Suitor, Islam, Mole Hill, Peter Parley, Herrick, Fairdale and Mill Hand.

The turf fans today will watch the outcome of Jockey C. E. Allen's visit before the board of stewards. Hawthorne officials are investigating the ride he put up on Brown Wisdom, an odds on favorite, in a race on Saturday. They are also reported to be investigating several other of his rides during the first seven days of the Hawthorne meeting.

At times this season Allen had ridden with much skill. His work in other races has been so open to criticism the fans frequently have booed him at the scales.

LOGAN SQUARES WIN TWO GAMES FROM FIREMEN

The Logan Squares won their third and fourth victories over the Chicago Firemen, 13 to 9 and 6 to 5, yesterday. Eddie McGuire and Kowalski led the attack. In the second game the Firemen executed a triple play. Palmer allowed the Firemen only five hits. The Squares won the second tilt in the eighth. Mancuso, Finn, and Erickson hit safely to count the tying and winning tallies.

Must Be the Heat That Irks John McGraw

totalism, five years of frustration and life in the suburbs can do to a rough old sport who has been accustomed to his noggin, Kelly pool, success and life in town. In his heartier days the old gentleman made neither apologies nor explanations to the press and, far from propitiating the baseball reporters, he concealed the news or told them untruths and made them like it.

The system of household espionage that checked the comings and goings and private diversions of the baseball players would have made interesting material for essays in the papers as showing how little volition these men enjoyed while they ranked as celebrities and heroes with the public. But there was always a suggestion that public discussion of these domestic matters would displease old McGraw, and he was terrible when displeased.

Even more than Tex Rickard, who sometimes showed his teeth to the hired writers and dropped coercive hints to the effect that he was a great pal of all the publishers, Mr. McGraw has enforced the effect of censorship. So now that he complains I am not taking his threat too seriously. Perhaps he was out of sorts from American plan meals. Maybe the drought had killed his gladioli back home in Pelham, and beyond any doubt every time he looks at Andy Cohen playing second base for him he thinks of Rogers Hornsby, the final inspiration of the Cubs, who are licking him for the pennant, and Hornsby's abrupt dismissal from his own team by order of the owners and contrary to his own desires.

Cohen and Hornsby.

That case, incidentally, was an illustration of the old gentleman's command over the publicity when he was himself in full. One year he had said that Rogers Hornsby was a peerless athlete and the next year he would be damned if he would explain away the natural public curiosity as to what had changed his mind. And he never did explain but initiated such a ballyhoo for Andy Cohen that people just forgot.

en, however, for I made myself a baseball enthusiast.

You cannot find one boy who is more interested in our dear old Cubs than I am, so I'm going to write about them, too, even though I am not eligible for a prize.

In my estimation, there is not one Cub who isn't responsible in some way for the Cubs' winning streak.

Wilson and Hornsby are certainly keen hitters. Capt. Grimm and Kiki Cuyler are, too, and Ki is some stealer! But I'll give the laurel wreath to Riggs Stephenson. Stevie doesn't knock a homer every time up, but he keeps a-sluggin' every day; and don't forget, he's some left fielder, too!

Such a power as Murderers' Row, and such a dependable man as Riggs will surely mean much in the struggle and will most certainly bring the pennant home.

I'll get to the world's series somehow, though I am a girl. I may not have a box seat, but I'll gaze proudly at the same pennant on which the lucky boys' admiring eyes are fixed.

BETTY PESTKA.

See if you can't write as good a letter as Betty did. If you do you'll stand a good chance for a $5 prize and later a view of the first world's series game.

Colima Wins Verdict Over Martinez at Mexico City

English Girl Loses in Final of German Women's Tennis

HAMBURG, Germany, Aug. 11.—(AP)—Frau von Reznicek won the German women's tennis singles championship today by defeating Miss M. V. Chamberlain of England in the final round, 6-2, 5-7, 6-0.

'TIS O'BRIEN WHO FIGHTS LEVINSKY TONIGHT, SO 'TIS

Trade Punches at Logan Square Arena.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Tommy O'Brien, 170 pounder from Billings, Mont., and King Levinsky of the west side will meet in the windup of Promoter Mique Malloy's boxing show at the Logan Square open air arena, 2232 Milwaukee avenue tonight. They will box eight rounds to a decision.

It will be a battle between two stiff right hand punchers. O'Brien has met Tuffy Griffith on two occasions and both fights went the limit with Griffith winning the decisions by close margins. Levinsky lost to Johnny Sherrod in their first meeting but won the decision when they met the second time.

Ray Bowen, Washington, D. C. lightweight, and Danny Delmont of the west side will clash in the eight round semi-windup. They will weigh 137 pounds.

Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, newly appointed chairman of the Illinois athletic commission and the other commissioners, George Getz and Fred Gardner, will leave this afternoon for Springfield to confer with Gov. Emmerson regarding future policies. The commission is agreed there must be no political interference and they want the power to choose their own secretary.

ROBINS UNLIMBER LONG RANGE GUNS TO ROUT PIRATES

Three Homers in Eighth Mean 5-3 Win.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 11.—(AP)—An effective barrage of extra base hits off Remy Kremer after two were out in the eighth inning enabled Brooklyn to come from behind to defeat Pittsburgh, 5 to 3, in the third game of the series today. Kremer's fast ball was effective through all the early innings, but with two gone and none on base in the eighth Frederick hit a home run. Herman then doubled and Hendrick and Bissonette hit successive homers over the right field wall.

Ray Moss was the winning pitcher, fanning seven, five in succession. He was found for two runs in the seventh and was removed for a substitute batter in the eighth. John Morrison pitched the ninth inning. Score:

Junior Netmen Open U.S. Title Tourney Today

Culver, Ind., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—One of the best fields that ever has come together starts play tomorrow morning in the National Boy and Junior tennis championships on the clay court of Culver Military academy. More than 80 stars from all over the nation are entered in the lists for the junior title and some 40 youngsters, 15 years of age and under, will compete for honors in the boys' division.

Representatives from California hold the advance spotlight in both classes. Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara has been in the middle west for some time and has impressed every one with his play. Last year he was runner up in the junior singles to Frank Shields of New York, ranked tenth in the nation among the men, and this season the Golden State youngster has been playing better than ever.

With his teammate, Ellsworth Vines of Pasadena, he won the intersectional team championships, defeating Julius Seligson, ninth ranking player in the country, in his final singles match. The next week he won the Western singles championship, besting Vines in a brilliant five set final match.

Vines has had almost as spectacular a season, defeating Shields recently in the Michigan state championships, and Emmet Pare, the national clay court champion, in the semi-final round of the Western tournament. As a doubles combination the Californians appear almost invincible in junior competition, as in their last tournament, the Michigan state, they trimmed Fritz Mercur and Shields in four sets.

CHICAGO GOLFERS FACE BUSY WEEK OF TOURNAMENTS

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Another week of conflicting golf tournament dates opens this morning. Tuesday and Wednesday are overloaded with competitive golf, while there are two tournaments Thursday. The other days have little or nothing.

Six tournaments clash on Wednesday, including the most important tournament of the week, the Chicago District Golf association's annual team matches. Teams from most of the clubs in the district will play 36 holes for the team championship at Knollwood.

On the same day the Western Advertising Golfers' association will hold its fourth tournament of the season at Illinois. The Women's Western association will begin one of its series of two day match play events at Riverside. The Midland club will hold a tournament at Woodridge and the Chicago Kiwanis club another at Evergreen. The Shawnee Country club will hold its first "Swastika Swat" at Rolling Green.

Three Conflict Wednesday.

All three have similar programs of golf all day, dinner, awarding of prizes and entertainments in the evening. Butterfield's seventh annual "Cruise" will be 27 holes instead of the customary 36 on the practical theory that two rounds is a bit too tiring, and 18 holes aren't quite enough. The prizes still retain the names given them when the Cruise was an annual event on each Columbus day—Nina, Pinta, Santa Maria, San Salvador, Cadiz trophies, and so on. North Shore's ninth annual Silver Tassel is limited to 200 entrants.

Par Trophy Meet Today.

Park Ridge's Play Day, with a program similar to the other invitationals, is scheduled for Thursday. Naval post No. 372 of the American Legion will hold a tournament at Big Oaks the same day.

Today the Women's Western association will hold its annual club team championship, usually known as the "Par Trophy." Each club enters a team of four players, who play their own course against par from scratch. The team finishing the most up on par or the least down wins.

As yet no club or organization has designated Friday or Saturday for any tournament.

RICHARD J. BURKE

RICHARD J. BURKE of California—Survey Engineer—arrived in New York Sunday, August 4. He had come by Zeppelin from Friedrichshafen, Germany, in 95 hours, 40 minutes!

Next evening, August 5, he boarded The Airway Limited—famous Pennsylvania train—at 6.05 P.M. (Standard Time) in New York.

48 hours later he was in Los Angeles!—having completed the whole trip from Germany to California in less than six days of actual traveling time! . . .

The success of the first 48-hour Coast to Coast Rail-Air Service—developed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., and the Santa Fe Railway—is due to many months of scientific investigation and preparation under supervision of a staff of experts, headed by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

In short, everything possible has been done to ensure in this new enterprise the same high standards of speed, security, comfort, which characterize the operations of "the largest fleet of trains in America"

WHEAT TRADERS EXPECT EUROPE AS LARGE BUYER

U. S. Supply Ample to Provide Exports.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Damage to the spring wheat in the American and Canadian northwest is confirmed by the United States and Canadian government reports. Losses in winter wheat in the southwest are also confirmed by our government report. The winter wheat crop as indicated by August returns is 774,000,000 bu as compared with 903,000,000 bu last year, or a loss of 129,000,000 bu, mostly in the four spring wheat states in the northwest. Canada's crop is estimated on the government's condition of 66 given out late Saturday, at around 210,000,000 to 220,000,000 bu, against 508,000,000 bu harvested last year.

Taking the total supplies with the big carryover, the United States has an available supply of 1,004,000,000 bu compared with 1,031,000,000 bu last year. This gives us a comfortable surplus for export, with Canada largely out of the running as an exporter this year, while it and Argentina were the leading exporters via Europe and other importing countries during the last season.

Europe may have to come to America to fill their requirements. It is understood that the southern hemisphere crops have not stooled properly, which would suggest small yields.

Supply Adjustment Close.

Indications are at present that there will be an unusually close adjustment of world's supplies to requirements. A New York statistician figures that there is enough wheat in exporting and consuming countries for all requirements considering production and carryover, but it will leave the world without reserves at the end of the season, and dependent upon the new crop for new supplies. These factors are the basis for liberal buying on breaks by large speculative interests.

Aside from the purely speculative situation in wheat, the domestic condition in this country based on the cash position is temporarily bearish. Visible supplies this week are expected to show around 146,000,000 bu, or about double last year's. There is wheat everywhere, although the big marketing movement is over, and the federal farm board has advised farmers to hold their wheat back. But, there is more wheat in store on track at leading primary markets and throughout the country than ever known at this season. In the southwest, two railroads have moved more than 100,000 cars, practically all wheat, in the last seven weeks, which includes a liberal supply of old grain handled before the new was available. This is equal to 150,000,000 bu.

Primary receipts of wheat in the last three weeks aggregate 100,000,000 bu, a record for this period. The question of storage room at all primary markets is a leading factor.

A most important factor in the week's trading was the enormous purchases of flour by large consumers estimated at around 4,000,000 barrels or more at least, which was hedged by millers' purchases of cash grain and futures, furnishing a sustaining factor to the market after a break of 18@19c in a week.

Larger Run of Oats Expected.

Liberal scattered liquodation by expected, and cash interests are hedging by sales of futures. The crop is about 250,000,000 bu short of last year with the carryover 37,000,000 bu compared with 42,000,000 bu last year. Prices are 12@13c higher than a year ago. At the close September was 48⅛-@48½c, December 52⅜@52⅜c, March 55⅛c and May 56½c, showing net losses of 1⅛@2c for the week. Prices follow:

Eastern interests are credited with having bought around 25 per cent of the country's crop of rye, mostly for December delivery, getting it from local traders and northwestern interests.

While buying early advanced prices sharply, there was a decline at the last, with the close 2@3½c lower, September being $1.08, December $1.15½, March $1.20½, May $1.23½.

At the close lard showed losses of 27½@32½c, bellies 27½@42½c and short ribs 60c compared with a week ago. Prices follow:

STOCK MARKET AGAIN ARENA OF CREDIT BATTLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 11.—Whether or not last week's drastic move by the federal reserve in advancing the rediscount rate at New York, by a full 1 per cent, and reducing the buying rate for bills by ⅛, will have the happy result of driving down rates for money designed for employment in commercial channels is a problem on which forecasts cannot be made with any degree of assurance, in consideration of the many complex angles to the general money situation.

Obviously, the reserve board had in mind three desired objectives in adopting such an unanticipated and unusual task, one of them the stabilization of commercial money rates through the purchase of offered acceptances, another the curbing of the tremendous expansion in loans on securities and third, regrasping control of the money market, which obviously had been lost by the board.

Reversal of Policy.

The decision to stiffen the rediscount rate at New York marks what must be considered a reversal of policy by the federal reserve, and a return to the time honored weapon of central banks the world over in controlling the ebb and flow of credit, the rediscount rate. It was effective, it will be recalled, in putting an end to the post-war inflation of 1920, and incidentally, the current advance in the rediscount date of a full one per cent, is the first time since that dramatic financial year, nine year ago, when such a wide change was made.

There is little doubt that the action was aimed directly at the securities markets, in the attempt to put a stop to the extraordinary percentage of the country's available credit which has been absorbed by the vast expansion in the share markets this year, a loan account which has gained $736,000,000 since the first week of June and which for the first time in the country's history has put the brokers' loan account above the $6,000,000,000 mark. The immediate answer of the stock market was a sweeping decline, which extended to every section of the exchange list.

Explanation of Attitude.

Possibly the board's attitude was best explained by its one bulletin, which warned the country against speculative excesses at the expense of business. It said: "The firming tendency of the money market which has been evident since the beginning of the year—contrary to the usual trend at this season—makes it incumbent upon the federal reserve banks to give constant and close attention to the situation in order that no influence adverse to the trade and industry of the country shall be exercised by the trend of money conditions beyond that may develop as inevitable. The extraordinary absorption of funds in speculative securities loans, which has characterized the credit movement during the last year or more in the judgment of the federal reserve board, deserves particular attention lest it become a decisive factor working toward a still further firming of money rates to the prejudice of the country's commercial interests."

That money rates of all classes are extraordinarily high is obvious, yet there is no evidence that this condition has worked a hardship on the business of the country which enters the autumn season at an extremely high pace of operation and with sustained vitality in all basic lines, with the distribution of goods maintaining maximum velocity.

The intention of last week's unexpected move, it follows, is to encourage business through a gradual easing of the rates it will pay for accommodation, at the same time maintaining a stiff call money rate with the object of discouraging member banks from overextending their lending position with the reserve. Member institutions now are in debt to the federal reserve to the extent of $1,064,070,000, as compared with $1,061,285,000 a year ago.

To just what extent the reserve will participate in the bill market is problematical.

BRIGGS COMPANY INCOME EQUALS $1.21 PER SHARE

New York, Aug. 11.—(AP)—For the six months ending June 30, the Briggs Manufacturing company of Detroit, makers of automobile bodies, reports a net profit of $2,422,697, or $1.21 a share, compared with $2,053,553, or $1.02 a share, during the corresponding period last year.

6,000 Buyers Visit Chicago Trade Centers

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Chicago's wholesale business reached a peak last week when 6,000 buyers visited the market. The semi-annual convention of the Interstate Merchants' council brought 2,210 retailers to the city and six important trade shows attracted about twice that number of buyers.

The attendance and the widespread interest displayed in the various events is illustrative of the new attitude toward Chicago as a mercantile center.

J. C. Sherman of Sherman Brothers company, Chicago buying representatives, points out that the growth of the market in the last few years is nowhere better shown than in the increasing number of stores which are establishing Chicago buying connections.

"The gradual interest of the stores throughout the country is evidenced by the fact that in 1923 there were 21 stores which had permanent buying connection in Chicago; in 1924 the number was increased to 47; 1925 the number was 107. The year 1927 saw the number grow to 303 and in 1928 the number of department stores having permanent buying connection in Chicago had reached 805." Mr. Sherman says:

"The growth of Chicago as a mercantile center during the last seven years has been remarkable and it is now one of the accepted markets of the world," according to Mr. Sherman. "Chicago has three of the largest wholesale stocks of dry goods in the world and the up-to-date merchant is the one who takes advantage of the market to the fullest extent."

Outlook for fall business is excellent according to Carson Pirie Scott & Co. In a statement issued yesterday the firm says that merchants in the states adjacent to Illinois are particularly happy over the prospects of fall business. The pessimism which was so prevalent throughout the Dakotas and Minnesota during the period of the prolonged draught has given way to a more healthy outlook according to the company's report.

N. Y. CENTRAL LINES REPORT MORE BUSINESS

New York, Aug. 11.—[Special.]—Final reports showing large gains in the New York Central system's gross revenue during the six months ended June 30, as given out today, correspond closely with the preliminary figures given out two weeks ago. They show gross operating revenues of $193,753,657, as against $183,109,872 in the same period last year, an increase of $10,643,784.

Net income for the six months was $45,600,404, against $22,116,095 during the first half of 1928. Gross operating revenues for the second quarter were $101,043,020, as against $94,941,866 in the June quarter last year, representing a gain of $6,101,154. The Indiana Harbor Belt Railroad company reported gross revenues of $6,329,021, an increase of $251,615 over the first six months in 1928. Net income is $1,354,946, as against $1,120,061, an increase of $234,884.

Since Lindbergh Flight Half Billion Pours Into Aviation

BY SCRUTATOR.

In the last two years aviation in the United States has passed rapidly through phases that hung on for decades in the case of other forms of transportation.

Since Col. Lindbergh made his perfect flight to Paris, something like a half billion dollars has poured into the aviation business. All of it is available in some form for the further development of flying on a commercial scale. Amazing as the automobile industry was in its growth, it required ten long years to get that much capital into it. The figures are taken from an aviation handbook compiled by the Commercial National Bank and Trust company of New York.

Railroads in this country began as feeder lines for waterways. Short stretches were built with local capital. It was long after the civil war when the scattered roads had been brought into a reasonable number of units through consolidation. Already aviation has passed through this stage. A few large, strong companies are in a dominant position and are managing transportation facilities, sometimes in combination with the existing modes of movement on the ground.

Speed of Service.

The forty-eight hour trip by train and plane from New York to Los Angeles is being made now. It is possible to go to an office in Chicago and purchase a three part ticket—say to Minneapolis—and to ride on it from the loop to the center of the Minnesota metropolis. A cab company's driver will take a portion of the ticket in lieu of fare to the Chicago airport and another in Minneapolis will accept a portion for the ride in from the local landing field.

It is a question whether the development of flying is following more closely the pattern set by the railroads or by the automobile. The latter industry would be, possibly, of second rate importance if it depended for its patronage on purchasers of buses and trucks. Its great appeal is to the individual owner. Last year the department of commerce licensed some 5,000 planes, of which 3,000 were privately owned, indicating that the owner driver may be even more important than the great companies with established lines. Last year the number of persons with pilot licenses exceeded 11,000.

Quite possibly we shall see a joint development, with the number of individual drivers growing as the companies do. Manufacturers of small, low priced planes and engines are reported to have more orders than they can fill. They have been getting business as the commercial lines have been swept into great mergers. With the operating companies have been combined some of the leading concerns making planes and engines, while subsidiaries of some are handling terminals. In fact, some of the great companies are more truly coordinated from a complete transportation standpoint than anything else known. They build their machines, train their pilots, have their own fields and arrange for transfers with other forms of transport.

Trend to Consolidation.

There are still some small and weak concerns which will have to go out of business or be absorbed by the giants. More than 600 companies are listed as engaged in the industry. It is regarded as likely that the strong ones of comparatively small size will be taken in by the larger ones with ample capital.

Among the corporations that are earning profits are the following: Curtiss Aeroplane and Motor company, which earned $2.28 a share on nearly 350,000 shares last year; Wright Aeronautical corporation, with 600,000 shares issued and which earned $2,433,000 in 1928; United Aircraft and Transportation, Inc., reported to have earned $2.52 a share on a million and a half shares last year and $1.13 a share in the first quarter of this year alone, and North American Aviation, Inc., with two million shares outstanding and earnings of 25 cents a share in the first quarter of 1929. The last named is a holding company with a subsidiary transportation company. The Curtiss-Wright groups have been allied in a corporation of this name formed only a little more than a month ago.

Thus far the biggest money makers have been the manufacturers of planes and engines. Those with the best future prospects, apparently, are the ones that will sell to the individual who wants to fly his own plane and at the same time get revenues from commercial transportation.

FOREIGN LOANS EASIER TO MAKE BY NEW METHOD

Washington, D. C., Aug. 11.—(AP)—Plans of the state department to change the present policy under which foreign loans are made by American bankers are expected by officials of the department to be made effective next week.

It is planned to change the methods by which the department indicates it has no objection to a loan being made. Previously the department has informed bankers that it "has no objections" to the placing of the loan, but that this must not be taken to indicate the department approves of the loan.

It was found, however, that in marketing the loan the "no objections" indication of the government was being used as an argument in some cases that the United States approved and supported the issue. To eliminate this phase, the department henceforth, when it has no objections to a loan, will simply inform a banker that it will "not be necessary for the department to consider" the application. Thus no import can be attached to the department's action.

CHICAGO STOCKS REWIN PART OF RECENT LOSSES

Middle West Utility Revival Feature.

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

Saturday's remarkable reversal of the price trend to higher levels did much to reduce the losses suffered by the Chicago stock market on Friday and in the utility group, where liquidation took place earlier last week. The net results for the week, however, indicate that considerably more ground needs to be recovered by most of the active securities before the score is evened.

There were a few exceptions, and these included Commonwealth Edison, which closed the week with a net gain of a point to 400 as a result of its spectacular recovery of 49 points on Saturday. Grigsby-Grunow, which sold as low as 213 on Friday, recovered to the extent that the net decline for the week was only 4½ points to 238.

Still Far from Peak.

The 37 point recovery staged by Middle West Utilities common on Saturday still left 44 additional points to be made up before the price equals that of a week previous. Central and Southwest Utilities, its subsidiary, was 43 points lower on the week. The Utility and Industrial common and preferred stocks were off about 10 points each on the week.

Insull Utility Investments closed the week 34 points below the preceding week. Chicago Corporation common was down 15¼ and preferred lost 9 points.

Auburn Automobile finished with a 15 point decline. E. L. Bruce was a feature, with a net gain for the week of 6¾ points. North American Car was up 1½ for the period. Henry H. Brigham, president, stated yesterday that the company has purchased 1,000 tank cars since Jan. 1 and is now operating a total of 6,501 cars.

Drop in Values.

The week's operations brought a loss of $181,424,751, or 4.90 per cent, in the market value of the fifty most active stocks. The total market value of these issues, according to a compilation by Lage & Co., was $3,517,944,608 at the close Saturday, compared with $3,699,369,359 a week previous. Of the same issues there were twenty-one which were listed and traded in a year ago, and these had a market value of $1,546,769,362, against $798,444,762 on Aug. 11, 1928, a gain of $748,324,600, or 93.72 per cent.

To the Holders of the

Cuba Cane Sugar Corporation

The Reorganization Committee has received so many requests for additional information concerning the Company and the Plan of Reorganization that the Committee desires to supplement its letter of July 25 to all holders of the Company's securities. Copies of the letter of July 25, 1929, and of the Plan of Reorganization, may be obtained from Guaranty Trust Company of New York, New York, Depositary for the Convertible Debentures, Central Hanover Bank and Trust Company, New York, Depositary for the Preferred Stock, and The Equitable Trust Company of New York, New York, Depositary for the Common Stock.

Expiration of Time for Deposits

The Plan names August 20, 1929 as the last day for deposits. This date was determined because the Company's current resources will not permit it to continue operations for long after that date, unless it can obtain new credits from its banks to furnish about $6,000,000 required to cover the "dead season" expenditures for the next four months. The Company cannot obtain new credits until substantially all its security holders deposit their securities, thereby making it reasonably certain that the Plan can be consummated. Failure to declare the Plan operative about August 20 will compel the Company to cease operations shortly thereafter, and, in that event, an immediate receivership appears inevitable.

Position of Debenture Holders

Although the book value of the Company's properties indicates a very substantial equity for the stockholders, its Debentures are selling in the market at about 60, its preferred stock at about 6, and its common stock at about 2, making a value for the Company's properties, as indicated by the market values of its securities, of about $19,000,000 (after deducting underlying indebtedness of subsidiaries), or $6,000,000 less than the principal of the $25,000,000 of outstanding Debentures. While the Reorganization Committee does not believe that the market reflects either the intrinsic or the potential value of the Company's properties in any normal sugar market, nevertheless it may reflect all or more than the Company's security holders would be able to realize under present circumstances upon a forced sale of its properties.

In the event of a receivership, it will be necessary for the Debenture Holders to arrange for new money immediately in substantial amounts so as to continue the Company's operations, if rapid and serious damage to the Company's agricultural properties is to be avoided.

Under the Plan, the Debenture Holders will receive an equal principal amount of new debentures, may receive interest up to 9%, if earned, and will receive a substantial proportion of the common stock of the New Company.

The consummation of the Plan will permit payment of the interest coupons maturing on January 1, 1930 on the outstanding Debentures, whereas, in the event of the failure of the Plan, the Company will be obliged to default on the payment of the interest as well as upon the maturing principal.

Position of Stockholders

Each depositing stockholder will receive (1) a Subscription Warrant entitling him to purchase common stock of the New Company on or before August 20, 1929 and (2) an Option Warrant entitling him to purchase additional common stock at any time before January 1, 1940. The Subscription Warrants do not have to be exercised, and there is no obligation whatever for any depositing stockholder to invest any new money under the Plan. He may sell his Subscription Warrant or permit it to expire. Whether or not he exercises his Subscription Warrant, each depositing stockholder will receive an Option Warrant which he may hold or sell. The Committee, however, believes that the Subscription Warrants should be exercised, since in view of the potential earning power of the properties with the return of more prosperous conditions in the sugar industry, the common stock of the New Company, in the opinion of the Committee, will have a value in excess of the subscription price.

In the event of a receivership, the Committee believes that the interest of both the Preferred and Common stockholders will be seriously jeopardized and probably entirely wiped out.

Immediate Deposits Urged

The Committee should be able to declare the Plan operative about August 20. Any delay after that date may defeat the Plan. Before the Plan can be declared operative, all, or substantially all, of the Company's security holders must deposit their securities. The Committee believes it is to the advantage of all security holders to deposit under the Plan and strongly urges all security holders to deposit at once.

CENTRAL TRUST COMPANY OF ILLINOIS, CHICAGO, TRUSTEE

Business: Central West Public Service Company, incorporated under the laws of Delaware, owns and operates public utility properties in Iowa, Minnesota and South Dakota; with other utility properties in Nebraska and North Dakota owned through subsidiaries. Ice properties in Iowa and Texas are also owned by the Company. The Company owns all the capital stocks and all outstanding funded debt of the subsidiary companies except a purchase money mortgage for $5000.

The Company and its subsidiaries supply 206 communities with one or more classes of utility service. Electric light and power is furnished in 60, gas in 5, water in 1 and telephone service in 152 communities. Electric power is supplied wholesale to 3 additional communities. The population of the territories in which the electric, gas, telephone and water properties are located is estimated at more than 250,000, and the number of such customers and subscribers exceeds 57,500. Ice is also supplied in Dallas, Texas, and in Sioux City, Iowa.

Valuation: The depreciated valuation of the principal properties is estimated to be in excess of $15,000,000, based on appraisals by independent engineers, plus the cost of subsequent additions, extensions, and of certain purchased property.

Earnings: The combined earnings from the properties now owned by the Company or through its subsidiaries, for the 12 months ended June 30, 1929, before interest, depreciation, amortization and Federal Income Tax, are reported by the Company's auditor as follows:

Gross Earnings	$2,368,653.78
Operating Expense, Maintenance and Local Taxes	1,575,648.21
Net Income before Interest, Depreciation, Amortization and Federal Income Taxes	$ 793,005.57
Annual Interest Requirement of First Mortgage Bonds	348,635.00
Annual Interest Requirement of Ten Year Convertible 6% Debentures and Three Year 7% Gold Notes	$ 157,360.00

The above net earnings before interest, depreciation, amortization and Federal Income Tax are 1.56 times the total annual interest requirement of the entire funded debt, including this issue. The balance after deducting interest on first mortgage bonds, but before depreciation, amortization and Federal Income Tax, is more than 2.8 times the combined annual interest requirements of the Ten Year Convertible 6% Debentures and Three Year 7% Notes to be outstanding.

Management: The outstanding Common Stock (except directors' qualifying shares) of Central West Public Service Company is owned by McGraw Electric Company, an organization known throughout the territory for its successful development of public utilities. McGraw Electric Company recently invested $1,000,000 cash in additional Common Stock of Central West Public Service Company and these funds have been used for additions, improvements, working capital and other corporate purposes.

All legal matters in connection with this issue are under the direction of Messrs. Poppenhusen, Johnston, Thompson & Cole. The books of account are audited annually by Arthur Andersen & Co. Appraisals by Messrs. Hagenah & Dorsey and Stone & Webster Engineering Corporation. These notes are offered for delivery if, when and as issued, subject to approval of counsel. Delivery of definitive notes will be made on or about August 19, 1929.

Five Per Cent. Adjustment Mortgage Gold Bonds, due 1949

Dated May 27, 1929

To Bankers and Brokers:

As there has been no recent interest payment on Seaboard Air Line Railway 5% Adjustment Mortgage Gold Bonds, there is no complete list of the present owners of these bonds. A very large part of the known holders whom it has been possible to advise of the Plan have deposited their bonds thereunder, but there still remain approximately $7,000,000 of the bonds undeposited held in large part by owners unknown to the Company with whom the Company and the Committee have therefore been unable to communicate. It is believed many of these unknown bondholders are customers of bankers and brokers.

Both the officers of the Company and the Committee fear that many of these bondholders are not advised of the Plan. In the belief that the prompt deposit of any undeposited Adjustment Bonds is greatly to the advantage of the owners thereof, they urge all bankers and brokers to bring the Plan to the attention of all customers believed to own these bonds and to recommend the immediate deposit of all undeposited bonds.

Requests for copies of the Plan and information relating thereto should be addressed to the Secretary of the Committee, Edmund Burke, Jr., 63 Wall Street, New York City.

The Certificates of Deposit are listed on the New York Stock Exchange and therefore may be used as collateral.

The extended period for the deposit of bonds will expire next Friday, August 16, 1929.

All owners of undeposited bonds wishing to obtain the benefits of the Plan should deposit their bonds promptly with the Depositary, The National Park Bank of New York, 214 Broadway, New York City.

UNCLE POM

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Pomeroy Penfold, a wealthy American widower nearing fifty, loves to travel and visit friends. When the story opens he is a guest at the château of his sister, Alicia, and her husband, the Comte de Rennec. He is disturbed by the sight of an intruder—a man in yachting costume—who appears on the estate and stares rudely at Maia, the count's lovely twenty year old daughter by a first marriage. Maia admits having met the man in America and says his name is Capt. Seagrave.

That afternoon Kirby Colton, handsome scapegrace son of an American bishop, an old friend of the Penfold family, calls at the château unexpectedly and is invited by the count to spend the night. He, too, has met Maia in America.

The count surprises Uncle Pom by telling him Maia loves him and indicating the marriage would please him. Maia overhears them and confirms her father's remarks.

Later she confesses that both Kirby and Seagrave are erstwhile suitors. Knowing the two hate each other, Uncle Pom fears a clash and goes in search of Kirby. He is attacked from behind, knocked unconscious, and robbed of a belt containing priceless diamonds. That night a prowler in his room tries to choke him, then escapes. Maia suspects Seagrave of both attacks—he is always in financial difficulties—but Kirby astonishes every one by offering an alibi for his rival. And he confides in Uncle Pom that he has not come to see Maia, but to borrow one thousand dollars to save an innocent girl from trouble. Penfold gives him the money.

Seagrave calls, and is unabashed when told he is under suspicion for assault and battery. He denies the charges, announces he intends to marry Maia, and infuriates Penfold by hinting he knows something to the girl's discredit which he will use as blackmail if necessary. Pressed for details, he declares she is involved in a case of murder. He suggests that Colton be asked to confirm this, as he was a witness. Colton explains that Maia did shoot a man in America quite by accident, but through Seagrave's fault. He challenges the latter to a duel, but later agrees with Penfold that this would only bring scandal to Maia's name, and the best thing for Kirby to do is to clear out at once. He makes a deposition, swearing he fired the shot, in order to forestall more blackmail threats, and surprises Penfold by confiding that he has just put through a coup with some European financiers that will make him rich. Maia calmly accepts the news that Kirby is playing the scapegrace for her.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

THE TEST OF A CHECK.

Mr. Penfold was not aroused for dejeuner, and when he awoke some time in the afternoon pleasantly refreshed and relaxed, he decided to spend the rest of the day in bed. Maia looked in and ordered a light meal, commending his decision for repose. She chatted with him a little, then supplied him with a few French and English reviews, arranged his pillows comfortably, and went out.

Thus passed pleasantly Mr. Penfold's half holiday in bed not only undisturbed but, what is sometimes better, with the assurance that strict orders had been issued against his being disturbed at all. Maia, coming again late in the afternoon, said that Seagrave must have got in touch with his client, as the chef de police had told her father that the libel on the yacht had been removed.

"At what time was that?" Mr. Penfold asked.

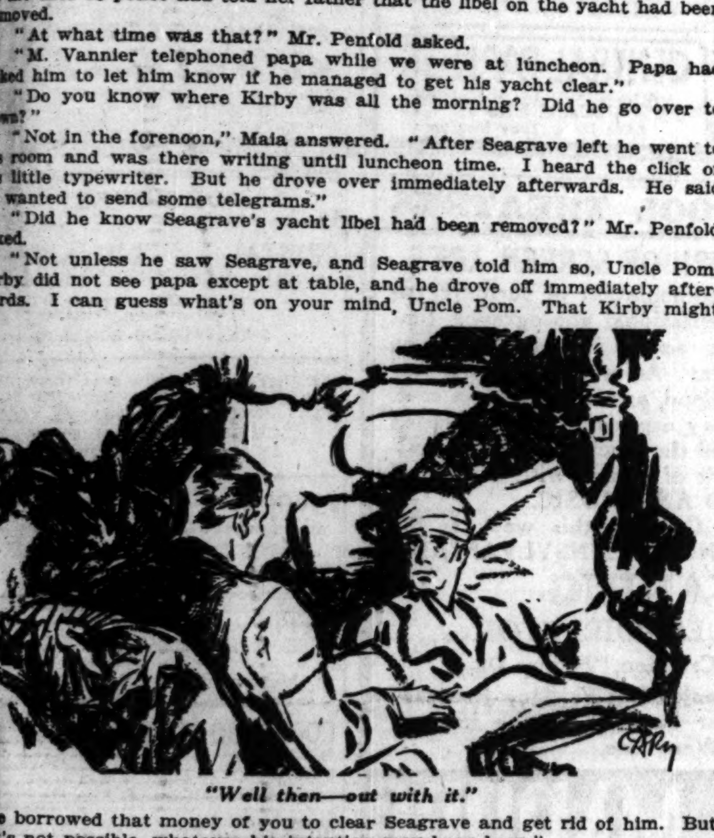
"M. Vannier telephoned papa while we were at luncheon. Papa had asked him to let him know if he managed to get his yacht clear."

"Do you know where Kirby was all the morning? Did he go over to town?"

"Not in the forenoon," Maia answered. "After Seagrave left he went to his room and was there writing until luncheon time. I heard the click of his little typewriter. But he drove over immediately afterwards. He said he wanted to send some telegrams."

"Did he know Seagrave's yacht libel had been removed?" Mr. Penfold asked.

"Not unless he saw Seagrave, and Seagrave told him so, Uncle Pom. Kirby did not see papa except at table, and he drove off immediately afterwards. I can guess what's on your mind, Uncle Pom. That Kirby might have borrowed that money of you to clear Seagrave and get rid of him. But that's not possible, whatever his intention may have been."



"Well then—out with it."

"I think," said Mr. Penfold, "that Seagrave is quite scamp enough to have said nothing about being all clear and taken Kirby's money if Kirby had been fool enough to offer it. What are Kirby's plans now?"

"He told father that if there was no objection he'd like to stay on here until Capt. Seagrave had cleared. That was all right, because papa's got an idea that Kirby may not be such a bad lot after all and that he's making himself your self-appointed watchdog. Kirby adores you, Uncle Pom."

"Well, the scamp has reason to. Friendship is a rare and precious thing, and sometimes I think the only real test for it is the signature on a check."

Maia laughed. "The old time Poles had a naive way of putting it. They used to say, 'You have earned my friendship and I shall prove it to you with my money and with my health.'"

Mr. Penfold nodded. "The health referring to their vigor with the sword. Nowadays, though, when it comes to proving friendship the pen is mightier than the sword."

Maia asked, "Have you been so good a friend to Kirby merely because of his father, the bishop?"

Mr. Penfold shook his head. "No, my dear. In many ways the bishop is a dear old fool. His odor of sanctity is apt to be oppressive, and I sometimes think Kirby's early home influences were largely responsible for his eruptions. I seem to see in Kirby a return to the age of chivalry south of the Mason and Dixon line. The hot young blades of the golden era before the war were often far from what they should have been, but when well bred they lived up to code that in many respects was knightly. Just as Seagrave is an atavar of a gentleman of fortune, which is to say a pirate, so is Kirby that thing in respect to the Virginia gentleman of ante-bellum days. He would answer a charge against his honor not with his tongue but with his sword or pistol. Or what is even harder, he might pocket an insult to protect a woman's name."

"Perhaps," said Maia, "I've been all wrong about him." She was silent for a moment then asked, "Do you think he really has been living all this time on his aunt?"

"Yes, but not in the capacity commonly reported. She's young and pretty and talented and a little crazy and fancies herself as a sort of queen bee of the indigent intelligentsia. She likes to maintain a suite of courtiers, and Kirby's been a sort of chamberlain. No doubt he insulates her to some extent against being victimized and committing flagrant follies. The drones in her crowd fear his sting."

"Has he ever done anything worth while?"

"If so," said Mr. Penfold evasively, "he has not yet cashed in on it." He gave her a keen look. "Why all this sudden interest in my protégé?"

"O—just because he is that thing I should say. I've changed my mind about your being easily imposed upon." She was silent for a moment, then said, "Mightn't it be like Kirby to hand over all his ready cash to a man he hates for the sake of—a man he loves?"

"Yes," Mr. Penfold admitted. "He's full of those grandiose gestures. But it wouldn't be necessary after his taking the onus of this Newport affair. That deprives Seagrave of his blackmail."

"Kirby may not think so, even if he got Seagrave to sign a statement that it was Kirby who fired the shot."

Mr. Penfold was silent a moment, then said, "Go tell Kirby I want to see him," and then as Maia seemed about to protest he added positively, "alone."

"You mean you don't want me to come back, Uncle Pom?"

"Better not, my dear. That might interfere with his coming clean."

Kirby entered a few minutes later. Mr. Penfold asked abruptly, "Kirby, did you ask me for that check in order to pay off the libel on Seagrave's schooner?"

"Yes, sir."

"Why did you do that?"

"It seemed to me the best chance of getting rid of him."

"And now," said Mr. Penfold, "is it going to get rid of him?"

"No, sir. Not right away."

"So you merely made him a handsome present of that money," Mr. Penfold said bitterly.

"It looks that way," Kirby admitted.

"So when you found he'd made a sucker of you, you decided to make your deposition. And now you have reason to think that's no good, either. What are you holding back? Why did you take such a poor chance? Come clean, now, and tell me the truth."

"Because," Kirby said slowly, "it looked to me as if Seagrave is in a fair way to ruin your happiness, quite aside from his blackmail of Maia."

"I may be wrong," Kirby said, "but I think you'd better know. I wanted to save you that, if possible."

"Well, then—out with it."

"At the very start, when I met Maia just after she'd found you unconscious on the shore and told her I hadn't seen Seagrave, she accused me of lying. I admitted then that I had talked to him but but told her that he couldn't have been the man that struck you down because I'd caught sight of him far down the shore at about the moment you must have been attacked. Maia begged me to suppress this testimony."

"What?" Mr. Penfold cried incredulously.

"Just that," Kirby said. "She wanted me to admit having talked to Seagrave but to forget that I'd seen him a few minutes later about a quarter of a mile away."

"In other words," said Mr. Penfold slowly, "she wanted a straight case of assault and robbery against Seagrave."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

You have, in "Pleasure Crazed," ladies and gertlemen, a well produced altalker with an interesting if not highly original story base.

If called upon to do so, you could probably think of a dozen titles that would fit the piece better than the one it wears. However, we are learning to say more and more resignedly, "What's in a name!" I understand the producers are considering engaging under joint contract the gentleman who names Pullman cars to title their products for them, thereby relieving them of terrible mental strain, and, besides, providing an element of mystery for their output. Thus:

"'Momus' is on tonight," will say we;
"Now WHAT sort of a film CAN
'Momus' be!
Eeny meeny, miney mo—
Romance? Tragedy? Come — let's go!—"

That's the way the producers have it figured out. That we WILL go; that curiosity will not permit us to stay away from—Roanoakie, for instance. Or Arpadillo? Or, perhaps, Cherokokomoko. Further announcements regarding this interesting experiment probably will not appear in this column.

"Pleasure Crazed" tells the story of a beautiful lady [Dorothy Burgess in a blonde wig that's not half as becoming as her own dark hair] who doesn't know when she's well off. She cheats on one of the nicest and most understanding husbands you've ever met on a screen or off it, and loses everything for the sake of a polo playing cad whose passion had really been for her money and not for her.

A fine cast, smooth direction and excellent photography are this film's most pronounced assets. Much and intelligent attention has been paid to detail. You will be very fond of Mr. Mackenna as the husband of the blonde Alma, and of Marguerite Churchill as a charming housekeeper, struggling to break away from a pair of crooks into whose toils she has inadvertently fallen. Miss Burgess is convincing; minor rôles are well played.

You will—the State-Lake talking machine working as it should—be pleased with the sound effects. I saw "Pleasure Crazed" in a projection room and found them perfect.

ACTORS' EQUITY VOTES FOR 80-20 UNION SHOP FOR MOVIES

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 11.—(AP)—The motion picture colony here buzzed today with excitement over action taken last night by the Actors' Equity association, which reintrenched 5,000 film players behind an 80-20 compromise offer to the motion picture producers, inc., in their effort to establish closed shop in the screen capital.

President Frank Gillmore, who has led equity in its campaign for recognition, asked and received a vote of confidence from a closed meeting of the association, authorizing equity's mediatorial committee to stand pat on equity's demand for its members of at least eighty per cent of all motion picture employment.

Gillmore announced his committee, after one day of conference last week, at which it became apparent the producers would not assent to the 100 per cent demand, had made the counter offer. The following meeting was featured by the producers' refusal to accept the 80-20 plan.

Ravinia Is Crowded for Concert and Evening of "Rigoletto"

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Two audiences, afternoon and evening, each of dimensions to gladden the managerial heart, assembled at Ravinia yesterday. If you had been there last evening, for instance, you would have seen not only a full pavilion but nine layers of standers back of the rail, and the only reason why there were not more is that the platform is only wide enough to accommodate nine rows. And the afternoon audience was fully comparable to the evening.

It was the fourth annual concert for the Polish Arts club in the afternoon, it was "Rigoletto" in the evening. The connecting link of the two was the mezzo-soprano voice of Ina Bourskaya, who was the soloist in an aria from "Carmen" and a group of Polish songs in the concert, and who appeared as Maddalena in the opera. She was popular in both, as she justly deserved to be.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra led off the concert with a Polonaise by Chopin transcribed from the piano to the orchestra. From that time on the program was the affair of the soloists, Michel Wilkomirski, Chicago violinist, following with a movement from one of the Wieniawski concertos, then Mme. Bourskaya as has been told, finally another singer, named Marceli Sowilski, who was applauded until he had sung as many encores as time would permit. At the end a group from the Alliance of Polish Literary and Dramatic circles danced the national dance of Poland, the Mazur, under the direction of Joseph Kowalewski.

"Rigoletto" brought Mario Basiola into its name rôle, an artist with uncommon gifts of baritone voice and a thorough knowledge of the dramatic values of the part and its traditions as well. There was a high point of operatic achievement when he sang the monologue of the second act, a performance in which he or any other artist could be justified in taking pride.

Florence Macbeth sang the Gilda in a way nothing short of delightful scoring another high mark for her self. It was a pleasure to hear the caressing ease with which she carolled through the famous "Caro Nome, ending it with a skyrocket of high notes such as most sopranos of recent years have been in the habit of omitting. This was one of the times when the audience definitely stopped the performance.

The rôle of the Duke got a graceful, good looking, and excellently sung rendition by Armand Tokatyan, who made love and dashed off an aria with equal poise and finish. And Virgilio Lazzari came to be the Sparafucile with that astonishing subterranean bass voice of his, a thrilling if brief bit. Solos, duets, concerted numbers, and choruses moved with spirited pace under the talented baton of Gennaro Papi.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Helen Forsyth, 203 South Dearborn street, was awarded $5.

The Question.

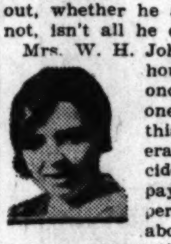
The Answers.

Nathan Pine, 2812 North Whipple street, decorator—At times; I suppose any human being does that occasionally. There are a lot of drivers who have no business on the street. Of course most of us make mistakes when driving, but the majority of those mistakes doesn't amount to much. The road hog is the one I almost swear at.

Mrs. J. H. Hazlett, 1111 41st street, La Grange, Ill., housewife—I feel sorry for them and keep mum. It is easy to see that it would be easy to get into the habit of working one's self into a continuous rage even by making audible comment about drivers and their doings. There's nothing gained by it for anybody.

Alvin Ward, 248 West 60th place, plasterer—It all depends. Sometimes when I do bawl somebody out my wife objects. It is almost impossible to keep from saying something that fits the situation when a careless driver pulls one of his pet tricks. A good bawling out, whether he actually hears it or not, isn't all he deserves.



Mrs. W. H. Johnston, Regis hotel, housewife—I guess once in a while any one does. Previous to this year I did considerable driving, and decided that it doesn't pay to lose one's temper. While stewing about one driver's doings some situation may arise from another car, and you have an accident because you are not watching the road.

S. E. Becker, assistant manager, Metropolitan Life Insurance company—I try to control both wheel and temper, but some drivers ought to be bawled out, and more than bawled out. With the driver, lives are at stake at every instant.

Lard and Sugar Trees Reward Chicago Savant

Who Praises Skill of Indian Doctors.

Mr. Williams made a trip by canoe and afoot from 325 miles into the interior of the Nanay region and returned by another route to Iquitos, Peru.

Mr. Williams and his party went into the jungle with provision packs on their backs, hacking their way with bush knives. Camps were made in abandoned Indian huts made of palm leaves. Often it was necessary to wade for mile knee deep in mud and water and frequently it was necessary to swim across streams.

Mr. Williams collected exotic arboreal and plant material for addition to the foreign woods and plants collection of the museum. He obtained specimens of the sugar tree which has a sweet, edible resin with the consistency of real sugar and the "lard tree," which excretes an oily substance which in all properties is a close affinity to animal fat lard, the botanist reported.

"A remarkable number of medicinal plants grow in the forests and the Indians possess a wealth of knowledge of their properties for curing various ailments, ranging from simple nervous diseases to complications of the internal organs," Williams' report said. "From these plants they have developed specific remedies, which apparently are really efficacious, for rheumatism, nervous disorders, tumors, debility, anemia and other maladies. They also have developed fish poisons which, thrown on the surface of the water, kill all the fish in the vicinity and make the obtaining of a fish dinner easy. The poisoned fish do not harm the human consumer, but often animals drinking the contaminated water die."

On one occasion, while sawing the trunk of a rare tree, members of the party were attacked by a swarm of ants living in the trunk. The ants stung them from head to foot and caused a severe fever for two days.

THEATER

TED LEWIS, who is held to be the most potent of all present-day performers in the varieties, will head next week's bill in the Palace. (It seems needless to add that the mere fact that Mr. Lewis' vogue is inexplicable to me does not affect the other fact of his potency.) Herbert Williams, an amusing cuss for many seasons, also will be in the new program.

"Pleasure-Bound" continues to be in such high favor in the Grand Opera-House that it will be transferred September 1 to the Majestic. The former theater will be required then for "Rain or Shine!" the show in which Joe Cook has been a star for more than a year. Tom Howard also is in it. He may be remembered as a comical chap in at least two issues of the Greenwich Village Follies.

Richard Bird, an English actor as yet unknown in Chicago, will head the cast of "Journey's End" when, September 8, it is shown in the Adelphi. He has successful appearance in at least two rôles to his credit down in New-York. Reginald Mason and Lionel Pape also will be in the Chicago cast of Sherriff's successful war-piece.

It is told that George S. Kaufman was paid $5,000 for a brief sketch, "The Still-Alarm," that has been put into the revue called "The Little Show," which is among the current successes in New York.

Miss Jeanne Eagels' period of punishment by Equity is to expire next month; and expectation is that she will soon resume her career on the stage. Her manager says she has two plays under consideration, and that the one she prefers is yet to be written.

Miss Carolyn Nolté has been engaged to do the principal singing in the impending issue—the tenth—of George White's Scandals. . . . So far, there is no word to indicate that Ed Wynn has given in to Mr. White's request that he head the personnel of the new show.

The list of plays in view in New-York has been shortened by the withdrawal of those respectively named "Bed-Fellows" and "The Jade God."

Expectation is that the next attraction in the Cort will be "Brothers," wherein Bert Lytell, who for a time was a somebody in films, has been acting in New-York.

Paul Cavanagh, a London actor of some popularity, is imported for the principal rôle in "Scotland Yard." Miss Phœbe Foster, Frederick Worlock, and A. P. Kaye also will be in it.

Miss Elsie Ferguson, not too active in recent seasons, is to be in "Scarlet Pages." Robert Williams, here in the first weeks of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," and Miss Clare Luce, once of the Ziegfeld Follies, will be with her.

One of the new plays, "Getting Even," is said to have thirty-nine scenes; and the implication is that "scenes" really means settings.

Marcel Pagnol, of Paris, is to be represented on the American stage this season by two plays—"Marius," which Gilbert Miller is to put on, and "Topaze," imported by the Messrs. Shubert.

Miss Willette Kershaw, who may be recalled by Chicago play-goers as a so-so actress, is seeking to interest Paris is "Maya," a French work closed in New-York by orders of the police. Her advertisements invite the public to see the "forbidden play."

"The Idol," wherein William Farnum has been giving try-out performances, has been laid aside; and it is not likely that further effort will be devoted to it. Martin Brown, who used to be a dancer in the gay shows, wrote it.

High Mass Will Open Supreme K. of C. Meeting

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 11.—[Special.]—Colorful religious demonstrations patterned after those of the Chicago Eucharistic Congress of 1926, are included on the program for the Supreme Convention of Knights of Columbus which will be in session here August 20-22.

A pontifical high mass in the Milwaukee municipal auditorium August 20 will be the opening feature. Addresses of welcome will be given by Gov. Walter J. Kohler and acting Mayor Cornelius Corcoran. More than 30,000 persons will assemble in the Marquette University stadium, Thursday night, Aug. 22, for the closing of the convention.

German Hails Advertising as Help to Peace

Ex-Chancellor Greets World Association.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—Fifteen hundred American members of the World's Advertising congress with their families, bringing up the American contingent to 2,000 were among the 6,000 whom representatives of the German government received at a supper tonight to mark the opening of the congress in the huge Funkhalle, Berlin's exhibition hall.

Former chancellor Dr. Hans Luther, as the honorary chairman of the convention, delivered the address of welcome. He spoke of today's tenth anniversary of the republican constitution, which he claimed to be "One of the forces making the separating walls gradually disappear so that at last nation faces nation and man faces man in the universal cry for sincerity and mutual understanding."

After extolling the power of publicity and propaganda Dr. Luther alluded to the role of propaganda in the late war "as suggestive of the tremendous power of modern propaganda upon public opinion, and its ability to provoke false ideas was proven during the war to mankind's great misfortune."

The passage was given piquantly by the fact that it was delivered in the presence of Lord Birkenhead, one of the men chiefly responsible for British war propaganda.

Dr. Walter Schaetzel, minister of posts, speaking for the government, alluded to the fact that the opening speech of the last advertising congress held in London in 1924 was delivered by former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, then ambassador to London and now "author of the world's most powerful weapon for peace."

Charles C. Younggreen of Milwaukee, president of the National Advertiser's Association of America, spoke in the name of the American delegation.

Hailed as Peace Force.

BERLIN, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The world advertising convention here tonight it was declared in behalf of Lord Riddell, leader of the British delegation, that one object of the congress was "furtherance of peace in the world and a right understanding among nations." Mr. Younggreen of Milwaukee, said: "The real object of advertising is to increase the general prosperity of the world."

Other speakers were Lord Mayor Gustav Boess of Berlin, Charles Maillard, president of the French advertising federation, and Walter A. Strong of Chicago.

Mental Troubles Often Traced to Sight or Hearing

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

A book on the care of babies by Miss Carolyn Conant Van Blarcom, a noted authority on the subject, can be had at The Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, for 50 cents, or by mail for 60 cents. Two booklets by Mrs. Bevans, one on "Prayers and Graces for Children" and another on "Books to Be Read to Children or by Them," will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Even though it is vacation time, school problems occasionally crop up. One rather general one is that of the boy or girl, often just starting school, who has not done well in his or her work during the last year. The child has low marks and is said by the teacher to be slow and inattentive.

"The teacher says my little girl is poor in her work. In every way she is smart enough—she is always on the alert and very observant. She doesn't appear lazy or slow at home—but the teacher says she is that way in school. I try to teach her at home but she doesn't care about working on lessons after school. She has a nap every day, the best of food, lots of outdoors and a long night's rest. Can you help me?"

The first terms at school are hard for some children. They feel the confinement physically, for one thing. They may be by nature deliberate, and this is often interpreted as laziness. Even under pressure, a child of this type cannot speed up—and the effort to do so lessens his accomplishment, or confuses him. Occasionally the teacher does not make the work interesting. Sometimes a child is graded a little too high.

But where none of these causes contributes to the difficulty, there is frequently a physical cause, such as defective eyesight or deafness. Sometimes one of these causes has been discovered when a psychologist has takn a case, and started his work with a physical examination. Sometimes school doctors have discovered it.

It need not be a very serious impairment of sight or hearing to cause an apparent mental slowness or laziness. If a child doesn't see very well or if he sees clearly only with strain and consequent fatigue, if he doesn't hear quite all that goes on then he loses words, misunderstands, makes mistakes, and is inattentive. All of which holds him back in his work at school.

At home it is different. He is near to the people who talk, or they talk directly to him about things which interest him, so that he usually hears well if there is only a slight hearing difficulty. He does not have to use his eyes in the same way at home that he does in school. Often a slight eye or ear trouble will not be apparent until school age is reached.

So if a child is apparently bright or at least up to normal at home but is not so in school, it is well to have a sight and hearing test.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Fresh Tomato Relish.

Think a minute and you will see why it is most reasonable to use fresh tomato juice, as well as canned, as a relish. This juice is but another form of what has been called a "grand appetizer," or even the grand appetizer, yet we must say that this depends somewhat upon the person who may or may not have the appetite.

Perhaps one of the reasons why tomato juice is served more and more as a relish, although few have recognized this reason, is because the tomato is a berry and berry juices are delicious.

Carrying out the berry idea, we may peel tomatoes, cut them in small blocks serve these in a sherbet glass and eat them with a spoon. They are perfectly good plain served thus, as berries of any sort may be, but if we want it to seem a little more as though we were eating berries, we may sprinkle the tomato with a little powdered sugar after putting on a suspicion only of salt.

Always we are urging that when fine tomatoes may be secured every attempt should be made to rely upon their own spicy seasoning alone. You will appreciate it more and more as you try to thus rely.

And we want to say another thing again, although it may seem katydid-like. When a tomato has been well chilled it is a pity to use any method for peeling it—I have tried them all—which will warm or heat it. It is exceedingly easy to wash, wipe and rub it over the back of a knife which will loosen the skin so that it will come off readily from any truly ripe tomato.

Since the high medicinal value of the tomato has been recognized—health constructing it is instead of being health destroying as it was once considered—tomato juice has been taken as an appetizer and health beverage by intelligent men and women and given to babies everywhere. Any one who consciously eats for maintenance uses tomatoes generously in his diet. But while the baby may need to take it in the form of juice, it loses nothing by being served in its own container or pulp. Presently we shall have the meatiest and sweetest tomatoes of the whole year, those with the most delicate acid flavor. Moral: Eat!

Polo Contests to Stir Society at Lake Forest

BY THALIA

The Inter Circuit Polo tournament to be played this week at Onwentsia will provide a welcome break in the midsummer lull which lately settled on Chicago's social world. Hospitable hosts of Lake Forest and nearby communities have started a round of entertaining for the visiting players who represent the best team in each of six circuits and who will compete during the week for the national championship.

Games will be played today, tomorrow, Wednesday, Thursday, and Saturday, starting at 3:30 o'clock each afternoon. The opening game today will be preceded by a parade of polo ponies at 3 o'clock. A new grandstand has just been completed at Onwentsia with 36 newly painted boxes and a total seating capacity of 6,000. Cars may be parked conveniently at good vantage points all around the field.

The teams involved include those from Oak Brook, Wichita Falls, Tex., Midwick, Cal., and the army players from Fort Leavenworth, Kas., Fort Benning, Ga., and Fort Hoyle, Md. The army men are staying at Fort Sheridan and most of the other players are at the Deerpath inn in Lake Forest. Most of the men are accompanied by their wives.

The committee in charge of the meet is headed by Earle H. Reynolds and includes Charles F. Glore, Col. R. R. McCormick, and Paul Butler. Needless to say, the visitors will be guests at a number of luncheons and dinners to be given by the local players and their wives. The Saturday night dinner dance at Onwentsia will climax the festivities.

Next week the 12 goal tournament will be played at Oak Brook, with seven teams entered, including those of the Detroit and Cleveland polo clubs, Oak Brook, Fort Leavenworth, Fort Benning, Fort Hoyle, and Midwick, Cal.

Miss Eleanor McFadden, daughter of Mrs. Parmelee McFadden, and Edward Toole Lay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Lay of Kewanee, Ill., will be married at noon today at the Little Episcopal church chapel in Quebec. Only the families and a few friends will be present at the ceremony, which will be followed by a wedding breakfast at the McFadden summer cottage at Murray Bay. Mr. Lay and his bride will sail tomorrow from Quebec on the Empress of Australia for a honeymoon abroad.

Robert J. Thorne, who was recently elected president of the board of trustees of Lake Forest academy, has announced an enlargement program for the school which will include the building of an addition to the Administration building, a new chapel, an additional dormitory, a new dining hall and a new gymnasium, altogether involving the expenditure of about three-quarters of a million dollars.

The other newly elected officers are Charles F. Glore, vice president; Frank W. Read, treasurer, and Logan T. McMenemy, secretary. The members of the board include F. L. Bateman, George W. Blossom Jr., DeForest Hulburd, A. B. Dick Jr., Clayton Mark, Cyrus McCormick Jr., Kersey Coates Reed, John W. Richards, Fred W. Sargent, Louis F. Swift, Cornelius M. Trowbridge, and Everett L. Wyman.

Miss Rosemary Lytton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lytton of 44 Banks street, will be presented to society by her parents at a tea and reception on Nov. 6. Miss Lytton's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schwarz of 1100 Lake Shore drive, will entertain for her later in the season. She is spending the summer in the east and will return to Chicago shortly after Labor day.

Miss Louise Lackner, daughter of the Francis A. Lackners of Winnetka, is the house guest of Miss Ellen Stuart at the summer residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Stuart, at Charlevoix, Mich.

Miss Constance Hasler, daughter of Mrs. Edward L. Hasler of Lake Forest, will leave soon for Europe to enter Mme. Le Boucher's school in Paris. Her mother will join her in France shortly after the Christmas holidays.

John A. Chapman of Lake Forest has returned from Europe and is staying at present at Onwentsia. Mrs. Chapman and her daughters, Eleanor, Margaret and Virginia, are in Switzerland and will not return until the latter part of September.

Alfred Cowles of 1130 Lake Shore drive has arrived at the El Encanto hotel in Santa Barbara for a stay of several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Armour of 1200 Lake Shore drive and their children are at Jasper Park lodge in the Canadian Rockies. Mrs. Horace Newcomet of 429 Wellington avenue and her daughter, Miss Edith Louise Newcomet, are also among the recent arrivals at the lodge.

Sally's Talkie Party Is Next, Children, Write Your Letters

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Didn't you think the announcement of my next party for Thursday, Aug. 22, at the Chicago theater was the finest sort of news?

I don't know any one in the movies we like better than Thomas Meighan—and won't it be splendid fun to see him in his first "talkie"?

That will be something to remember for a long time to come—for I understand that Mr. Meighan, unlike many screen stars, has one of the finest "talkie" voices there is—and we'll be among the first to see him and pass judgment!

And then there's the picture—the kind every girl and boy likes to see. It's "The Argyle Case"—one of the thrilling mysteries of the year, brimful of action, thrills and bewilderment from beginning to end.

Lila Lee will be one. As you know, she's played opposite Tom many times before and with splendid success. Then there's H. B. Warner, one of the speaking stage's greatest mystery play stars. Zasu Pitts—called by Eric von Stroheim "the greatest tragedienne of the screen"—provides a lot of the mystery that keeps up excitement. And we'll see fat, funny Bert Roach, the new juvenile star; John Darrow, and many others who make up this unusually good cast.

Nor is that all—for Balaban and Katz tell me the stage presentation on our party day will be one of the best of the summer—and I'll have full details I can tell you tomorrow.

But today "the letters are the thing" the letters that will win your invitations—and already you have all the information you'll need to write winning letters. Here are some of the things you can write about:

All girls and boys like movies I know, but do you like the "silent" or the "talkies" best? And especially what do you like about mystery plays—the thrill and excitement, trying to guess the answer, or the skill and wits of the hero? Tell me, too, what pictures you've seen and which you like best and why—also who are your favorite stars and why, or anything else that will make an interesting letter and help me to decide how much fun you'll have at this party if you are among those invited.

But here are a few points you must bear in mind: Your letters must be written and mailed so that they will reach me by Wednesday afternoon at the latest. Give your full name, street address, your age and your grade in school. Also do not ask in your letter for an invitation for brother, sister or little friend; each girl and boy must write their own letter. So get to them now, girls and boys, for remember, I choose the winners on Thursday morning and publish their names in next SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE. Good luck!

TO WED SOON

MISS MARY T. HEFFERNAN.

Mrs. Patrick J. Heffernan of 5429 Crystal street announces the approaching marriage of her daughter, Mary Theresa, to Euzeb Brault, to take place next Wednesday morning at St. Peter Canisius church. The ceremony will be followed by a breakfast at the Hotel Graemere, after which Mr. Brault and his bride will leave for a tour of the Pacific coast.

CHRISTIAN HERALD CLAIMS APPROVAL OF HALTING OF CRUISERS

New York, Aug. 11.—(AP)—The Christian Herald in its current issue says the elected heads of 15 of the largest Protestant denominations have expressed complete approval of President Hoover's disarmament plans, and particularly his decision to suspend the construction of new cruisers, pending a new agreement with Great Britain.

The information, the magazine says, was obtained in a telegraphic referendum, which is conducted among the denomination leaders, representing churches with a combined membership of 15,331,943.

"In addition to these denominational leads," said Stanley High, editor of the Christian Herald, "The referendum includes the support of officials of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America and the president of the national commission of Protestant church women."

Reducing Cause for Divorce? Not if It's Done in Sane Way

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"Diet Blamed for Many Divorces" was the startling headline noticed in one of our metropolitan dailies.

Wives become sour and hard to live with when their systems are nursed on citrus juices and little else, was the gist of the warning following. I wonder how much truth there is in the charge. The only actual divorce cases I know of with reducing written into the records was that of a husband suing because his frau consumed so much candy that her bulk became too excessive for the lightest household duties. And, again, a recent case of a wife suing because her husband refused to try to rid himself of his two hundred and some plus pounds.

On a normal, sane, reducing diet, I claim a woman ought to be more agreeable to live with, a better housekeeper, a more efficient individual than the one whose love of food and rest is fat-creating. Of course, the individual who is not a fanatic either way makes the most comfortable companion.

Some women when they go on a reducing diet go on the old principle of misery loving company and they make life miserable for a family member "vulgar" enough to ask for a second helping. That isn't right. Reducing is a private and personal affair. And it should not be forced on others who show no taste for the shredded oats bill of fare.

However, to get back to the family ructions on account of reducing; certainly if a woman suddenly starts in eating nothing of maintenance foods and startles her system into jumping nerves by some freak diet, you can be sure her character is going to take a turn for the worse. Or, if she diets below her normal weight she has nothing between the outside world and her raw nerves and she may become a terrible trial in a household.

The moral is to be reasonable about reducing. Don't try to get your weight down in time for the date a week from Friday night. Go at it easily and when the pangs of hunger begin to threaten your amicable disposition, give yourself a decent meal and start shaving off again on the morrow. For what does it profit a woman to get her girlish figure back if she lose her best beau to take it out walking?

BEAUTY ANSWERS

J. V. C.: STAINS ON THE NAILS may be removed with lemon juice, tomato juice, or peroxide. Obstinate stains require the use of powdered pumice which has been dampened with peroxide. Dip a nail brush into the preparation and scrub thoroughly.

E. D.: FRUIT ACIDS, SUCH AS grapefruit, orange, and lemon juice, and apples, stimulate a flow of saliva and are cleansing to the teeth. An apple eaten just before going to bed, followed by proper brushing of the teeth, cleanses them and protects them from the action of bacteria during the night.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY FRANK RIDGWAY

Old time "horse trader" methods of selling chickens must go. The "fill" is one of the practices most severely criticized lately. Stuffing the crop of a chicken before it is sent to market wastes feed and fools no one but the man who does the stuffing.

For years many live stock students have condemned the practice of filling the animal's body with feed and water before it is put on the scales at the market place. Now poultrymen consider it folly and even a waste to fill chickens or other fowl merely to make them weigh more.

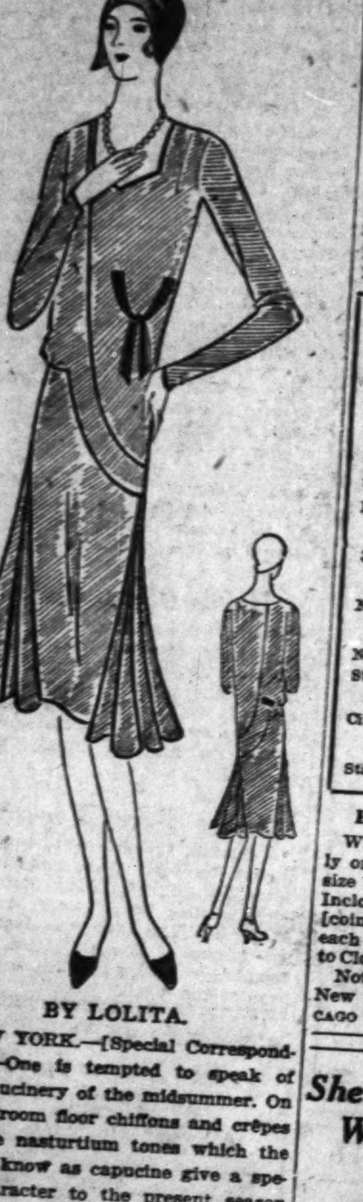
Poultry raisers do not gain anything by the practice. Poultry with crops heavily filled with feed must be discounted in price, because buyers of poultry cannot be expected to pay the same for corn or other feed that they pay for meat, according to W. D. Termohlen of the Iowa station.

He believes that the practice of heavy feeding market poultry is not only poor business on the producer's part but "downright unfairness as well. It is not unusual to find crops weighing a half pound," Mr. Termohlen said.

Heavy feeding is considered harmful to birds and frequently results in low quality. The Iowa specialist also says that when poultry is sold alive in the eastern markets, there is a regulation against crops filled with more than two ounces of feed. Unless the birds dressed in Iowa have empty crops at the time of killing, the feed sours and causes the meat to take on a bad taste. Allowing feed to remain in the crops of dressed birds also results in decomposition and discoloring of the flesh around the crop.

This specialist points out that most of the poultry coming from farms in Iowa is fattened in feeding stations, if it can be made to take on a fattening ration. But birds with heavily filled crops generally will not do well in the feeding stations and consequently are set back. This means poorer quality and appearance and results in a carcass which brings less on the market.

Capucine Tones Stay On Until Fall



BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—One is tempted to speak of the capucinery of the midsummer. On the ballroom floor chiffons and crêpes in these nasturtium tones which the French know as capucine give a special character to the present season and throughout the province of the sports world they are equally characteristic of the smart mode.

Chartreuse, a first cousin of the capucine family, is still with us, and, although its special empire is over sports clothes, it is also featured in both street clothes and evening gowns. For example, we find the above street frock for early fall developed in light weight woolen in this tint.

This model, an imported one, is among the many that divide its allegiance between the normal and the long waist. At the right side the former is indicated to contrast with the deep curve of bodice and skirt at the other side. These curves, described by seams, join with the flaring godets of the skirt and the inset band of orange crêpe on the corsage—the latter ties in detached ends—to make this one of the most stunning models which has emigrated to this side.

Also very much a part of the latest mode is the little bonnet with its long back, the extended piece at the side and, above all, that cut-away front brim which leaves the whole forehead exposed. The elongated back brim distinguishes many of these new tight fitting bonnets and in many cases it serves as a sort of trellis around which the curls of the long bob entwine themselves. This present model is carried out in chartreuse and orange felt.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

The Tribune will pay $1 for every letter published on "The Most Embarrassing Moment of My Life." Address Embarrassing Moments, Chicago Tribune. Write on one side of the paper. No manuscripts returned.

The Thirteenth Trump.

My most embarrassing moment occurred when, as a green young bridge player, I sat in a game with three excellent players who took the game so seriously as to make me self-conscious at the outset.

All went well until my left hand neighbor, securing the bid, sought to draw out her opponent's trumps. Twelve accounted for—where was the thirteenth? We all protested ignorance.

"Mrs. X, you must have it," she remarked.

"O, no! I'm sure I haven't," I replied, reaching to pick up the card that slipped out of my hand.

My face was a study in scarlet. The temperature dropped degrees! It was the thirteenth trump! C. J. T.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

This slender looking, straight line dress is typically a sports one, with the front panel of the bodice cut in a pointed outline and accented by being bound or piped in a contrasting color. If the dress is made of one of the printed wash materials, white pique will look well for the collar and cuffs.

The pattern, 3459, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 2¾ yards of 40 inch material with ½ yard of 36 inch contrasting and 1¾ yards of bias binding.

She Wants a Costly Wedding; It May Cost Her a Mate

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Twenty-nine he is. Earns $45 a week—yet no bank account, he reports. He's very much in love with a girl ten years his junior. Thinks she cares, but her spells of coldness are disconcerting. And she keeps him guessing all the time.

He got the impression the girl's parents were influencing her into looking upon him as a desirable mate. But hints, love letters to the girl herself, provoke silence—nothing more.

Could it be his small income that makes the girl so irresponsive? Or their differences in religion?

He learned she wants a big wedding, ranging around fifteen hundred to two thousand dollars, which started him to thinking of telling the girl diplomatically but firmly of his poor financial condition; that he never could think of marrying for a long time, if ever, and that if she finds any one better than himself, to go ahead.

Does that seem like a wise move? the man asks. And should one in his financial position be resigned to remain a bachelor?

From here it seems like a wise one. Not the bachelor idea, but abandoning hope where this particular young woman is concerned. The girl, maybe, is being persuaded against her feelings and that is a poor substitute for a companionable wife. Then, too, if she is the kind you can't get anything out of, you'd be in for a miserable existence.

However, a salary of $45 a week condemns no man to bachelorhood. The girls, I understand, are asking $50 as the minimum. Not all girls—but a great many of them, especially the earners who know just what one person can buy with $25.

Why no bank account at 29? It doesn't look like good management unless a man has had unusual home demands on his salary. There ought to be something, if only a dollar a week, tucked away out of that $45 for just such an event as marriage.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Sisters Are Rivals.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love my older sister's boy friend. She knows I love him. She doesn't even like him, but just goes with him so he won't have time for me. Shall I tell him I love him? DORIS."

To avoid family complications, you had better wait until your sister gives him up.

He'll Show a Preference.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl friend and I like the same boy. We do not wish to break our friendship. The fellow pays about the same amount of attention to both. Please advise. RU and KA."

There is bound to be a preference shown by him, and when it is that's the cue for the other girl to step aside.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

June was the youngest of several children and, therefore, was made much of by friends and relatives. However, it chanced on one occasion that she was overlooked amid the general greeting when relatives called.

Finally the tears welled to her eyes and, tugging at the skirts of her favorite aunt, she faltered: "Me's here, Aunt Mary, me's here." Needless to say, she received immediate attention from every one present. E. M.

Billy was spending the day at grandma's. Every few minutes he called up on the phone and, thinking he was lonesome, I finally offered to come after him. To my surprise he said, "No, muvver, you stay there. I won't fordet I has you." E. F.

REAL ESTATE LOANS.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

The condition of the money market has not affected our ability to [illegible] meet the requirements of Chicago home owners who might desire second mortgage loans.

Money rates have been high, and the charges against second mortgage loans are up. It may be that our rates are too low, but so long as we enjoy the favorable circumstances [illegible] we have in the past it has not been found necessary to raise them.

We are still charging 6% [illegible] interest, and a commission of [illegible] for a 1 year loan, 6% for a 2 [illegible] loan, and 9% for a 3 year loan. These commissions are applied regardless of whether the borrower chooses to liquidate his loan in installments of 2% a month, or more.

We believe that we offer to home owners of Chicago and suburbs not only a unique plan of second mortgage financing, but one which is saving them a tremendous amount of financing charge.
